G. M. REYNOLDS DIRECTOR OF BIG BANKING POOL

Named One of 12 to Pass on Loans.

BY O. A. MATHER.

George M. Reynolds, dean of Chicago bankers and chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, will represent the Chicago federal reserve district in the $500,000,000 banking pool arranged by President Hoover for the purpose of "unfreezing" bank resources throughout the country. Mr. Reynolds will be one of the twelve directors, each chosen from a federal reserve district, of the National Credit corporation, which is the corporate name of the pool.

The directors of the corporation will pass final judgment on loans to be made from the pool to banks throughout the country on collateral which is not now eligible for rediscounting at the Federal Reserve banks. They will receive the applications for loans recommended by the local banking organizations in the different federal reserve districts. Therefore, the directors of the National Credit corporation will exercise final authority in regulating the flow of new credit and apportioning it to the various districts.

Six from Each District.

The full list of directors of the new corporation, with the district of each, follows:

1—GEORGE S. WING, chairman of board, First National bank, Boston.

2—WINTHROP N. BUCKNER, chairman of board, New York Trust company, New York.

3—WORTHINGTON S. JONES, president, First National bank, Philadelphia.

4—EUGENE E. BRAUN, president, Farmers Deposit National bank, Pittsburgh.

7—GEORGE M. REYNOLDS, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Chicago.

8—WALTER W. SMITH, president, First National bank, St. Louis.

9—EDWARD W. DECKER, president, Northwestern National bank, Minneapolis.

10—W. S. McLUCAS, chairman of board, Commerce Trust company, Kansas City.

11—NATHAN ADAMS, president, First National bank, Dallas, Tex.

12—FRANK B. ANDERSON, chairman of board, Bank of California, N. A., San Francisco.

Participation of banks in the Chicago federal reserve district, which embraces Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan, is scheduled to be worked out today. Representatives of Chicago banks that are members of the Chicago Clearing House association will meet at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the association's headquarters in the Federal Reserve building, La Salle street and Jackson boulevard. It also is expected that representatives of clearing house associations in other cities in this district, including such key cities as Detroit, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, and Des Moines, will attend.

Will Determine Pledge Quota.

The meeting will decide whether the banks will join in pledging participation in the national pool to the extent of 2 per cent of their total deposits, as did the New York clearing house banks, or whether their contribution shall be some lesser pro-rata sum. Under the 2 per cent quota the banks of the Chicago reserve district would be expected to contribute around $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 to the national pool, if it is limited to $500,000,000.

Another point that today's meeting will decide is whether the banks shall unite to form a single committee for the district or whether there shall be several local committees. Chicago bankers advocate the central committee plan, as it is the local committees which will receive applications for loans from the banks, pass on the collateral offered, and then recommend the loan, if approved, to the national directors in New York.

Chicago bankers yesterday discussed the possibility that funds subscribed by banks in one district might be quickly diverted to other districts. The setup of the national pool makes no provision that funds raised in a district shall be used solely in that district; on the contrary, it is expressly provided that the funds shall be used wherever the directors may decide.

Confidence Seen Restored.

While there may develop considerable rivalry among the districts to secure funds, several Chicago bankers expressed belief that with every district having a director in the national organization no district would be able to secure an unduly large proportion of the general fund.

It also was the opinion of some Chicago bankers that formation of the

CAPONE'S TRAIL OF GOLD TRACED IN LUXURY SALES

$12,500 for an Auto; $30 for a Shirt.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Out of the massed details of evidence which the federal investigators have been gathering against Al Capone for three years, the real picture of Chicago's gangland leader began to taken on the finishing touches yesterday as the government rushed 18 witnesses through the box in Capone's income tax trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

JOHNNY TORRIO.

The government may be able to close its case by tonight, as it has only six more witnesses. Johnny Torrio, who first employed Capone in Chicago at $75 a week, and a number of Cicero gamblers are expected to be the principal ones among these witnesses. Sensational evidence as to Capone's income and organization is promised.

Show Steady Flow of Gold.

From all the testimony of Capone's spending methods given yesterday and on previous days, it appears that he never had more than a few thousand dollars at a time, but that this came with weekly regularity. He often made deposits of a few hundreds and came in the next week to pay the balance. His tastes grew more expensive and his income evidently larger during the last three years.

Expenditures aggregating $40,000 during 1927, 1928, and 1929, were shown yesterday by the government. The prosecution even detailed Capone's underwear styles, his gifts of match lighters, and diamond belt buckles, his taste in furniture and decorations. His favorite colors, it appeared, are green and canary, and he has a decided notion of his own about house decorations.

Capone listened rather wearily to all these personal disclosures, and his attorneys were frankly uninterested.

"I don't even care enough to object," said Attorney Albert Fink, when the prosecutor showed the jurors one of 30 diamond belt buckles which Capone had purchased for $275 each.

Bodyguard Back to Jail.

Capone was unaccompanied by any guard yesterday. His friend and bodyguard, Philip d'Andrea, was returned to the county jail after an appearance before Judge Wilkerson at 10 o'clock in the morning to answer a charge of contempt of court. He was arrested Saturday noon as he was leaving the courtroom and, on being searched, was found to have a .38 caliber loaded revolver.

D'Andrea had made no preparations for defense and made none when he was called before the bar. Attorneys Fink and Michael Ahern spoke up for him, but said they had not been retained in that case. They asked for a delay and D'Andrea said he would like until Friday or Saturday. The judge gave him until tomorrow morning to show cause why he should not be punished.

"The federal court is not obliged to exercise its functions in the presence of armed men in the courtroom," Judge Wilkerson said during the colloquy with the lawyers. It was indicated that there might be a dispute over the facts in the case, and this may delay the main trial today.

Told About Capone Homes.

The jurors heard yesterday of three Capone homes, one at Miami Beach, one at 7244 Prairie avenue, and one at the Metropole, until June 28, 1928, when the gangster moved to the Lexington hotel. Capone personally did the shopping for each of these places, buying Chinese rugs, bowls, vases, draperies, and all kinds of furniture.

The migration of the gang to the Lexington was told with some reluctance by Walter Housen, night clerk at the Lexington. There was a telephone arrangement and on the day set the gang walked in and took possession of ten rooms, he said. There was a page of the hotel registry introduced ifito evidence. Capone was registered as George Phillips, the clerk said. The clerk had known him at the Metropole as "Mr. Ross." He bought goods as Al Brown. He received money as A. Costa.

Housen said he "couldn't get anybody to sign the register," and so he wrote in a lot of names himself.

"Just made them up?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir, made them up."

Capone, he said, had a three room

SUPREME COURT GETS BOUNCING ILLINOIS CHECKS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Among the questions before the Supreme court for which it has no answer is how Harold J. Bandy, a Granite City, Ill., attorney, happened to give it two checks which failed to produce their face value in cash.

Bandy, who was admitted to practice before the court on the motion of Representative Rainey of Illinois, was called upon today by the court to show why he should not be disbarred for having given it two checks totaling $85 returned marked "No funds."

The checks were given by Bandy in filing a petition for his client, Harry Blockburger, seeking a review of his conviction at Springfield, Ill., of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Cermak Lays Woes of City to Prohibition

America was styled a "land of the free that now has more land and less freedom" last night by Mayor Cermak at the Columbus day banquet of the Justinian Society of Advocates. The banquet was held in the Palmer house. The mayor blamed prohibition for a large share of the city's financial and crime difficulties. One thousand Italians listened to him.

After recounting the fact that the voters of Illinois had twice voted against prohibition by a two to one majority, the mayor said, "I well remember the day prohibition came—July 1, 1919, while I was chairman of the license committee of the city council.

"On that day we closed 7,152 saloons and 15,000 blind pigs were opened.

What Follows Prohibition.

"We were told that prohibition would decrease crime and insanity. Six months afterward the police force was increased by 1,000 and another 1,000 has been added since.

"The state insane asylum is crowded to the doors now. We built a new jail and sold the old one, but never turned it over because it could not be emptied of prisoners."

"The city was deprived of $10,000,000 in license revenues by prohibition, and extra police protection cost it other millions."

The mayor asserted that there had been less crime in the last three months than any similar period during the last ten years. He reaffirmed his determination to put every policeman on the streets.

Addressing himself to a group of school teachers in the audience, he said: "The reason you have not been paid is that the city is paying a million dollars in interest daily. I am going to continue cleaning out the city hall until you have a business administration similar to any private enterprise."

Plunges to Death from Y. M. C. A. Hotel Window

A man registered as H. Smit of Grand Rapids, Mich., leaped or fell to his death from his eighth floor room in the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue early this morning. His body landed on the roof of the courtway, three floors above street level. Police found a bank book bearing the name of Smit in the man's room, showing that his savings account of $1,244 in 1927 had been steadily depleted since then. The man was about 55 years old.

FOOTBALL FAN, STRUCK IN CAFE QUARREL, DIES

A celebration last Saturday night after the Notre Dame-Northwestern football game resulted indirectly in the death last night of Earl Healy, 32 years old, a Detroit broker, in the Passavant hospital.

Healy and his wife came to Chicago last week to attend the football game. On Saturday night the Healys and a party of friends visited the Café de Alex, 58 East Delaware place. They discussed the prowess of the South Bend eleven. At an adjoining table sat a group of Northwestern supporters.

A quarrel arose over the merits of the teams. During the dispute one of the men at the other table is said to have made a disparaging remark about Healy's wife. Healy resented the remark and the man struck him on the head with a heavy water bottle. Healy was taken to the hospital, where he died of a skull fracture.

POLICE BATTLE RACINE REDS; 8 INJURED, JAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Communists rioted here tonight as police sought to break up a Red rally being held without a permit, and were dispersed only after police had wielded their night sticks on the mob leaders and arrested seven men and a girl.

All of those arrested were considerably bruised about their heads and faces, and Drs. L. N. Schnetz and A. J. Williams were called to dress the wounds. None had been seriously injured, however.

WORLD'S PEACE PERILED, CHINA TELLS LEAGUE

GENEVA, Oct. 13.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The league council convened at noon today to consider the dispute between China and Japan over the occupation of Manchuria with Foreign Minister Briand of France in the chair. M. Briant presided in the absence of President Alejandro Lerroux of Spain.

The chairman reviewed the events leading up to the conflict and recalled the promises of both parties not to aggravate the situation. He said the council's hopes for a pacific settlement unhappily had not been realized.

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, declared in an emotional appeal for the league's intervention that the entire edifice of world peace would collapse if the league failed to settle the controversy.

The Chinese attitude has been calm and loyal while awaiting the league's work of justice and peace, he said in English. He invoked the covenant and the Kellogg pact and declared that security and disarmament would crash if the league fails to perform its duty.

Crowds gathered late yesterday afternoon around the Monroe theater at 59 West Monroe street following the terrific explosion of a bomb that had been tossed at the roof of the show house.

No damage was done to the theater itself, but windows in the offices of the Chicago Real Estate board, which leases space in the theater building, were shattered and the lives of several stenographers were endangered. Broken glass was hurled on them.

Apparently the bomber, standing by an open window in the taller Westminster building to the east, had thrown his explosive at an airshaft on the theater roof. This airshaft leads to the booth where nonunion operators, imported from New York in the Allied Independent Theater Owners' association fight against the demands of union operators, were at work.

Bomb Explodes Prematurely.

Investigation by Lieut. David Schwartz of the First district police indicated that the terrorist's aim had been bad and that his missile struck against the wall of the realty board offices and exploded prematurely. These offices are on the second floor above the lobby, and their rear windows face over the roof covering the interior of the house.

About 250 persons in the theater, which has a seating capacity of 1,000, heard the blast and a few left hurriedly.

The bomb was the twelfth hurled at show houses since the theater owners refused longer to meet the demands of the union operators and imported their own workers from the east. Edward Trinz, manager of the theater, has been active on the owners' side.

Further Parleys Called Futile.

Aaron Saperstein, president of the Theater Men's association, said that this outrage and the bombing of the Argmore theater at 1049 Argyle street on Sunday made it impossible any longer to carry on peace negotiations with the operators' union, headed by Thomas E. Maloy. A conference, one of a series that has so far brought no results, was set for today in Corporation Counsel Sexton's office, but the owners indicated they would have nb offer to make.

After a visit to the Monroe theater following the bombing, the owners' attorney, Theodore Levin, said he would demand decisive action against bombers by the police.

"Something must be done at once to protect life and property," he said. "The lives of innocent workers were endangered by this explosion. Those in the Eeal Estate board offices were fortunate to escape injury."

Those nearest the windows at the time were Miss Vinita Strutt, 3612 Pine Grove avenue; Miss Mary Haines, 6552 Lakewood avenue, and Miss Marie Geary, 652 East 90th street.

Mayor Promises Action.

Both Mayor Cermak and State's Attorney Swanson, on being informed of the violence, declared that further steps would be taken to curb the bombers.

"Commissioner Allman will be instructed to increase the guard over the theaters," the mayor said.

The state's attorney said that his investigation was being carried on by Patrick Roche, and that the latter was making progress. Roche left yesterday for New York by airplane, and Mr. Swanson said it was probable he would confer with officials of the International Motion Picture Operators' union and ask their assistance in discovering who was responsible for outrages here.

JAPAN ACCUSED OF NEW ATTACK BY AIR FORCE

League and U. S. to Back Pacts.

BULLETIN.

PEIPING, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Chinese headquarters in Manchuria reports that several Japanese airplanes bombed a train on the Tahushan railway, between Mukden and Chinchow, today while Chinese troops were embarking for the south. No casualties were reported.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—With Japan and China on the verge of war, the United States and European powers, it became known tonight, were considering drastic measures of intervention to preserve peace in the far east.

PRENTISS GILBERT. [Harris & Ewing.]

The first step likely to be taken is the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact by the United States and the league of nations. Recalcitrance on the part of Japan or China may lead to a severance of diplomatic relations with the offending nation by the United States and the members of the league. The failure of Japan up to date to withdraw its troops within the zone of the South Manchurian railway, which it controls, in defiance of the orders of the league, has caused one of the European powers to suggest a joint withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Tokio as a measure for disciplining the Japanese government.

Crisis Coming Today.

The Chinese-Japanese imbroglio, which already has caused considerable bloodshed in Manchuria, will reach a crisis at a meeting of the council of the league of nations at Geneva tomorrow.

The stage is set for coöperative action by the United States and the league if the league council decides to adopt the course suggested by the Hoover administration, which is the invocation of the multilateral treaty binding all nations to renounce war and settle all international disputes by pacific means. When the league council meets, Prentiss Gilbert, American consul general at Geneva, will be at hand with instructions from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to participate in the meeting of the council if invited to do so.

The expectation here is that unless the Japanese delegate to the league, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, succeeds in staving off action in the council meeting tomorrow, Mr. Gilbert will be invited to participate and that the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand pact will be the outcome.

Three Courses Open.

Unless the council decides to allow Japan and China further time in which to compose their differences it may choose one of the following three courses of action:

1. Invocation of the machinery provided by the league of nations covenant for preventing or stepping a war by coercion of the belligerents, both Japan and China being members of the league and subject to its jurisdiction.

2. Invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact, by means of which the league would bring to its assistance the United States and possibly Russia and other signatories to the multilateral treaty who are not members of the league.

3. Invocation of the nine power treaty of 1922, providing for consultation of the powers in the event of a breach of the peace in the far east.

The league machinery for the prevention of war by penalizing the disputant which refuses to submit the controversy to pacific settlement has never worked successfully against any of the major powers.

The league has always been palsied when confronting a nation capable of defying it.

In the present crisis in Manchuria, Japan virtually has defied the league, insisting that it will settle its dispute with China in its own way without outside intervention. The league council at its last meeting ordered Japan to withdraw its armed forces to the Japanese railway zone by Oct. 14 and ordered China to afford protection to Japanese nationals in all places under Chinese jurisdiction.

China replied with assurance of such protection of Japanese nationals. The Japanese government said its troops would be withdrawn as soon as it could be done with due consideration for the safety of Japanese outside of the railway zone.

Then followed the bombing of Chinchow by Japanese military aviators for the purpose of deterring Chang Hsueh-Liang, war lord of Manchuria, from establishing his capital in that city. Japan appears determined to break the power of young Chang, who is not so amenable to Japanese influence as his father, the late Chang Tso-Lin.

The powers have been particularly aroused by this act of the Japanese army.

The Japanese government is endeavoring to convince Mr. Stimson of its pacific intentions.

Katsuji Debuchi, after a talk with the secretary of state this afternoon, said: "There will be no war between such kindred peoples as Japan and China." Japan, he asserted, has no imperialistic ambitions in Manchuria.

LEAGUE MEETS TODAY

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—America's support of the league of nations, voiced in Secretary of State Stimson's note, which was received here today, is expected to strengthen the position and authority of the league council when it meets tomorrow in extraordinary session to resume consideration of the Sino-Japanese dispute. League circles were jubilant over the Stimson memorandum, which promised to back the council to the limit and take parallel steps to produce a settlement.

Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, arrived here today to participate in the meeting. Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, arrived from London yesterday. Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, has been here since the last meeting in September. In the absence of Alejandro Lerroux, Spanish foreign minister, who is detained at Madrid, Salvador de Madariaga, Spanish ambassador to Washington, is representing Spain.

Reading Has Private Talks.

Lord Reading had long talks separately with Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, and Yoshizawa today. A note from London based on dispatches from British officials at Mukden was received by Sir Eric. It asserts that two battalions of Japanese troops are occupying that city, 350 are at Kirin, 220 miles away, and 400 or 500 others are at strategic points in the district. There are 2,000 men outside the railway zone and the total strength is 12,000 men.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. a committee of five, representing Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, and Spain, will meet to examine the situation and a public session will be held at noon, when Yoshizawa will give a detailed statement of the Japanese point of view. He is expected to stand pat on Tokio's agreement to evacuate Manchuria only when the Chinese are ready to protect the lives and property of Japanese civilians in the region involved.

Will Refuse Intervention.

He also will refuse outside intervention, including that of the league through a committee of inquiry. He will insist that the affair is purely a question between Nanking and Tokio and propose again that direct Sino-Japanese negotiations begin at once.

It is expected that Dr. Sze will now insist upon sending a neutral committee to the spot to investigate the whole situation and this is expected to cause a deadlock. Then, observers predict, more time will be wasted while the Japanese await further advices from Tokio.

JAPAN'S CABINET IN PERIL OVER ROW WITH CHINA

Militarists Seek to Force "Strong Arm" Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 13 [Tuesday].—Almost simultaneously with President Chiang Kai-shek's declaration at Nanking that China is ready to go to war with Japan should the league of nations council fail to effect a settlement of the Manchurian crisis Japanese politics took on an ominous air.

Information from reliable sources indicates that Premier Wakatsuki has been forced by the senior statesmen to disclaim and abandon the so-called "weak-kneeded Shidehara" diplomacy towards China, so that the government may stand behind the army's actions in Manchuria. It is felt that a cabinet crisis may be averted if Baron Kijuro Shidehara, foreign minister, is persuaded to alter his attitude, which is to settle the dispute by peaceful negotiations, and thus enable the cabinet to back the army's "strong arm" policy.

Fate of Cabinet at Stake.

Considerable speculation as to the fate of the Japanese cabinet was evidenced following a series of important conferences of government leaders and movements of elder statesmen and advisers to the throne yesterday. The meetings continued until late last night.

The events which caused rumors of a cabinet crisis to fly began when the former premier, Count Keigo Kiyoura, leader of the Conservatives, called on Count Nobuaki Makino, lord keeper of the privy seal. Later Premier Wakatsuki called on Count Kiyoura as well as on two former premiers, Admiral Count Gombei Yamamoto and Korekiyo Takahashi.

Calls In Shidehara.

Last night Baron Kumao Harada, chief secretary to Prince Kimmochi Saionji, only surviving member of the Genro, called on Premier Wakatsuki. Then Premier Wakatsuki called in Foreign Minister Shidehara and Kenzo Adachi, home minister, his chief aids, and discussed the question for over an hour. It is understood that Wakatsuki will see Tsuyoshi Inukai Takeshi, president of the Seiyukai, chief opposition party, today. Some circles say they may discuss the formation of a national government.

Indicating that the press will stand staunchly behind any change to a stronger policy in China, editorials in practically all papers this morning defended Japan's position. Nichi Nichi feels that the league of nations, which meets today, cannot go beyond repeating the advice served on China and Japan at the previous session, for, it is contended, no change has occurred since that time except for remarkably intensified anti-Japanese movements throughout China. The situation in Manchuria has not improved to such an extent as to enable the withdrawal of troops, the paper insists.

"Japan exercised every patience and it was not until China resorted to actual offensive operations that Japanese troops arose in arms," the newspaper Asahi said.

Scoff at War Threat.

Chiang Tso-pin, Chinese minister to Tokio, had a three hour conference with Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, yesterday. Both officials set forth the viewpoints of their respective governments and the conditions upon which they insist for the opening of formal peace negotiations.

President Chiang's war threat was scoffed at by Japanese officials, who pointed out that he had made similar threats in the past, but that nothing had come of them. One official said President Chiang was merely trying to save his face by forcing the league and the American government to act in China's behalf.

Meanwhile thousands of Japanese publicly mourned the deaths of thirty-two Japanese soldiers who were killed in the recent fighting in Manchuria. The ashes of these victims arrived in Tokio on a special funeral train en route to Sendai. They were all residents of that city. Huge crowds met the funeral train at the railroad station here. After a military funeral at Sendai, the spirits of the dead will be enshrined.

Chiang's War Threat.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12.—President Chiang Kai-Shek today issued a virtual ultimatum of war against Japan.

"I hereby declare the government's patience has been tested to the last degree," he said in a speech. "If the league of nations fails her, China will take the matter into her own hands. China respects the covenant and the Kellogg anti-war pact, but if the league and the signatories of the pact fail to uphold their sacred duties, China will not hesitate to make the supreme sacrifice, bankrupting the country for half a century and go to war to uphold its dignity and the sacred rights of international agreements to safeguard world peace."

Chiang expressed hope that tomorrow's meeting of the league council would arrange a just settlement of the Sino-Japanese problem and take steps to "prevent almost inevitable war."

Believed for Foreign Consumption.

Today's gesture by Chiang Kai-Shek is interpreted as having the threefold purpose of stampeding the league into espousing China's cause, rushing the United States into a declaration inimical to Japan's position and an adroit move to consolidate his own strength in the face of domestic political changes occasioned by the shattering of the power of his ally, Chang Hsueh-Liang, Manchurian war lord, and the corresponding growth of Canton's prestige.

Despite this declaration against Japan, which is believed here to have been designed primarily for foreign consumption, Chiang is rapidly moving reliable troops and enormous stores of war supplies into a pivotal strategic area in central China, evidently fearing civil war more than Japan. Chiang is transferring loyal units from Kiangsu, Anhwei, Chekiang, and Kiangsi provinces into Honan and Hupeh provinces, and it is reported he will establish personal headquarters at Chengchow or Loyang, Honan.

This move is evidently based upon Chiang's resignation to the inevitable—giving up of the presidency and other civil posts. Under a projected arrangement, central and south China will be divided into a curious checkerboard of regional military zones and "neutral areas," which, experts predict, will almost inevitably provoke new civil wars. The general scheme is for the Canton and Kwangsi factions to move into most of the territories evacuated by the Nanking forces.

Tomorrow all schools in Nanking will demand under penalty of expulsion that all students subscribe to the following oath:

"Before the blue sky, before the white sun, before our fatherland, before the graves of our ancestors, we, the faculty and students, solemnly swear as long as we live never to use anything made by Japanese. Should we break this oath may heaven and men kill us."

Bitter anti-Japanese propaganda is increasing markedly here and Chinese merchants found guilty of selling Japanese goods are imprisoned in hastily improvised extralegal anti-Japanese association jails and fined from $5,000 to $10,000.

LEAGUE STATISTICS OF ARMAMENTS OF CHINA AND JAPAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The latest statistics on comparative armaments compiled by the league of nations estimated the strength of the Chinese armies in January, 1929, at 1,800,000 men.

Effectives of the Japanese army were set at 210,880. The statistics also included under "effectives" 66,450 police.

China's naval strength was given a total tonnage of 40,292 tons. This was made up of six cruisers, twelve destroyers and forty ships listed as "miscellaneous craft." Four of the six cruisers were constructed before 1900, while virtually every other vessel noted in detail was constructed more than twenty years ago.

Japan's naval tonnage was placed at 798,294 tons, made up of ten battleships and battle cruisers, three aircraft carriers, thirty-seven cruisers, ninety-five destroyers, sixty-six submarines and eleven "miscellaneous craft."

SPANISH TROOPS GUARD CONVENTS; RIOTS THREATEN

MADRID, Oct. 12.—(AP)—State troops and police were guarding churches and convents in provincial towns tonight in anticipation of possible trouble when the national assembly resumes consideration of the constitutional provision of the relations between the church and the state tomorrow. Dispatches from Balaguer in Catalonia said police were guarding religious houses following an attempt this morning to bomb Catholic schools.

Jobless Mob Loots Shops.

SEVILLE, Spain, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Police broke up demonstrations of unemployed here today after several hundred persons had attacked and looted food shops. The bakers were on strike and military authorities supplied the city with bread.

LOVE'S TABLES TURNED; SWAIN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Spurns One Girl, Then Other Spurns Him.

For five years Leo J. Lynch, 27 years old, 800 Fullerton parkway, had been the steady suitor of Miss Caroline Spolinger, 34 years old, 4017 North Kenneth avenue. In midsummer his fancy changed. He was less thereafter in the company of Miss Spolinger and more in the company of Miss Katherine Curran, 25 years old, 3616 Rokeby street.

When Miss Spolinger learned of this she mentioned it to Lynch. For three months he continued to reassure her, to insist that he still loved her and that his attentions to Miss Curran meant nothing.

But the old flame, although she seemed to accept his explanations, privately did not believe them. Yesterday she said to him:

"Katherine must be a fine girl. I'd like to meet her. I've heard so much about her."

Arranges Meeting of Rivals.

Lynch reluctantly consented to get them together. He invited Miss Curran to come to his apartment. When she arrived last night Lynch was there and so was Miss Spolinger and when they were all comfortably seated it was Miss Spolinger who opened the conversation.

"I want an answer," she said to her sweetheart, or ex-sweetheart. "Do you love me or do you love Katherine?"

Lynch agreed with her that she should have a truthful answer.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I love Katherine. I hate to say it, Caroline, but I can't help it. You're a fine girl, too; but I can't deceive you any more."

There was a little silence. Then Miss Spolinger took up her questioning again, this time of Miss Curran.

"You heard what he said, Katherine. Now I know, and maybe Leo doesn't know, that you have a steady boy of your own. You're engaged to him. Are you going to leave the man you have for Leo?"

Katherine Makes Decision.

There was another little interval, and then Katherine Curran answered.

"No," she said, "I don't think I can do that. I don't think I love Leo enough. Maybe I had better go home."

Lynch pleaded with her, but Miss Curran was firm. She said her eyes had been opened and that both duty and inclination led her the same way.

As she started for the door Lynch settled his problem. He drew a revolver from a table drawer and shot himself in the abdomen. Both the girls he had loved were with him when Police Sergeant Paul Mielke arrived to take him to the Grant hospital. Later he was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

MERCY PLEAS OF 3 DOOMED SLAYERS TO BE HEARD TODAY

The state board of pardons and paroles today will hear pleas for commutation of sentence made by three convicted murderers awaiting electrocution in the Cook county jail.

Applicants are Charles Rocco, John Popescu, and Frank Bell. Rocco and Popescu pleaded guilty to the murder of Courtney R. Merrill, banker, 3026 East 92d street, who resisted when they tried to take his automobile from him on Oct. 28, 1930. Judge Philip J. Finnegan sentenced them to death when he learned they were also accused of committing a murder at East Chicago. The Illinois Supreme court upheld the verdict last Friday.

Bell and Richard Sullivan were convicted of killing Chris Patras, a restaurant owner, during a robbery. Sullivan has no plea for a commutation. Unless the state board acts the four men are to be electrocuted on Friday.

An application for parole was made to the board by John L. Esser, Aurora banker, who was sentenced in 1927 for embezzling $600,000.

UNPAID TEACHERS UNABLE TO FEED FAMISHED PUPILS

It's Up to Hungry School Children's Fund.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4139 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Undeniably, hard times have been knocking on Chicago's door for months. Just how hard those times are one doesn't realize fully until the teachers in the city schools, themselves unpaid for many a month, recite the conditions among their pupils. They coped successfully with conditions when they had the funds, but they must depend on the hungry school children's fund opened by THE TRIBUNE.

Marie Voy Brewster, principal of the William K. Sullivan school, paints the details vividly in an appeal for assistance from the fund. She says:

"This school is located in the steel mills district, and there is much poverty among our pupils even in the best of times. Last year the situation was acute, but the teachers rallied to the aid of their charges and gave without stint to help the half clad and underfed children through the winter.

Teachers Have Own Problems.

"This year, however, the teachers themselves have not been paid for almost six months, and many of them have lost their savings in the neighborhood banks that have closed, so that even welfare is a problem to many, and helping their pupils is out of the question.

"We have made a survey of the school and find that there are 96 families (not of one or two, but families of six, seven, and even ten children) where the fathers are out of work and there is no income whatever, and we have these times that number where the fathers or mothers work only from one to three days a week.

"Will you help us to give these children food enough to keep them from actual hunger while we are trying to teach them?"

Multiplied many times, that is the question to be met by the Hungry School Children's fund. Warm meals served last year to these needy youngsters will be provided again this year if sufficient response is received from the public. But with 15,000 such cases known to the teachers of the various schools, and perhaps even more whose plight has not been revealed, it is going to take many thousands more to handle the situation.

Parent-Teacher Groups Help.

Parent-Teacher associations of numerous schools have been acting as aids to the teachers in their difficulties. Jack A. Chandler, principal of the Merrill school, acknowledged their help in a letter in which she said:

"May I congratulate this newspaper upon the foresight that has prompted you to start at this time a found for supplies for the children? Last year the Merrill P. T. A. and teachers gave milk, cocoa and sandwiches to scores of children who could not afford to buy their noonday meal. Unfortunately the P. T. A. has its funds tied up in a bankrupt bank, and the teachers, unpaid since April can do nothing.

"Unless the generous public gives funds, our children will suffer this winter."

Various benefits by individuals and organizations are in prospect for the fund. Mrs. Marietta Bosworth Willis of Hollywood, who is impresario for a Mother Goose operetta composed by her father and produced with much success in California for charity, yesterday expressed a wish to stage a benefit performance.

Two energetic little girls, Shirley Cusnick and Lewan Sutton, both 9 years old, read about the fund the other day and started in to help it grow. They first picked flowers from their own yards and sold them to neighbors, garnering nearly $5. Yesterday they operated a stand at 75th street and Chappell avenue where they sold cookies and popcorn prepared by their mothers, clearing altogether about $5 for the benefit of their hungry schoolmates.

W-G-N TO OFFER C. B. S. PROGRAMS AT STATED HOURS

Station Will Continue Own Studio Staff.

Beginning Nov. 1, W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station on the Drake hotel, will broadcast programs of the Columbia Broadcasting system. The station will continue to be wholly owned and operated by THE TRIBUNE. A limited number of hours of the station's time has been agreed upon and will be devoted to Columbia programs, most of them emanating from New York.

The new arrangement will bring to W-G-N listeners many of the greatest stars of the musical and dramatic world, including Toscha Seidel, Arthur Pryor's band, Leopold Stokowski conducting the Philadelphia orchestra; Morton Downey, Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, Ben Bernie's, Abe Lyman's and Guy Lombardo's orchestras.

Augment Own Programs.

These programs will augment W-G-N's imposing roster of artists and features, which include the dance orchestras of Wayne King, Earl Burtnett, Ted Weems, Art Kassel, and "Tweet" Hogan; "Clara, Lu 'n' 'Em"; Lawrence Salerno, Allan Grant and Del Owen, "Little Orphan Annie," "The Gumps," "Harold Teen," the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, "Easy Aces," Tom, Dick, and Harry; the Clef Barons, the Rondoliers and the Miniature Minstrels; Leonard Salvo, Mark Love, Lewis White and Natalie Alt; "Painted Dreams" and the "Singing Lady," and scores of others.

Station W-G-N maintains a staff of almost a hundred and fifty, comprising program directors, composers, writers, musicians, actors, salesmen, and radio operators. It has pioneered in developing new types of programs and features for the radio audience. It broadcast the Scopes evolution trial from a Tennessee courtroom. It was the first station in Chicago to stage a nightly comic strip; it was the first to broadcast the Kentucky Derby and the Indianapolis 500 mile auto races. In 1928 it was the only individual station in the United States to broadcast the Republican and Democratic conventions, from Kansas City and Houston. It has been the only Chicago broadcaster to maintain both a symphony and dance orchestra in its studios, a dramatic and operatic company, a special staff of librettists and composers for original music.

Offer Varied Programs.

It will weld the newly acquired Columbia programs into its own broadcasting schedule, to deliver to its listening audience the finest and most varied radio entertainment in the United States.

Since the sale of an interest in WMAQ to the National Broadcasting company, a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, W-G-N remains the only Chicago station wholly owned and operated by a newspaper.

$8,000,000 STEAMSHIP PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The new $8,000,000 turbine-electric liner President Coolidge arrived in the harbor today, the latest addition to the Dollar Line fleet, from the shipyards of Newport News, Va. It was in command of Capt. K. A. Ahlin, a veteran of the line.

The vessel was sponsored by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and launched at the shipyards on Feb. 21. In naming the vessel Mrs. Coolidge used water from the swimming hole near the Coolidge farm in Vermont.

The new liner is said to be the largest vessel ever built in this country for an American steamship company. It is electrically equipped with Westinghouse motors. It has a displacement of 33,800 tons, a speed of 21 knots. There are accommodations for 1,240 passengers and a crew of 300. Six of her nine decks are given over to public rooms and passenger accommodations. There are fifty-one loud speakers placed at strategic points about the ship; a complete sound picture theater equipment, stock exchange board room, shopping corridor, swimming pool, sand beach, a 100 car garage with a machine repair and service station.

The President Coolidge is 653 feet long, of 81 feet beam, with a depth of 52 feet.

She leaves this port on her maiden voyage next Thursday for the Philippine islands and the orient via Havana, Panama canal, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Honolulu.

Canada Celebrates First Thanksgiving Since War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 12.—Canada today celebrated its first Thanksgiving day since the end of the great war. During the last twelve years the annual Thanksgiving day had been merged with Armistice day and both were celebrated together in a public holiday which was held on the Monday that came closest to Nov. 11. This year, however, parliament decided that Armistice day deserved separate celebration and so Thanksgiving once more comes into its own in Canada.

Once a Hero; Sent to Penal Farm for Small Theft

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Jimmy Stevens, 37, who saved the lives of forty occupants of a hotel here when the building burned four years ago, was sent to the state penal farm today for four months, convicted of stealing two jacks from a railroad. Stevens said his family was without food.

PROMOTIONS WON BY LIEUT. MIKES AND McGINNIS

Two policemen were promoted and two others were demoted in a weekend order issued by Police Commissioner Allman, it was learned last night.

The men advanced are Lieut. Albert Mikes, acting captain at the Marquette station, and Lieut. John J. McGinnis of the East Chicago avenue station. They are named temporary lieutenants of detectives. The promotions increase their salaries to $3,900. As lieutenants of police they received $3,300.

In the same order Commissioner Allman restored Policemen James B. Scanlan and Michael J. Alcock, temporary lieutenants of detectives, to their civil service rank of sergeant. Scanlan had been first deputy superintendent of police. Alcock, a brother of John Alcock, former acting police commissioner, is in charge of the pawn shop detail. Allman also ordered William P. Hilliard dropped as temporary supervisor of the police radio room and named Frank A. Rafferty, temporarily in charge.

JUDGE REFUSES TO DISMISS CASE AGAINST ABLIN

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday denied a motion made by Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher to dismiss liquor charges against David [Cock-eyed Mulligan] Ablin, promoter of several elaborate night clubs, and three other defendants. Despite Fisher's statement that the government had a weak case against Ablin and his brother, Sam, David Zimmerman and Harry Alexander, Judge Barnes ruled to hear the evidence and set the trial date for Oct. 21.

The case is the outgrowth of the seizure of liquor at the door of the Epicure club at 19 East Cedar street more than a year ago. Subsequently a raid was made on the club by Chicago avenue police, who had no search warrant.

Fisher, in making his motion for dismissal of the charges, said he was acting on the instruction of Assistant District Attorney Victor Le Rue, who is in charge of federal prosecutions while United States Attorney Johnson is busy with the Capone trial.

FARMERS STORM IOWA JAIL; FREE COW TEST REBEL

500 Wreck Cells Before Troops Arrive.

New London, Ia., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Enmity of southeastern Iowa farmers toward the state compulsory bovine tuberculin test law burst into open rebellion today as veterinarians sought to begin inoculating Henry county cattle.

About 500 men marched on the New London jail and freed Roland Hart, 20, arrested for scoffing at Iowa National Guardsmen who were dispersing 150 farmers gathered to hinder administration of the tests on the farm of one of their leaders.

Hart's whereabouts was not investigated by the militia, which returned this afternoon to Mount Pleasant, where it is encamped during the testing in Henry county.

Two Farmers Arrested.

The arrest of the young man followed that of two Henry county farmers, Mike Hennessey and Henry Connor, who, it is charged, were among the 150 men who gathered near the McKinnon farm south of here and heckled the military escort of the veterinarians. Hennessey and Connor were taken to Mount Pleasant, Henry county seat, under guard, while Hart was placed in the New London jail.

As the soldiers were attempting to disperse the crowd near the McKinnon place, more than 400 farmers from Cedar and Muscatine counties, where testing has been completed, and from Des Moines county gathered at the city park and paraded to the jail.

There they overran the fire hall in the front part of the municipal building, broke the jail lock, and broke and twisted the cell bars to free the young son of a Mount Pleasant railway station agent.

In the ensuing disturbance it could not be learned where Hart was taken. The throng also took with them the New London marshal, Earl Brewer, who had attempted single handed to thwart them, but released him unharmed a few blocks from the jail.

Troops Are Summoned.

Soldiers arrived quickly, but many of the farmers had already disappeared and the militia directed its efforts to scattering groups of farmers and other onlookers.

Today's gathering near the McKinnon farm recalled similar attempts to hinder tests in Cedar county, notably the open defiance shown by 200 farmers toward 85 sheriff's deputies protecting veterinarians, which precipitated the mobilization of 1,700 guardsmen Sept. 21 to enforce the law. Again, when the troopers and veterinarians moved into Muscatine county, several farm leaders were arrested following demonstrations.

Today the veterinarians were approaching the McKinnon farm in Baltimore township when their escort of soldiers was stopped by the 150 objectors. A detail of 20 troopers, followed by a machine gun squad and 250 more soldiers, marched upon the angry farmers.

Orders Bayonet Charge.

They refused, however, to disperse, and Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley, commanding the Mount Pleasant guardsmen's camp, ordered the detail to move upon the crowd with drawn bayonets.

Henry Connor cried out: "Hang me, shoot me, arrest me. I'm just a farmer standing on my rights. I am not trying to resist." He was arrested and the crowd was subdued. This permitted McKinnon's herd of thirty-five cattle to be tested, and seemingly the rebellion was quelled.

Detachments were at once placed around the neighborhood, but were recalled almost immediately to New London to scatter other groups of farmers and townspeople.

When order was restored here in the early afternoon, guardsmen were sent to Mount Pleasant, about 15 miles from here, to await further orders. It was planned that testing would not be continued until tomorrow by the 33 veterinarians.

Jim Parsons and Carl Vincent, Henry county farmers, were also arrested but released by Gen. Findley.

JELLICOE ILL

[Associated Press Photo.]

COWES, Isle of Wight, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A doctor's bulletin issued today said the condition of Earl Jellicoe, who commanded the British fleet at the battle of Jutland in the world war, is causing "severe anxiety." Earl Jellicoe recently returned from Canada to his home here and was reported to be suffering from bronchitis. Serious complications have caused his doctors to advise him to cancel his engagements for the rest of the year. The earl is 72 years old.

LABORER'S CHILD DEBARKS TO SING IN CHICAGO OPERA

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Youth was served in a big way today when the Conte Grande of the Lloyd Sabaudo line celebrated Columbus day by setting ashore here two young persons destined for great things in the world of music.

Serafina Di Leo, 19 year old daughter of an Italian laborer, stepped off the ship with a five year contract in her handbag to sing at the Chicago Civic opera. Off the same boat and in tow of Beniamino Gigli, Metropolitan tenor, came ten year old Dattili Glouco, who, Gigli says, will be shortly launched on a career as a pianist.

Miss Di Leo was whisked away to a suite of rooms in the Hotel Ansonia, long a haven for opera stars, where through the day she held court to a swarm of admiring relatives and friends.

Coming to Chicago.

In a few days Serafina will pack up her new wardrobe and with her mother go to Chicago for the opening of the season of the Chicago Civic opera on Nov. 2, when America for the first time will hear this newest dramatic soprano.

Serafina's story is one of the storybook kind. She was born the oldest of five children of an Italian laborer living in New Jersey. She had a native love of music and she possessed a fresh, natural soprano.

So one night three years ago this 16 year old child went to Mme. Giovanni Martinelli, wife of the great Metropolitan tenor, and asked simply if there was some way she could get a ticket to the opera, she was so poor. The request seemed strange enough and Mme. Martinelli asked why the girl wished so to hear opera. The girl replied that she hoped some day to sing in opera. Mme. Martinelli did not take this very seriously, but her husband's accompanist being in the apartment, she called him in and asked the girl to sing. What she heard had its sequel today in the girl with an opera contract.

Given Training in Italy.

Through the interest of Mme. Martinelli a group of patrons put forward enough money to give Serafina three years' training in Italy. Last February she sang her debut at La Scala, Milan, singing in "Forza del Destino." Representatives of the Chicago Civic Opera were there and the contract followed.

After her initial engagement with the Chicago Civic Opera Serafina will return in February for another engagement at La Scala, singing there the rest of the season.

Hold Up Store in New York and Flee with Diamonds

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Diamonds of undetermined value and number were stolen tonight by two men who held up four persons in a jewelry showroom on West 46th street, trussed their victims with picture wire and locked them in steel lockers.

SHIP ON WHOOPEE TRIP TO SEA HAS 1,647 ON BOARD

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Red Star liner Belgenland docked tonight with 1,647 passengers who had taken a one day ocean voyage offered to New Yorkers as a new way to spend a holiday. The voyage was an experiment which had behind it the double purpose of discovering if such short cruises would have popular appeal and "to introduce ocean travel to the average man."

The price of passage was $10 a person and most of the staterooms were rented for from three to five dollars. Luncheon and dinner were included in the passage charge.

The bar opened as soon as the liner passed the 12 mile limit. No figures were obtained as to the number of bottles of liquor consumed, but it was hinted that the ship would need early replenishment of its stock.

About two-thirds of the passengers, officials of the line estimated, had never before been aboard an ocean liner. It was hoped that the short taste of ocean travel would whet appetites for longer trips later.

Start Move in Mexico to Abolish Signs in English

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Propaganda has been started by various Mexican chambers of commerce in border towns to induce the Mexican government to forbid the display of signs and advertisements in languages other than Spanish. Signs in English along the Mexican-American international border are particularly criticised. The chambers declare Mexican national pride should bring about prohibition of these signs.

100,000 BRITONS IN AUSTRALIA ASK TO BE SENT HOME

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A hundred thousand emigrants to Australia today petitoned the British government to repatriate them. The petition, issued by the British Migrants' association, said:

"We were induced to leave our homes and emigrate to Australia by mischievous, misleading, and untruthful propaganda circulated by paid agents of the Australian government. We are now reduced to a condition of misery, semi-starvation, and despair.

"Suicides are lamentably frequent. The minds of many have become deranged. Hundreds of young women are exposed to the gravest dangers and young men are herded together in camps under worse conditions than those to which criminals are subjected in his majesty's jails."

BANDIT-TORTURERS HUNTED.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Police tonight were hunting for three bandits who tortured J. M. Campbell, aged business man, until he revealed where a tin can was buried containing $810. His arms and legs were wired together and tightened until deep gashes were cut in the flesh.

Bandits Wait on Patrons as They Rob Drug Store

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Two young gunmen today waited on customers of Harts' drug store while they leisurely rifled the cash register of $200. While one of the youths took charge of the cigar counter his pal tied Harold Hart, owner, with adhesive tape. A friend of Mr. Hart entered, asked for the proprietor, and was told the latter had stepped out for a few moments. The drug store is opposite the county courthouse and within a stone's throw of the police station.

KEYES PAROLED; TO SELL AUTOS, BUT CAN'T DRIVE

Former District Attorney Has $60 Left.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Starting life anew at the age of 54, Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles district attorney, left San Quentin prison today on parole.

Keyes entered the prison 19 months ago to serve a one to fourteen year term for bribery in connection with his prosecution of the Julian Petroleum corporation fraud cases. His term was fixed at five years and because of good behavior he had to serve less than half of it. He will be on parole for 13 months. He had served 13 months in the Los Angeles county jail pending appeal of his case.

The former prosecutor left the prison in better physical condition than when he entered. Regular hours, plain food, and exercise were credited with the physical improvement.

Sees Prisoner's Side.

He also left spiritually improved, he said, because his confinement brought him to see the prisoner's side of life. When he entered there was some apprehension that some of the hundreds of men he had sent to San Quentin might seek revenge. When he left he had virtually all of the prisoners for his friends.

Keyes' farewells to some of the men and to the officers, especially Warden James B. Holohan, were touching.

"Good-by, Asa," said Holohan. "You've been a good prisoner."

"Good-by, warden; you've been good to me," was the reply.

Among the prisoners that became close friends of Keyes was Albert Ross, so-called king of the Los Angeles underworld, whom Keyes sent to prison for three to twenty years.

When Keyes departed he had exactly $60. Newspaper men from Los Angeles brought him to San Francisco, where he visited Ed H. Whyte, state parole officer, and received his instructions.

Keyes will sell automobiles in Los Angeles, but he cannot drive them. Under the law he may not drive a car, marry, get a divorce, change his address, negotiate any legal document, or drink without permission of the parole officer.

Hopes for Ultimate Pardon

"I have taken it on the chin," he said. "I have paid. I feel well, I have learned to see the other side of things. I have virtually no money, but am ready and eager to get back home and start over. Naturally, I hope I may some day be pardoned."

EDISON'S HEART HOLDS OUT; HIS DOCTOR AMAZED

Family Feels Some Slight Encouragement.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison is slowly and almost imperceptibly passing into a state of coma, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, the 84 year old inventor's physician, said today. Despite the long weeks of struggle, described as "amazing," the stout heart of his patient is holding out, Dr. Howe said.

After his morning bulletin, he pointed out that Mr. Edison had eaten only two spoonfuls of stewed pears since yesterday morning; that he had been unable to take any fluid for a week, and that he had been in an almost unbroken stupor for several days.

Refuses Prediction.

Unwilling to make a definite prediction, Dr. Howe said his patient might live for days and even weeks. The members of the family are keeping a constant watch.

Discussing Mr. Edison's condition, Dr. Howe said:

"He is becoming progressively weaker. He has taken no fluid for a week, and practically no food. The last was two spoonfuls of stewed pears Sunday morning."

The physician added that the cool weather had been most beneficial and that the patient was able to sit up every day for several hours, but was unconscious of this.

Son Issues Bulletins.

A bulletin, issued at 4 p. m. by Charles Edison, son of the inventor, said:

"Mr. Edison's condition was practically unchanged this afternoon. He sat up for two and a half hours during the day and is now in bed asleep. No immediate crisis is feared."

At 10:15 o'clock tonight Charles Edison issued the following bulletin:

"In the absence of Dr. Howe, I can only say that Mr. Edison has had such a satisfactory day that the family feels some slight encouragement."

GUARD HOMES OF 4 WITNESSES IN SLUGGING CASE

Police guards were placed at the homes of four tile setters last night after one of them had reported to police that he had been threatened with a bombing if he testified today against two men charged with slugging him and a fellow workman.

The prisoners are John Connors and John Gill. They have been held at the detective bureau on charges of kidnaping, assault to commit murder, and carrying concealed weapons since last Thursday night. They were arrested that night in what Charles Noller, 4421 North Albany avenue, and Lloyd Schneider, 4123 Barry avenue, charged was an attempt to take them for a ride.

Frank Harding, 3647 North Kedvale avenue, and Walter Rastorfer later identified Collins and Gill as the men who slugged them two weeks ago as they were working on a tile setting job in Winnetka. Harding was the man who received the threat last night.

Collins and Gill will appear today in the Felony court and it was planned to have all four witnesses appear later in the day before the grand jury. The slugging and attempted kidnaping are believed to have been connected with union affairs.

ACT TO COLLECT 10 MILLION TAXES FROM RECEIVERS

Assessors Ask Courts to Order Payments.

Fifteen thousand income bearing properties in the hands of receivers are delinquent a total of $10,000,000 in 1930 taxes, it was asserted by the board of assessors yesterday. The board dispatched letters to the chief justices of the Circuit and Superior courts asking that the receivers be called into court and ordered to pay their tax bills.

As the second development of the day, the board scrutinized its records and estimated a tax loss of $1,570,000 for three years through errors which caused undervaluation of 335 skyscrapers in the loop, Streeterville, and north shore districts in the 1928 reassessment. An even greater loss may be discovered, the assessors said, when the cubic foot prices for the various structures as used in the reassessment have been corrected.

Appraiser Prepares List.

Lists of foreclosed property with the amounts of the unpaid bills are being prepared for the judges by Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser for the board. These lists will be presented to the chief justices today in order that the court action may be expedited. One reason for speedy action is the fact that much of this property, which largely is within the Chicago city limits, may be sold at the public auction of County Treasurer McDonough.

"Most of these buildings are large apartment structures," Fox explained. "They are in the hands of the receiver because of an unmet mortgage. However, a tax lien is prior to any other mortgage, and the taxes on these properties should be paid to protect the mortgage holders."

Figures on Undervaluations.

Estimates on the tax losses through 1928 reassessment errors were made on the 20,221,826 cubic feet found to be short on 106 of the total number of structures over 10 stories in height in the loop and near loop sections. The total value of the shortage was $10,681,000. The taxes on the space would amount to $237,000.

A list of some of the buildings which were examined, with their shortages in cubic footage and valuation, is show in the following table:

	Cubic foot shortage.	Cubic foot value.	Total shortage value.
Insurance Exchange South, 175 West Jackson-blvd.	1,262,958	64c	$808,906

McCormick building, 332 South Michigan-av.	561,543	60c	210,929

In some other cases, Fox disclosed, the remeasurements revealed that overvaluations had been made. All of these mistakes, however, are being corrected for 1928, 1929, and 1930, by protests pending in the County court.

Chicago Woman Wins Divorce

Former Betty Ball

Word was received in Chicago yesterday that Mrs. Quintin Gilbey of London, the former Betty Ball of Chicago, has obtained a final divorce decree from her husband and will return shortly to this city to make her home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, 1325 Astor street.

The wedding of Miss Ball to Quintin Gilbey took place Sept. 14, 1927, in London. Her ex-husband is the fifth son of Col. Alfred Gilbey, who is a director of Barclay's bank in London and owner of a large distilling company.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbey made their home in Mayfair, London, but visited her parents in Chicago several times. They have a son, Robin Alfred Gilbey. Mrs. Ball has been in Europe with her daughter, and Dr. Ball is in New York on business, it was said at his office yesterday.

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 13.—Crews of three German steamers, the Preussen, Rosa, and Vesurges, loading cargoes in Leningrad's harbor, mutined today and deserted the vessels. Dissatisfied with recent wage reductions, the sailors were induced to mutiny by communist agitators. The crews announced they would remain in Russia, stating they have been promised jobs on Russian ships.

NEWSPAPER ARMS 100 EMPLOYES TO BATTLE BOYCOTT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Battle lines were drawn in southeastern Mexico today in a furious dispute between El Diario de Yucatan, powerful daily newspaper of Merida, and the state government.

Dispatches said the newspaper's plant had been turned into a garrisoned fort, defended by 100 armed employés, who were pledged to resist with bullets any attempt at invasion.

Carlos R. Menendez, owner and editor, appealed to President Rubio for relief from a boycott ordered by the governor.

TWO MUSICAL PRODIGIES ARE GUESTS OF GAW

George Gaw, the city greeter, entertained two child musical prodigies yesterday, taking them on a tour of the park system. Ruggiero Ricci, 10 years old, San Francisco, who created a sensation two years ago when he played the violin with the New York Symphony orchestra and now under the care of Mishel Piastro, concert master of the orchestra, is one of the children. The other is Virginia Johnston, 4 years old, of Louisville, Ky., who plays classical compositions on the piano with ease and accompanies her mother, Mrs. Marcella Johnston, a singer. Virginia, her mother said, started playing when she was 2 years old.

Greeter Gaw welcomed James King Steele of Manila, "nahboofi," or greeter for the Philippines after entertaining the children.

JACOBS DRAFTS $9,500,000 CITY ECONOMY PLAN

Project Gains Favor of Revenue Board.

J. L. Jacobs, city efficiency engineer, surprised members of the governor's revenue commission at its last meeting, according to information obtained yesterday, by the scope of the changes and consolidations which he proposes in order to cut city expenditures $9,500,000 next year.

The commission was favorably impressed, according to reports, with the Jacobs recommendations. Besides a consolidation of a large number of employés which automatically will reduce salaries, the recomendations propose a centralization of many activities that are now duplicated in various departments.

Cut Expenses 15 Per Cent.

The Jacobs' survey in the city hall has progressed to the point where he has called conferences to discuss the proposed changes with department heads. Those in the city hall who have seen the preliminary results of the survey say that expenditures will be cut at least 15 per cent.

To outline the major recommendations of Mr. Jacobs are:

1. A central purchasing bureau to buy all city supplies and let some contracts.

2. Bookkeeping for all departments is to centralized.

3. Inspection and investigation units, of which nearly every department has a number, to be combined.

4. Where several departments keep similar records, one force will make carbon copies of the records instead of the clerks in each of the departments typing the original records.

5. The controller's office will make out all payrolls, each department merely putting in the amount due each employé.

Predicts Lower Prices.

The central purchasing department alone is expected to save 20 per cent on the purchase of materials and supplies, machinery, printing, furniture, and repairs. The city will invite better competition by grouping purchases instead of spreading them among the various departments. Lower prices and less waste are predicted by Jacobs under this plan.

For 1930, the records show that the expenditures for materials and supplies totaled $5,528,412. A 20 per cent saving with all purchases centralized in one department, would mean $1,105,682.

The total 1931 budget figure is $10,521,073. If the Jacobs plan effects a saving of 15 per cent, or about $1,500,000, it would reduce the 1932 budget to $54,000,000.

Will Eliminate Sinecures.

With his centralization recommendations as a starter Jacobs, according to the reports, proposes to consolidate activities in the departments which will eliminate sinecures. In many instances he is said to have found places where three or four or even five employés do the work that two could do. The extra employés will be eliminated.

Jacobs has further found, according to the reports, that many employés have been pushed into higher grades of service through favoritism or are receiving salaries out of proportion to their work. These conditions will be remedied, if his recommendations are followed, with a large saving to the city.

Order Physical Test for Joliet Prison Employes

All employés of the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries who have entered the state service since April 7, 1930, were ordered yesterday to undergo a physical examination. Several physicians went to the penitentiary from other state institutions to assist in examining the 400 men and women.

REWEDS MANIERRE

Mrs. Edith Harrison Manierre.

The secret remarriage of Mrs. Edith Harrison Manierre, daughter of former Mayor Carter H. Harrison, to C. Edson Manierre, an official of the Vacuum Oil company, became known yesterday after the couple had left Chicago bound for the Bahamas on a second honeymoon.

They were married Sunday at Waukegan by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady. His predecessor on the Lake county circuit bench, Judge Claire C. Edwards, granted Mrs. Manierre a divorce on grounds of cruelty in February, 1930.

The Manierres, who are prominent in Chicago society, will occupy their former home at 394 East Rose terrace, Lake Forest, upon their return from the honeymoon. They have two sons, Cyrus Jr., 13 years old, and William, 3, who were with their mother during the separation.

ACT TO COLLECT $75,000,000 IN LITIGATED TAXES

Conference of Officials Is Called by Treasurer.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The owners of about 200,000 pieces of real estate are withholding payment of approximately $75,000,000 in taxes by means of court proceedings. Many of these owners are persons or corporations of financial standing. In most cases these owners are withholding all the taxes instead of paying the portion they deem fair and contesting the remainder.

Taxes for 1927, due May 1, 1928, are still being contested on 2,500 pieces of realty. Most of the taxes withheld, however, are for 1929, due July 10, 1930, and for 1930, due May 15 of this year. The following table shows the approximate amount of taxes withheld and the number of realty parcels involved for the last three tax years:

Year.	Parcels.	Taxes.
1927	2,500	$ 2,000,000
1928	70,000	12,000,000
1929	132,000	56,000,000
Totals	205,500	$75,000,000

Treasurer Calls Conference.

To ascertain why the court proceedings cannot be speeded up and to thrash out the subject of delinquent taxes in general, County Treasurer McDonough called a conference yesterday for two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Among those invited are the following:

State's Attorney Swanson and his assistants in charge of tax matters.

County Attorney Hayden Bell, in charge of taxes.

Members of board of assessors and their attorney, Neal Harrington.

President Wheelan and the members of the county board.

Mayor Cermak and city's tax experts.

County Judge Jarecki, before whom most of the tax cases are pending.

"My object is to find out just what the situation is and how it can be improved," explained McDonough. "If there is any way in which my office can help, I want to know it."

Questioned on Delays.

"How is it possible for certain property owners to have their taxes pending for three years?" McDonough was asked. "Will your conference get the answer to that question?"

"The question can be asked, can't it?" replied McDonough. "I don't know why these tax cases take so much time in court. The assistant state's attorneys and the attorney for the county board handle those cases.

"I believe that the owners with money should pay the part of the tax they deem fair before they begin contesting in court the remainder they deem unfair, but apparently the law permits them to withhold the entire levy."

It was pointed out to McDonough that the 1928 taxes tied up in court, if paid, would settle the outstanding tax anticipation warrants of the city, schools, and other bodies.

Commission Seeks Solution.

On several occasions tax delinquency has been discussed by members of Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission. They have tried to devise some plan which will impel property owners to pay promptly the taxes assessed against them, but so far no satisfactory plan has been formulated.

On two occasions, Samuel Insull suggested that a property owner be required to pay his local taxes on the due date, as is the practice of the federal government on income taxes, and then to litigate later any excess payment which he thinks he has made.

Perhaps the McDonough conference will develop some other plan.

COP IDENTIFIES PHOTOS OF 3 IN $22,800 FRAUD

Lieut. Anthony Connelly of the Los Angeles police yesterday visited the detective bureau and identified the pictures of three swindlers who took $22,800 from him in a race track bet swindle at Montreal on Sept. 9.

One of those identified is Lester Franklin, who wears a goatee and represents himself as a big oil man from Nevada. He met the lieutenant on shipboard, coming back from England, and introduced him to Thomas Mackey, another whose picture is in many bureaus of identification.

The three made a bet and were told by a third conspirator that they had won $60,000. The third demanded, however, that they prove they could have paid if they had lost. Lieut. Connelly went to California and got $22,800, which he took to Montreal. He has not seen Franklin or Mackey since the money was reported lost on another horse race. The lieutenant is visiting his brother, Sergt. Joseph Connelly of the Chicago police, who lives at 6136 South Troy street.

Chicago Organists Honor Cotsworth; Is 80 Yrs. Old

The Chicago chapter of the National Organists Guild at a luncheon in the Palmer house yesterday honored Albert Cotsworth, veteran Chicago organist. It was the musician's 80th birthday. Members of other musical groups, the American Guild of Organists and the Chicago club of Women Organists, attended the luncheon. Charles E. Watt, editor of Music News, presented to Mr. Cotsworth the tributs of the musicians. The veteran responded under the name of "The Elderly Person," the nom de plume he has used in musical writings.

CAPONE'S TRAIL OF GOLD TRACED IN LUXURY SALES

suits, and "one of the boys," called "Buttsie," pays the bills. They are still there, he testified.

For his Palm Island home in Florida, it developed, Capone sent down about $15,000 worth of furniture and rugs. This included dozens of lamps and bowls, a cellarette, a bird cage, a chaise longue, a fernery, vanity chests, etc.

Costly Auto and Raiment.

For automobiles it was shown that he had three in Florida and had one specially built at a cost of $12,500 for Mrs. Capone in Chicago.

Marshall Field salesmen sold him most of his shirts, underwear, suits and neckwear. The shirts were silk, had monograms on the sleeves, and cost as high as $30. The lower priced ones were $18. Capone's taste in rugs was not developed. He bought a dozen of them. He bought no books but had "book ends." He bought many vases, elephants, vanity cases, cocktail shakers, ice buckets, wine sets, and champagne glasses.

The gang chieftain's suits, at $135 each, were bought in half dozen lots and on several occasions he brought friends over to his tailor and ordered them a suit or two at the same price. His clothing bill for 1927-'28 at one shop was $2,715.

In the winter of 1927-'28, it was shown, before Capone had decided to buy his Palm Island place in Florida, he leased a house under the name of "Mr. Brown," at 3605 Indian Creek drive, Miami Beach. The price for six months was $2,500.

THE MORNING SESSION

Court Clerk Joseph O'Sullivan shortly after 10 a. m. called the case of Philip D'Andrea, Capone's bodyguard, who was seized with a gun on Saturday and charged with direct contempt of court. D'Andrea stepped up to the bar, in the midst of two bailiffs, the four federal prosecutors, Attorneys Fink and Ahern, and another lawyer, Salvatore Vella. This colloquy ensued:

ATTORNEY AHERN—Your honor, this is Attorney Salvatore Vella from New York, who is here for this defendant. Attorney Fink and I are also interested, but we don't know how prejudicial our appearance here might be to the interest of Mr. Capone.

MR. FINK—I don't think we should appear unless this action goes over until after the Capone trial.

Court Comments on Case.

THE COURT—The rule to show cause on this defendant is for 10 o'clock this morning. So far as I am advised, there will be no dispute about the facts in the case. The defendant was asked by a deputy marshal whether he was armed in court and he admitted that he was armed.

MR. FINK—Will the jurors in the Capone case hear this action?

THE COURT—The jury is not here.

MR. FINK—Will they get the newspapers?

THE COURT—No, I have given careful instructions for the deletion of all references to this trial and any related matter from the papers and I am informed by the bailiff that the jurors have heard nothing about this incident.

MR. AHERN—We recognize, your honor, that the court has the power to deal summarily with the defendant; nevertheless, the action must be consistent with right of the defendant to be heard.

Judge Questions D'Andrea.

THE COURT—He'll have all the time in the world to be heard. How much time do you want? [Addressing D'Andrea.]

D'ANDREA—Until Friday or Saturday, your honor.

THE COURT—The case is continued until 10 a. m. tomorrow and the defendant will go back to the custody of the marshal, without bail. [As D'Andrea was taken away by two deputy marshals, Attorneys Fink and Ahern renewed their discussion with the court, and United States Attorney Johnson stepped swiftly forward.]

MR. AHERN—Is this action supported by any petition or information filed by the district attorney?

Action Taken by Court.

THE COURT—The action was instituted by the court under its inherent power to protect itself, so that its business can be conducted in a proper manner. The district attorney is now here in his proper capacity as the prosecutor. [Judge Wilkerson spoke vehemently, and showed no disposition to treat this contempt case as a light matter.]

MR. AHERN—Your honor, may the defendant be interviewed by his counsel in the marshal's office before going to jail?

THE COURT—Yes, he may have that privilege. [The courtroom, more crowded than at any previous session of the Capone case, slowly became thinned out after this point. Judge Wilkerson took up an equity call and dozens of attorneys heard action on their routine motions and departed.]

Capone Jury Is Called.

At 11 a. m. the Capone jury was called and Judge Wilkerson resumed his seat on the bench, after a short visit to his chambers. There was a five minute delay, for the prosecutors were not in court. Judge Wilkerson sent his bailiff for them, explaining that he had told Mr. Green he expected the equity call to last until 11:30.

The prosecutors filed in, heavily laden with books and documents, Mr. Johnson leading the procession of five. Capone scanned various sections of the courtroom and chewed lime drops.

Witness Takes the Stand.

The first witness, Jean Rieves, was called, and Mr. Grossman started the preliminary questioning after she had been sworn. "Wait a minute," said Bailiff Frank Otto; "the court is not here." Judge Wilkerson had stepped back into his chambers. Then Mr. Grossman resumed, as follows:

Q.—Were you a bookkeeper for the Jack Niles company in 1928? A.—Yes.

BACK TO CELL

[Reading from the company's records] —June 11, 1928, there is an entry for furniture for which $7,289 was paid. The defendant deposited three $500 checks the first day and two days later brought three more checks, $1,500, $2,000, and $2,000. The maker of these checks was Jack Guzik [Capone business manager]. Mr. Capone paid the remainder, $289, in cash.

Q.—Where was that furniture sent? A.—To Miami Beach, in the name of Parker Henderson. [A hotel keeper who has been a witness and who has admitted handling money for Capone.]

Tells of Another Deal.

Q.—Were there any other transactions? A.—Here's an entry for $1,250 for furniture, Jan. 30, 1929. The entry is for Al Capone.

Q.—[By Mr. Fink]—Were you there? A.—I am reading the entry.

Q.—You mean the purchase is merely charged to Al? A.—This is the cash book.

Here Judge Wilkerson interposed: "When counsel speaks of Al I assume he means the defendant?" There was a tone of remonstrance in his voice, and Mr. Fink replied: "Yes; is your honor affronted?"

"I think I should prefer the term defendant," said the court.

Mr. Grossman offered in evidence an itemized account of the furniture Capone bought, saying he would not bore the jury by reading it. Mr. Fink objected. Then he began, reading in a rapid monotone, and amusement spread over the room before he had finished.

"One chair, one cellarette, one vanity chest, one rocker, one buffet——" read Mr. Grossman.

Buys a $12,500 Automobile.

I. C. Buxton, an auto dealer, was the next witness called.

Q.—Did you have any transactions with the defendant in 1924? A.—Yes, he bought a McFarland automobile from us at a price of $12,500.

Q.—Tell about that. A.—Mr. and Mrs. Capone came in. Mr. Capone said he wanted a specially built car like the one a friend of his had. He wanted me to take a Lincoln in trade and paid $1,000 as a deposit. I saw Mr. Capone again at the Metropole hotel and then a gentleman called for the car, paying $4,000 in cash.

Q.—What was the next transaction? A.—In 1926 Mrs. Capone called and said she wanted to turn in their old McFarland on a new one. Mr. Capone was out of town, but a day or two later, he called and we traded. He paid a difference of $3,500 in cash.

Q.—Did the defendant himself pay the money? A.—Yes, it was Mr. Capone. [This witness appeared ill at ease and flushed, particularly when asked whether Capone had paid him the money. He did not meet the gaze of Capone, which was constantly directed upon him.]

Capone Gets $30 Shirts.

E. M. Arl of the custom shirt department of Marshall Field & Co. was the next witness.

Q.—Did you ever meet the defendant? A.—I sold him some shirts and accessories.

Q.—What did he pay for his shirts? A.—From $18 to $30 apiece.

Q.—How many did he purchase at a time? A.—A dozen or so.

Q.—Did he have them made? A.—Yes.

Mr. Grossman then read into evidence such items as 18 collars at $2 each, 24 monograms for $17, a half dozen or so lots of shirts, and more monograms.

Q.—[By Mr. Fink]—You're a pretty fine salesman, aren't you? A.—I think I am. [The country town jurors gasped at the mention of $25 shirts and $2 collars. Capone grinned.]

Neckties at $5 Apiece.

Earl A. Corbin, from the custom tailor department of Marshall Field's, was next. He mentioned such items as 28 ties at $5 each, half a dozen handkerchiefs at $2.75, neckwear $38.50, neckwear $48, and six ties and six handkerchiefs each for three other customers, all purchased by Capone. There was no cross-examination.

A rug salesman named Mincer, from Peck & Hill's, was called.

Q.—Here's an entry for Chinese rugs, $1,500; did Capone pay for that? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where were they sent? A.—To his home at 7244 Prairie avenue.

Q.—Did you send some rugs to Miami for him? A.—Yes, $825 worth.

Q.—Did you furnish any other place for him? A.—Yes, three rooms in the Lexington hotel. That bill was $706.

Lawyers in Argument.

There was an altercation between counsel as to whether the witness knew Capone lived at 7244 Prairie avenue. "As a matter of fact, that's where the defendant's mother lived," said Mr. Fink.

"He bought them and had them sent there. You didn't know anything about where his mother lived?" asked Mr. Grossman. The witness said he did not.

F. L. Wehrhan of Peck & Hill's told of selling Capone "three or four thousand dollars' worth of furniture" that was sent to the Prairie avenue address, between $1,500 and $2,000 worth that was sent to the Lexington, and $338 worth sent to the Metropole.

Mr. Grossman brought laughter from some of the spectators by pronouncing "portieres" as "porchers" and by inquiring of the witness the definition of a highboy. "A highboy is a chest of drawers," said the witness.

Johanna Sullivan of the S. & L. Motor company identified company records showing the purchase of a seven passenger Lincoln by Capone on May 18, 1928, for $5,380.

A Miami Beach interior decorator detailed a $1,500 job he did for Capone at his Palm Island home, late in 1929.

"Mr. Capone paid me in currency," he said.

AL'S OWN STORY OF HIS BARKEEPER'S JOB TOLD IN COURT

There were ripples of amusement among the Capone trial spectators yesterday afternoon over the testimony of Henry E. Keller of Miami, a builder whom the gangster hired to construct a dock at his Palm Island estate. There had been previous testimony that Keller did not complete the contract, but the reason for calling him to the stand became apparent when Prosecutor Jacob I. Grossman began the questioning.

Keller, tall, white haired, white mustached, settled himself comfortably in the chair to say that he knew Capone, had the contract for the improvement on the waterfront, and had had a conversation with the defendant. He began to tell of it in a homely drawl.

"We was havin' lunch together one day, Al and me," Keller recited, "and he says to me, 'Dad, where're you from?'

"I was born in New York, 10th ward, in 1863," says I.

"I said to him," Keller went on, "'What was your first job?' and he said, 'Tendin' bar on Coney island.'"

"What's the purpose of this testimony?" objected Fink.

"I want to show the humble beginnings of the defendant in comparison to his present wealth," replied Grossman.

"You want to show that the defendant began humbly like Hoover and Andy Jackson," commented Fink. Keller was excused.

Judge Questions Witness.

Judge Wilkerson displayed an interest in the witness while Grossman was trying to learn who Capone's associates are at the hotel. He wanted to know who lived in each room, and Housen said he didn't know. Judge Wilkerson leaned toward him.

THE COURT—What do you know about the rooms? A.—It wasn't up to me to know about them—the bills were paid.

THE COURT—Who paid the bills? A.—"Buttsie"; he's one of the boys.

THE COURT—You mean one of the party? A.—Yes.

The identity of "Buttsie" was not disclosed. Grossman put the register sheet of July 30, 1928, into evidence, but Housen did not name those of Capone's party whom he recognized.

Identifies Sales Records.

Abraham J. Quint of the Wabash avenue jewelry concern was the next witness. He verified the glassware and silver sales already testified to by Shapiro and identified records showing about $4,000 worth of additional sales.

Prosecutor Grossman read the invoices of these sales to the jury. They showed purchases of a set of silver engraved with the initial "S," a platinum and diamond ring mounting, an atomizer, a jewel box, a platinum ring set with a diamond and an emerald, twenty cigar lighters, which also contained tiny watches—valued at $15 each—and a "Gypsy" ring.

Oscar De Feo of the Marshall Field tailoring department testified next that Capone bought suits there during 1927, 1928 and 1929, paying $135 each for them and having fittings at both the store and the Metropole hotel. Capone paid cash—$700 once and $1,000 at another time—and sometimes bought clothing for other persons.

Ira Gay of the same department elaborated upon this testimony, saying that Capone bought twenty-three suits during 1927 and 1928, three topcoats and one overcoat. He purchased one or two suits each for four or five friends. The bill for 1927 was $2,635 and $1,080 for 1928.

Samuel J. Steinberg, jeweler at 21 North State street, was next. He testified that in 1926 Capone purchased some beaded handbags in his establishment, paying $22.50 for each.

MR. GROSSMAN.—How many of them did he buy? A.—Twenty, all I had in the place.

This was about Christmas time, and a year later Capone bought 30 diamond-studded belt buckles at $275 each, Steinberg said.

Shows Diamond Buckle.

Grossman turned to the jury. "Like this one," he explained, displaying one of the buckles. The trinket bore the initials "H. P.," but the identity of its owner was not made public.

M. J. Oles, assistant buyer of the Marshall Field men's underwear department, succeeded Steinberg, testifying that in 1927 Capone bought three union suits at $12 each and nine undershirts and nine shorts at $5 for each garment. He was followed by William T. McCabe of the same department, who sold Capone more underwear—six suits at $5 per suit—and he was followed, in turn, by J. Pankan, his fellow salesman.

Pankan's testimony brought a sheepish grin to Capone's face when it was revealed that Al had purchased four $12 suits of hand glove silk underwear three years ago.

"What is glove silk?" Mr. Fink asked.

THE WITNESS—The material of which ladies' gloves are made.

The last witness of the afternoon session was Herbert Abel of Miami, who testified that he sold $600 worth of house fixtures to Capone for his Palm Island home.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION

Court was resumed at 2 p. m., the first witness being Russell R. Garnett of Miami, a used car dealer who was in the real estate business in 1927 when he negotiated the lease of a home to the defendant. Capone took a place at 3605 Indian Creek drive, agreeing to pay $2,500 rent for six months, from November, 1927, it was testified.

MR. GROSSMAN—How did he pay you, in cash or by check? A.—In $100 bills, $800 or $900 at one time and the balance a day or two later.

Cross-examination was limited to one question by Mr. Fink:

"Was it a pretty nice place?" he asked. "Yes," replied the witness, and was excused.

Nathan D. Shapiro, salesman for the wholesale jewelry concern of Quint & Co., 8 North Wabash avenue, was called. In December, 1928, he said, Capone entered the store with two or three companions and purchased sterling silver, glassware, champagne cups, wine goblets, an ice bucket, cocktail glasses, and other drinking accessories.

Q.—What did all this cost? A.—One chest of silver was $400, another was bought for the same price, and the glassware was $800.

Q.—Did he pay cash? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Have you exhausted your recollection of his purchases? A.—Yes, sir.

A later witness told of other articles bought there by Capone.

Hotel Clerk Testifies.

Afterward the state called Walter Housen, desk clerk at the Lexington hotel, 22d street and Michigan avenue, where Capone and his chief lieutenants have headquarters. Prior to this Housen was a clerk at the Metropole hotel, one block south, when the gang lived there.

Q.—[By Mr. Grossman]—Were you working at the Lexington when Capone first registered there? A.—Yes, sir, the date was July 30, 1928.

Q.—How many persons came with him? A.—I don't remember exactly, ten, fifteen, or twenty.

Q.—How did Capone register. A.—As George Phillips. Somebody with him registered as Joe Jacobs and family.

Q.—Did you know Capone when he lived at the Metropole hotel? A.—Yes.

Q.—What name did he use there? A.—Ross.

Capone has about ten rooms at the Lexington now, the witness testified. When he moved there the rooms were engaged in advance by telephone. When the party arrived Housen said he "made up" names for them on the register because, he explained, "I couldn't get anybody to sign it."

VANDERBILT'S STORY ABOUT INTERVIEW IS DENIED BY CAPONE

When Al Capone after court yesterday was shown a purported interview with him by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. in the current issue of Liberty magazine he denied that he had made the statements attributed to him therein.

"I didn't say those things," he said when shown his reported statements on the state of the country and the wet and dry situation and where he was represented as saying that "Uncle Sam carries a wobbly stick for law violators."

"I saw Vanderbilt," he admitted. "It was on a business transaction—no interview."

Attorney Michael Ahern said that he arranged the interview for the purposes of the "business transaction."

The article carries an affidavit by Vanderbilt in which he says that the statements attributed to Capone were given to him by the gangster for publication.

LINK McERLANE TO MYSTERY OF CHARRED AUTO

Car Discovery May Give Clews to 2 Murders.

A charred automobile, supposedly owned by Frank McErlane, south side beer boss, and which was found at 118th street and Harlem avenue, in Worth, near the drainage canal, was the center of a gangland mystery last night.

From the circumstances surrounding the car, and the car itself, investigators deduced two theories.

One, admittedly remote, was that McErlane, described as the "most vicious killer in the country," had been taken for a ride and his body thrown into the drainage canal. The other, to which police incline, was that James L. Quigley, rebel gangster, whose body was recovered from the canal in Lockport on Sunday, was killed in the automobile and his body tossed into the canal a few minutes later.

Link Car to McErlane.

The car was linked with McErlane through license plates by Lieut. Edward Weber of the county highway police at Willow Springs. The state license is shown to have been issued to a William Hogan, of 353 West 55th street. McErlane is known to have used the alias of Hogan. That name was used to obtain a city vehicle tag for the big sedan in which McErlane's wife, Elfrieda, was shot to death on Oct. 8, two days after Quigley is believed to have been killed.

Among the theories held by detectives is that McErlane went on one of his gunning rampages, killed Quigley in the automobile, which was set afire and now figures in the mystery, and then, two days later, killed Mrs. McErlane.

Police last night admitted they puzzled over the abandonment of the car in Worth. They said that if McErlane killed Quigley, he would not have left his auto at the canal. On the other hand, they said, if the gangster had been taken for a ride his killers might have left his car there. It was further suggested that if McErlane had been slain, his killers might also have murdered his wife to silence her. In further support of the theory that McErlane is dead, it was pointed out he has not been seen in more than a week.

Finds Gun in Car.

The charred automobile was seen on the night of Oct. 6 by Mrs. Martha Hansen and Gus Mundt, living 200 feet from where it was driven up. Another automobile, larger, was alongside. They heard men talking, and heard some shots, then saw the small car light into flame. Police Chief E. E. Schultz of Worth was notified. He recovered a .38 caliber revolver from the car. Two bullets had been fired.

County highway police said last night that they were still searching "for a body," despite the finding of the body of Quigley.

Meantime, Chicago detectives were working on another murder, that of George Wilson, former policeman who was killed by machine gunners at 14th and Lincoln streets on Sunday. An order has been issued to arrest George Druggan, brother of Terry, for questioning. Wilson had been employed in George Druggan's brewery, it was said.

ETTELSON'S FORMER ASSISTANT ACTS AS D'ANDREA'S COUNSEL

When Philip D'Andrea, the Capone bodyguard who carried a pistol in Judge James H. Wilkerson's court room, was arrested for it on Saturday, appeared before the judge yesterday morning to answer a charge of contempt of court a special lawyer appeared for him.

This newcomer was introduced to Judge Wilkerson as Attorney Salvatore Vella of New York, who is here for this defendant."

Despite this lawyer's appearance, all the talking in behalf of D'Andrea was done by Attorneys Albert Fink and Michael Ahern, who represent Capone.

Attorney Vella of New York is a stranger to Chicago. He is an uncle of the pistol toting, courteous D'Andrea and was formerly an assistant corporation counsel. For about a year before the passing of the last city administration he worked in Corporation Counsel Ettelson's office and was in charge of collections.

As political sponsor with the administration Vella claimed Daniel Serritella, Republican committeeman from the First ward, city sealer under the last mayor, and an ally of Capone.

CRIME BOARD TO OPPOSE KILLER'S PARDON MOVE

A "personal" advertisement in yesterday's Tribune gave notice that Stonewall Clark, convicted of murder and sentenced to Joliet penitentiary, will apply for a pardon on Oct. 15. Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, announced he will oppose any executive clemency being extended to Clark.

"Clark is a Negro who, with Ernest Holt, also colored, was convicted of the murder of Robert Levy, a store keeper, during a holdup on Dec. 15, 1926, in which $4 was taken," said Col. Chamberlin. "They were sentenced to death. Then Attorney Clarence Darrow interested himself in their behalf.

"Judge Emanuel Eller said he was convinced of the guilt of Holt, but was not so positive concerning Clark. Both prisoners were examined by psychiatrists and the report was that Holt was of low mentality but not insane. Clark was held sane also. On an agreement that the two would plead guilty, Judge Eller set aside the death verdict and sentenced both to life imprisonment.

"Clark had a long record as a criminal. I can see no extenuating circumstances that would justify the application for a pardon. I think Clark is lucky to be alive."

Just a Moment, Please —and who wouldn't wait a minute these days to save time and money

You Really Save Time

Occasionally you have to wait a minute for a seat at B/G Sandwich Shops. B/G food and service are so popular that seats do not remain unoccupied very long during the noon hours.

Even so, it is but a moment before your hostess beckons you to the seat reserved for you when you came in. Your order is taken at once and served almost immediately. Thus you are enabled to eat in less time than elsewhere.

Remember, B/G service is quiet, swift and courteous—no tipping and no waiting on yourself. You will find several minutes added to the leisure of your luncheon hour if you eat at B/G today.

Now Save Money, Too

Now the savings resulting from low market prices of food products as well as quantity buying are at once passed along to you. The new B/G method of pricing is based on the principle that the individual price of each item must bear a direct relation to its cost. Thus the price of each item has been figured to the penny.

The result has been a complete revision of the whole price schedule. Most items show a substantial reduction, some remain unchanged and a few have been slightly increased, but the total on your check will invariably be lower.

Regardless of what you spend at B/G, these new prices will bring you real savings. Never before have you been able to eat so well for so little money.

Be Penny Wise and Save

Eat at B/G this week and you will be agreeably surprised how much you've saved on your luncheon budget.

Here's How It Works

A typical combination today—there are others in any selection you make

	Old	New
Beef Barley Soup	15¢	12¢
Pimento Cheese Sandwich on Toast	20¢	14¢
Butterscotch Pie	20¢	13¢
Coffee or Tea (more without extra charge)	10¢	10¢
	65¢	49¢

At every hour of the day special combinations are offered at even greater savings.

Other Policies Continue

All the policies that have made B/G nationally famous remain unaltered. The one change has been to attune prices more accurately to current costs. That means more money in your pocket. Is it any wonder that B/G Sandwich Shops are enjoying increased popularity? Come and see.

LYTTON VISIONS 10 TIER STREETS 100 YRS. HENCE

Seal Forecast in Corner Stone of Store.

While one hundred years prohibition will be repealed or greatly modified, streets will be built in ten or more levels, great elevated super highways will handle through traffic, seaplanes will abolish the smoke evil, styles will be changed almost past recognition, and Chicago will be rigidly zoned to eliminate much of the present congestion.

Such are the predictions of Henry C. Lytton, pioneer State street merchant and founder of the Hub. The 85 year old merchant has retired from active participation in the business he founded fifty-five years ago, but still remains a student of the modern trends in art and business.

Predictions in Corner Stone.

His predictions yesterday were sealed behind a bronze plaque in the corner stone of the newly modernized store at State street and Jackson boulevard as part of the dedication services. The stone is to be reopened in 100.

"While prohibition has been beneficial in some respects it has brought untold harm in others," said Mr. Lytton, "and can be considered one of the main causes of immorality and gangster rule, which has afflicted Chicago and other cities of our country."

Smoke, hanging in dense clouds over the city was blamed for the ruin of buildings and clothing and called a great injury to personal health by Mr. Lytton. He described smoke as "a hurdle in the path of civic progress."

Streets of Ten Levels.

With the loop district zoned for commerce, Mr. Lytton prophesied buildings of 60 to 100 stories with street levels to each ten floors. Other districts will be for industry, homes, and parks.

Mr. Lytton predicted that the greatest change in styles will be in men's clothing through emulation of the free and comfortable styles worn by women. Open throated shirts, even for evening wear, and loose hanging suits will become the mode in Mr. Lyttoq's opinion. But skirts will never replace trousers. When smoke clouds are abolished, there will be a return to bright colors and happier combinations in men's suits, he said.

One thing will remain unchanged throughout the decades, in his opinion. That is the family based on a monogamous marriage.

GERMAN CABINET FACES FIGHT FOR EXISTENCE TODAY

Chancellor Bruening Set to Repel Attacks.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—On the eve of the session of the reichstag, and one which may decide the fate of the German republic, indignation is growing in many quarters against Dr. Hjalmer Schacht for his sensational speech at Harzburg yesterday, in which he accused the government of Chancellor Bruening of falsifying the country's financial condition. It is persistently reported that the former president of the Reichsbank will shortly be arrested.

Earlier today it was reported that Schacht had fled the country, but tonight it was stated in reliable Nationalist quarters that the financial expert has returned to Berlin. Communists tomorrow will introduce a resolution demanding that Schacht, Adolf Hitler, Fascist chieftain; Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, head of the Nationalist party, and "Steel Helmet" leaders be arrested and tried for treason.

Answer Schacht Over Radio.

So far Schacht's revelations of an alleged misrepresentation of Germany's financial situation has had only political repercussions. The government, however, was sufficiently worried to broadcast over the radio twice today a long statement by Hermann Dietrich, finance minister, replying to Schacht's charges.

While defying the allegation that the Reichsbank's foreign currency reserve was in any way usurped, the statement admits that Schacht was right in declaring the German foreign indebtedness is greater than set forth in the world bank report at Basel. He explained that the government is still gathering statistics.

It is charged by friends of the government that Schacht's accusations were a part of a preconceived plan agreed upon between extremist party leaders and industrialists to undermine currency and produce inflation.

Pick Schacht for Fireworks.

It is declared that industrialists in the Ruhr district recently asked the government to inflate the mark in order to compete with revived British industries. When Chancellor Bruening refused, it is understood they decided to take the drastic step of trying to wreck public confidence in the mark and picked Schacht as the most influential figure to toss the bomb.

The political situation is still confused, although Bruening is confident he will pull through with a small majority and close the reichstag within a week upon acquiring increased authority to govern a "dictatorship" during the winter months.

Defense Head Defies Threats.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—Gen. Wilhelm Groener, head of all German defense forces, answered threats against the government today with a terse declaration of determination "to make the reich's interests prevail against all parties."

Thus, directly after the Harzburg demonstration of the Nationalist opposition, which called for an overthrow of the present German régime yesterday, Gen. Groener met the challenge of Adolf Hitler and Alfred Hugenberg, opposition leaders.

Gen. Groener's utterances were significant. For the police powers, as well as the military, are in the hands of this last quartermaster general of the former imperial army as a consequence of his appointment by Chancellor Bruening to the dual cabinet post of minister of defense and minister of the interior.

"The dire distress which threatens the life of the German people can be overcome if all political forces unite under a clear, purposeful leadership for constructive work in behalf of the fatherland," Gen. Groener said. "This work can be accomplished only on a basis of law and the constitution, and the state's organs of enforcement must together serve this purpose.

"In no country is such concentration of powers as necessary as it is in Germany. For none is so threatened by the machinations of bolshevism, while on the other hand Germany has been disarmed to an extent unparalleled in history.

"I now take over my posts with the firm intention to conduct jointly the reich's organs of enforcement at the command of these two ministries, to safeguard the unanimity and even-handed justice of the executive within the whole reich against partisan influences and make the interests of the reich prevail against all parties."

LOOK FOR NEW HOOVER MOVE TO HELP BUSINESS

Relief to Railroads One Feature Considered.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Numerous plans looking toward relief for the railroads as well ward relief for the railroads as well as other parts of the national business and industrial structure not directly affected by the formation of the bankers' billion dollar national credit corporation were being studied by administration officials today.

DR. JULIUS KLEIN. [A. P. Photo.]

In some quarters the belief was expressed that President Hoover will have another announcement within the near future outlining the administration program for hastening the return of good times. In one high quarter, it was said that while many plans for aiding the railroads through stabilization of their bonds were under scrutiny, nothing definite had been agreed upon.

Should the interstate commerce commission grant the railroads an increase of freight rates no further step for railroad relief may be put forward until congress meets. In event the railroads are not given the relief they ask it seems certain that new efforts will be initiated by the administration. Up to date no practical method which would have the support of all interested groups has been found which can command the needed amount of financial support.

No Details Yet of Bank Plans.

Washington officials today continued to shroud in mystery important details regarding the field of operation and business methods to be employed in the administration of the billion dollar bankers' credit corporation now being set up to aid the weaker links of the banking structure. While expressing confidence that 500 millions would be subscribed at once for use by the pool, officials declined to specify which reserve districts will need aid from other districts.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, had planned a speech on the Hoover emergency relief program tonight, but the speech was canceled, following a conference this afternoon at the White House.

It was learned today that when the Hoover plan for the formation of a banking pool was first spread before the bankers only two reserve districts favored it, the other ten being opposed to the plan on the ground they did not need it. The assumption now is that the new credit corporation would take money from the strong reserve districts and use it in the weaker ones.

Don't Look for "Scramble."

Administration officials, while declining to specify the districts which will need aid, did say, not for quotation, that no scramble for aid is anticipated when the plan gets into operation. Interest rates are to be high in order to discourage borrowing except in cases of absolute necessity, it was said. This same administration official, one of the group connected with the formation of the President's relief plans, said that previous experience indicated the bankers would take no unusual risk when they subscribed to the pool.

In event of losses the deficit would be pro rated among all the member banks of the new association. Loans are to be made on real values, he said, and all transactions will be closely scrutinized. Confidence was expressed that Chicago and all the large cities would participate.

It is apparent that under the pool plan money raised, for instance in Chicago, might be expended in any part of the country. In case of a run on banks in the east or any other section money from the strong districts would be utilized to strengthen the weaker spots.

May Free Hoarded Cash.

Hoarding has taken approximately a billion dollars out of circulation, but according to treasury officials this will return quickly once public confidence is restored.

One suggestion for indirect federal reserve aid of importance to the railroads has been advanced. Under it the local clearing house associations would appraise the valuation of railroad bonds or other industrials brought to them. These associations would issue certificates against the bonds which would be rediscountable at the reserve institutions. The associations, however, would be required to guarantee the certificates. It was said today that officials are now undertaking to obtain some relief through the states for securities which have fallen in quotation below the minimum at which they are eligible for savings bank portfolios.

The state bank examiners, according to reports here, are taking into consideration the present situation and the actual intrinsic rather than the quotad value of bonds and permitting savings banks to keep them on the list of eligible assets. It was said that the states are not taking drastic action to remove these securities from eligible lists. Officials said that they did not know of any critical situation immediately in this regard.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF NEW YORK MOVES; MILLIONS TAKE TRIP

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—With few curious eyes to watch, a steady stream of trucks rumbled through the holiday-empty streets of the financial district today, carting some 500 million dollars in securities from the historic First National Bank building at 2 Wall street, Trinity church's oldest neighbor, to the bank's new temporary quarters at 52 Wall street, the home of the National City.

Dressed inconspicuously in a dark blue suit and battered gray hat, George, F. Baker Jr., who succeeded his father as chairman of the board upon the latter's death last spring, directed the moving, which was not contemplated until 4:30 Saturday afternoon.

ASTHMA DISAPPEARS

Recovery Follows Discovery of Basic Cause of Disease

Indianapolis—All who suffer with Bronchial Asthma will be interested in letters written by Mollie W. Mahan of Lyons, Illinois. The first, dated December 1, 1927, says in part:

"The night before I received Dr. Fugate's Remedy I came so near dying I can't explain how I ever got through the night. For the past two years I had not been able to draw a deep full breath without a terrible rattle in my throat. I had coughed until I thought I would die. I had taken shots in my arms until they made me so sick I had to stop. I tried everything I heard of and had no relief. After the first two or three days of taking your medicine I began to feel much better. Today I can breathe deep full breaths without a sign of rattle or cough. I think God with your help for my life today."

MOLLIE W. MAHAN.

A year later she wrote. "Dr. Fugate's Remedy has been such a blessing to me I want all who suffer with Bronchial Asthma to use it. I recommended it for a man who was sent to the Cook County Hospital to die with Bronchial Asthma. He was given one bottle of Dr. Fugate's Remedy and is now able to work."

In September, 1931, she wrote that she was still well and happy.

Copies of similar letters, together with an important booklet on Dr. Fugate's discovery of the cause of Bronchial Asthma and Hay Fever, will be sent free by The Fugate Co., Dept. T706, 126 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind. No matter how serious your case, write for this free booklet.

G. M. REYNOLDS TO BE A DIRECTOR OF BIG BANK POOL

Chosen One of 12 to Pass on Loans.

pool may have the effect of restoring public confidence in banks to such a degree that only a portion of it will actually be used and, therefore, the subscribing banks will be called on for only part of their pledges. The organization plan provides that the national directors shall call on the banks for partial payments only as, in their judgment, funds are needed.

Directors Meet Saturday.

New York, Oct. 12.—Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Trust company and one of the twelve directors of the National Credit corporation, the $500,000,000 banking pool arranged for the purpose of liberating bank resources throughout the country, announced today that the directors of the credit corporation would meet next Saturday at the Federal Reserve bank in New York to organize.

"Immediately following organization," he said, "the associations in the different districts can be organized and funds made available whereby subscribing banks may obtain the benefit of the facilities afforded by the corporation.

"The funds of the corporation are to be available for the assistance of banks in any part of the country," he explained. "The amount of money subscribed by the banks in each of the groups or association will not limit the amount which banks in that particular local association may borrow, under the rules the separate associations will establish, from the National Credit corporation.

Plan to Assure Banks Aid.

"The plan will assure that banks in any part of the country with sound assets may obtain such cash when necessary."

The articles of incorporation of the National Credit corporation, he added, will be filed at Dover, Del., tomorrow. They call for twelve shares of stock of $100 par value each to be subscribed by each of the twelve directors.

"The organization of the corporation and its cooperating local associations will be arranged tentatively during the next few days, so that when the final plans have been approved by the board of directors on next Saturday the operation of the undertaking can be put into effect," he said.

Bulgarian Cabinet Resigns; King Approves New One

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Premier Manlinoff resigned today on account of his health and his cabinet resigned with him. A new cabinet was formed and approved by King Boris, in which Muschanoff, former minister of the interior, became premier and foreign minister. The only other changes were the appointment of Jarganoff, former minister of public works, as minister of the interior, and Stefanoff, former president of the Bulgarian parliament, as minister of finance.

"To me, hair is a valuable asset" says Zeppo Marx

One of the Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business" at McVickers

"Personally, I consider hair a very valuable asset," Zeppo Marx tells us. "An asset for which there is no substitute. A faultlessly tailored suit and a tastily chosen cravat help to give a man that 'successful look,' but the picture is not complete unless he has a good head of hair. We unconsciously associate youth and manly vigor with a good head of hair."

There is no reason why you, too, cannot have this precious asset—a good head of hair. Thomas' scalp treatment, proved by 16 years of success, overcomes the causes of baldness, stops falling hair, ends dandruff, and actually re-grows hair on the thin or bald spots. It offers, at fees within the reach of all, a dignified, positive method of ending scalp troubles and promoting hair growth. AERIAL CLIPPER IS CHRISTENED BY MRS. HOOVER

Ship Biggest Commercial One Built in U. S.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Herbert Hoover picked up a bottle, waited until a man in uniform counted three, then swung it forward until it smashed to smithereens on the bow [I guess you call it a bow] of the 50 passenger Sikorsky airplane waiting to take off here this afternoon from the naval airport at Anacostia.

As the waters from the Caribbean burst out of the narrow necked jug and splashed on her deep green gown, her deep yellow roses, she said to the big ship, the biggest commercial plane ever built in the United States:

"I name thee 'American Clipper.'"

21 Countries Represented.

And frock coated diplomats, from the 21 countries and colonies of the Americas, over which this flagship of America's airway merchant marine will fly, stood at attention while the Marine band, in red and gold, played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

It was a gay, summery ceremony, but it marked the conclusion of three years of scientific building, and the beginning, according to Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, of safer, smoother, and speedier air travel in the Americas.

As soon as the anthem was over, J. T. Trippe, president of the Pan-American Airways, which owns the ship, escorted Mrs. Hoover around to the back of the 77 foot long flying boat and helped her up into it. There she signed the guest book, admired the ladies' lounge, learned that the passenger seats are copies of a famous Queen Anne easy chair; saw the electric range and refrigerator. Then she climbed down and other distinguished guests went in for a look around.

Cuban Ambassador Approves.

Retund Señor Don Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban ambassador, who had made a speech earlier in the day, puffed a little as he climbed up the stairs, but he smiled his admiration of everything.

Señor Dr. Doan Juan B. Sacasa, Nicaragua's tall, lean envoy, took the stairs two at a time. Several of the diplomats got caught in their canes. Mrs. "Dolly" Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, thought the ship was "lovely." Then they started the four motors and wind they kicked up blew Empress Eugenie hats all over the pier. Mr. Trippe, the diplomats, Postmaster Brown, and Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana and Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania stepped in, took their seats, and the ship slid down into the water, then posed up into the sky.

Address Americas from Sky.

A few minutes later Ambassador Ferrara, in Spanish, was telling the folks down in South America just how it felt to be up in the plane, and after that Postmaster Brown went to the microphone and told the people of this country how Washington looked from the air.

The American Clipper will enter the Trans-Caribbean Air line of the Pan-American Airways on their direct route between North and South America. This is a 1,350 mile route, and all but 50 miles of the way is over open water.

Youngest Student

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dugald Stewart McDougal, 15 years old, a graduate of the Arsenal Technical High school of Indianapolis, Ind., is the youngest freshman student at the University of Chicago, according to registration figures. The youth has begun his studies along a general line of arts and literature and plans to finish his education in the college of law. Dugald could read, write, and work mathematical problems at the age of 4, and had the highest scholastic average of any of his high school classmates.

STATE STREET TO MARK BIRTHDAY OF LIGHT SYSTEM

The fifth anniversary of the installation of the State street lighting system will be observed at a luncheon of the State Street Lighting association in the Palmer house at 1 p. m. tomorrow. At this luncheon title to the physical equipment of the lighting system will be conveyed to the association by the Surface lines and the Commonwealth Edison company.

Extending from Lake street to Van Buren street, the State street lighting system, it is claimed, is more brilliant than any other of similar length on a business street anywhere in the world. Plans that may be developed to extend the system north to Wacker drive and south to Congress street will be discussed at the luncheon.

BERLIN GRANTED CREDIT RENEWAL BY WORLD BANK

Austria Also Obtains an Extension on Loan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 12.—Renewals of short term credits to Germany and Austria were voted today by the directors of the Bank for International Settlements. The quarter share in Berlin's $100,000,000 credit falls due Nov. 4. It is expected that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Banks of England and France will also vote to take the same action on their quarter shares.

The world bank directors also voted to renew the $23,000,000 credit to the National Bank of Austria. Its debt would have expired Oct. 16.

Hope for an Accord.

The decision to renew these two short term credits was followed by a discussion of the international financial situation. The directors emphasized the importance of the forthcoming meeting between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France in Washington and the dire necessity of the two nations reaching an agreement on world questions of finance, economies, and international obligations.

The bankers asserted that only through an accord between the United States and France, who together hold 25 per cent of the world's gold supply, can there be an easement in the crisis.

War Debt Cut Expected.

They believe that an agreement will be reached between Washington and Paris which will lead to a successful outcome and thus clear the financial fog. The agreement is expected to embody a 50 per cent reduction in war debts and reparations, an extension of the Hoover moratorium for several years, and a pledge of a 25 per cent reduction in armament budgets.

FOUR FIREMEN, OVERCOME BY SMOKE, RESCUED

Four firemen were overcome by smoke last night while battling a fire in the two story plant of the Illinois Duster company, at 1944 Webster avenue. They were dragged to safety by other firemen who revived three of them and took the fourth to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

Those overcome were Edward Raschke, Harig Hausen, Anthony Bellis, and Thomas Moran, all members of engine company 35. Raschke was taken to the hospital where it was necessary to administer oxygen to revive him.

The blaze started from undetermined causes in the basement of the duster plant, and spread rapidly upward. An unusually dense smoke hampered firemen, and a 2-11 alarm was turned in by Marshall Michael J. Corrigan. He estimated the damage at $10,000. A crowd of more than 2,000 persons watched the blaze. Traffic was knotted in North Damen avenue.

2 DIE IN DIXON JAIL.

Dixon, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Barney Lafferty, 50, was found dead in his cell at Lee county jail today. He had been arrested for being intoxicated and while under the county physician's care was taken suddenly sick and died during the night. Charles Demmit of Chicago, a patient at Dixon state colony, was found dead in bed this morning by an attendant. A coroner's jury gave a verdict of death during an epileptic fit.

14 ATLANTIC CITY BANKS COMBINE INTO 4 GROUPS

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 13 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—The merger of 14 of Atlantic City's 16 banks into four major banking groups, with resources of more than $63,000,000, was announced at 12:30 a. m. today following a conference at which representatives of all of the city's banks attended.

The merger was a voluntary move by the bankers to simplify and strengthen the banking situation. Officials of both the federal and New Jersey banking departments who attended the conference and a series of similar conferences last week expressed their approval and ratification of the merger.

The two banks which did not enter the merger are the Boardwalk National and the Bankers Trust company. The Boardwalk National bank decided to retain its individuality because it is the only bank on the boardwalk.

The Bankers Trust company, headed by Senator Emerson L. Richards, will join one of the four major banking groups later.

Pepsodent announces a notable new discovery

An entirely new cleansing and polishing material has been developed by Pepsodent Laboratories. It is twice as soft as polishing materials in common use. Teeth are given higher polish, brighter luster—FILM stains disappear completely

THE Pepsodent Laboratories announce a new discovery. A revolutionary discovery contained in Pepsodent Toothpaste for more than six months.

Your dentist will tell you Pepsodent's policy has always been to improve constantly—no "fixed formula" to hamper progress. Research laboratories have a habit, in this modern age, of quickly obsoleting prior ideas. As new dental advances have come, Pepsodent has been the first to meet them.

Now once more Pepsodent advances. This time through a notable new discovery that possesses three exclusive virtues:

1. The new cleansing and polishing material in Pepsodent stands unequalled in removing stained, destructive FILM.
2. The new texture is invisibly fine. As a result it imparts a higher polish to enamel—a brilliant glaze or luster.
3. The new material is safe—this is most important of all. Safe because it's soft—yes, twice as soft—as polishing materials in common use.

Having made this new discovery we faced an equally great problem. How to combine it in our present formula without altering appearance or sacrificing the famous flavor that has made Pepsodent so long preferred by millions. We mastered this. In taste and in looks it is still the Pepsodent you have always known. In results and safety it is new—brand new.

Keeps teeth cleaner—safely

Pepsodent's new cleansing and polishing material brings a change in teeth's appearance within a few days' time. Newly discovered, it is different, totally different, from any now in use.

These facts are interesting: this discovery followed 7 years of research . . . 3 tons of raw materials were used in laboratory tests . . . we held a competition from among the ablest minds in chemistry . . . new equipment had to be invented, then erected . . . the process is a carefully guarded secret.

The idea was simple: to combine super film-removing power with super safety and yet retain the original appearance and taste of Pepsodent. A paradox! A seemingly hopeless task that has been the goal of every toothpaste manufacturer for the last decade. Pepsodent has solved it!

Pepsodent—special FILM-removing toothpaste

Removing FILM is, and always will be, Pepsodent's chief duty. Today's Pepsodent performs that duty better than any toothpaste ever has before.

FILM is that slippery coating on your teeth. It gathers germs that cause decay. It glues them tightly to enamel. FILM absorbs the stains from food and smoking and makes teeth unattractive. Removing FILM is important for beauty and for health.

Get a tube of Pepsodent today. Note how smooth and creamy. It is safe . . . utterly safe . . . on the softest baby teeth and the most delicate enamel. Pepsodent is today's outstanding scientific toothpaste.

THE RICHEST COUNTRY IN THE WORLD.

Visitors from abroad coming to this country are puzzled. They want to know what all the conversation about depression is about. They ride through a prosperous countryside with farm houses and barns in good repair. The cities appear to be flourishing also. There are a few beggars on the streets, but for much the most part the population appears to be well fed, well clothed and well housed. The shopping centers are crowded. Only a few of the factories are boarded up.

To be sure, the visitors see only superficial appearances. There is a great deal of unemployment with suffering and fear as its consequences, and these aspects of the times do not manifest themselves to the casual observer. A good many Americans, however, can see nothing else. In their minds our position is desperate, if it is not already hopeless.

As between the two views, that of the visitors comes much nearer the truth. The essentials of a prosperous country cannot be hidden from sight and they are here as abundantly as they ever were. Our wealth in natural resources, in transportation facilities, in industrial plant and equipment has not been taken from us in the last few years. On the contrary, the hard times have led to the introduction of improvements and economies in all lines of industry and trade which will be reflected in profits and wages as soon as the depression begins to lift. If our fields had been rendered sterile, our railroads had been torn up and our industrial equipment had been allowed to rust we might have genuine cause for alarm. None of these things has happened and none of them will happen unless the breed of Americans has suddenly changed its character.

The men who will come out of this period on top of the heap are not those who are taking a despairing view. Instead, they are going steadily about the business of acquiring what the cowards are too frightened to hold. For every share of stock that is sold there is a buyer. At recent price levels the future of America is being heavily discounted. The foundations of future wealth and security are being laid today by farsighted, courageous men and women, able and willing to think for themselves.

In times such as we are passing through the temptation is to lie back and place the blame upon conditions over which we have little control. This tendency reveals itself in the widespread belief that business in this country cannot improve until Europe recovers from its political and economic ills. A much more reasonable assumption is that Europe will not recover until we lead the way. We have the greater wealth and resources, and our continent is not torn by national feuds nor divided by tariff walls as theirs is. If our courage matched our other endowments the recovery would not be long delayed.

Perhaps even that quality has not wholly deserted us, as the response which greeted the President's program for rehabilitation suggests. The markets strengthened at once and held their gains in the face of heavy liquidation from abroad. Confidence breeds confidence. Americans are not naturally gloomy. If the turn has not come already it is not likely to be long delayed, and, when it comes, fortunes are going to be made. Those who are afraid to act now are likely to be too late to share in the gain.

THE METHODIST CHURCH IN POLITICS.

Methodist ministers composing the Rock River conference of their church adopted resolutions approving the Anti-Saloon league and supporting national prohibition, supporting the rights of aliens to citizenship without a pledge to the country in war, urging the President to do what he can to have the allies relieve Germany of their indictment of Germany as a war criminal, urging the United States to enter the world court, and to bring about the abolition of national armies and navies by the creation of a world police force and condemning the individualistic and competitive organization of society as more worthy of the jungle than of Christianity.

Thus the Methodist church of this section in its official assembly issues a political platform and makes itself one of the sources of authority for the state upon political questions. It makes the church a government guide and censor, seeking to determine policies of state at home and abroad, and to re-create society by legislative enactment and international treaties.

The conference thus became a political as well as a religious body seemingly as much concerned with the conduct of the President and of congress as with the ministry of religion. The wisdom of the ministers, they having decided to constitute a political convention, might, in each instance, be doubted. They propose a makeover of society, as in Russia, and a world government, with the morals policeman at home and the international policeman abroad. The program is at least interesting, and when it asks experience for its justification it is supposable that the clergymen would instance the success of the league of nations and the supremacy of the Kellogg peace pact in keeping the Chinese from the aggressions of the Japanese.

The sentiments of the ministers do not seem related to their intelligence and probably are not intended to be, but nevertheless there might be the reflection that whenever the church gets into the state the state gets into the church. If the Methodist church went the way of the Church of England, which vainly asks parliament to permit a change in ritual, the Rock River conference might find its religious policies subject to such alterations as a session of congress might decide to make in them and not effective without consent.

MR. STIMSON JOINS THE LEAGUE.

Secretary Stimson has sent a note to the league of nations through its general secretary at Geneva asking that the league make haste to "assert all pressure and authority within its competence" in settling the trouble in Manchuria before it gets completely out of hand. The American state department, reserving the right to act independently, offered to coöperate with the league and suggested that the procedure was outlined in the covenant.

The chief impression which Mr. Stimson makes in world diplomacy is that he is on his way. Where or why is seldom clear. If the present secretary of state were known for a satiric touch, an acid element in his thought, it might be guessed that his note to the league was sassy and that he intended to twit the secretariat, council and assembly upon the notable reluctance and proved incompetence to do anything to stop Japan and help China, both members of the club pledged to respect the inviolability of rights, and save the world from the consequences of aggression. Mr. Stimson is not to be suspected of this. Many ideas may be housed under his hat, but no idea of affronting the international stuffed shirts with any wheeze, nifty or wisecrack.

Mr. Stimson is plainly up to some good works, although his reliance upon the league of nations betrays an innocence of events and probabilities which must commend him to the pure in heart. The itch to be of service already has made for the United States a number of clandestine relations with the league, but it has been understood that these affairs were furtive if not illicit. Now the state department invites the league to make a plan and call on the United States for coöperation. As a dare it's probably safe enough, but is it to be understood that Uncle Sam at last has decided, without any authority from home, to take a seat in the council at the moment when it is more than ordinarily discrediting all its pretensions?

FIGHT THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

Chief Smoke Inspector Chambers has reiterated his intention to enforce the anti-smoke ordinance strictly and vigorously, for which the people of Chicago should be grateful. The smoke nuisance is a continuous and costly drain upon the health, comfort and pocketbooks of the inhabitants of this city, and, as Inspector Chambers reminds us, persists long after ample time has passed to put equipment in order. Since heating plants were shut down in the spring obsolete equipment could have been replaced, and those who ignored the opportunity have no excuse to ask for leniency.

A good deal of the trouble comes from slovenly and incompetent firing, and this can be cured by sharp discipline. The authorities and the public should support it. As for installing proper equipment where it has not yet been installed, now is the time to get it done. Putting in modern furnaces would be employment relief of the right kind. Also putting existing plants in the best possible condition, as directed by Inspector Chambers. A belching chimney is an advertisement of incompetence, wasteful operation, and bad citizenship. It should not be tolerated, and every one should coöperate with the smoke bureau in the enforcement of the anti-smoke law.

PLACING THE MASSACRE MONUMENT.

Disposition of the monument, formerly at 18th and Calumet avenue, commemorating the Fort Dearborn massacre seems to be in doubt. The occupants of a building at Lake street and Wabash avenue have petitioned the mayor to use his influence to have the monument set up in Wacker drive just west of the Wabash avenue intersection.

We think this would be a mistake. The monument would lose by it much of its historic interest. It should be placed as near as practicable to the site of the massacre, probably in Grant park near 16th street. The actual spot of the attack was never known, but such evidence as was available indicated a point in this neighborhood. The dunes where the party was ambuscaded have long disappeared and city streets and buildings take their place, but Grant park offers an approximate location and the monument would be a significant reminder in that locality of an event which has had a conspicuous place in the romance of Chicago's earliest days.

We have lost or obscured too many of our historic landmarks through indifference or ignorance, and we should be careful with what remain. To place the monument on Wacker drive would pervert history and sacrifice most of the monument's significance.

Editorial of the Day

THE THING THAT COUNTS.

[The Sun, Baltimore.]

In the past fiscal year, ending June 30, 18,564 persons were convicted in Virginia of violating the dry laws. This compared with 17,857 in the previous year. The number of stills seized was 2,602, as compared with 2,581. And the fines imposed amounted to $677,470, as compared with $673,749 in the preceding twelve months.

The statistics should throw some light on the progress made in enforcing prohibition in Virginia, but the kind of light depends upon whether wets or drys interpret the figures. The latter will contend that they show greater vigor on the part of enforcement officials, while the former will declare that they prove the growing disrespect for an unpopular law. Common sense suggests that continued rise in number of arrests certainly indicates, in any event, a significant increase in the number of those subject to arrest.

But, after all, statistics have lost their weight in influencing opinion on the dry laws. People are forming conclusions about prohibition by what they see and hear. Only the willfully blind and deaf can fail ultimately to be convinced by evidence of this kind.

HAVING BOYS STAND STRAIGHT.

GEN. L. R. GIGNILLIAT was dissatisfied with the results from teaching calisthenics, particularly with adolescent boys. He came to the conclusion that the whole matter was long on motive and short on motivation. He remembered the perfect posture of Negro women who carried buckets of water and baskets of clothes on their heads, as he had seen them during his youth spent in the south.

They had a motive for their feat. Success in carrying things on their heads meant hands free for other things. It meant a minimum amount of muscle fatigue in carrying the clothes home. Failure meant another trip to the well for water, or more hours at the tub.

He decided that he would get a motive, and also that he would change his method. His new plan called for grading the boys of his school in posture. The grades ran from "A," perfect, to "D," very poor. The boys graded "A" and "B" were excused from setting up exercises, calisthenics, and other noncompetitive exercises, and the excuse was good as long as they maintained good posture. Boys in grades "C" and "D" were given extra posture drills and work, and were kept at the extras until their faults were corrected. So much for the motivation.

Before adopting new methods he consulted with Dr. J. E. Goldthwait. The first step was to inaugurate a silhouetteograph method. This consisted in making a silhouette of the boy standing in profile and grading his posture on that. This silhouette was filed with the boy's papers and grades. Periodically, thereafter, other silhouettes were made to record the progress. All the boys who grade "C" and "D" are turned over to the proper parties for corrective exercises.

One of the most frequently encountered defects was swayback. When most people are told to stand straight they make an effort to throw the shoulders back and, in doing so, the sway in the back is increased. When a swayback person lies flat on a hard surface, a man can run his fist under the swayed part of the back. The exercise for swayback is as follows: Lying flat on a hard surface, draw up the knees, feet on the table, until the former sway is flat on the table. Now thrust the hips towards the heels with a rotary motion, keeping the back flat.

To increase the spread of the ribs at the pit of the stomach: Lift the shoulders, draw in the chin, grasp the edge of the ribs on each side, pull them up and out, inhale and exhale several times.

To make oneself posture conscious stand with the back against the wall, heel four inches from the wall, toes turned in slightly; lean back until the head and body touch the wall, neck straight, chin in, chest raised, abdomen drawn in; holding this posture, use one hand to push body away from wall and forward until it is exactly perpendicular. Repeat.

INTOXICATION AND INFECTION.

C. E. W. writes: Will you please explain the difference between these terms, especially in regard to whether disease due to one or the other is different in regard to being contagious?

Are intoxication, or internal poisoning, caused, say, by spoiled food, and infection caused by a virus, the same or different things pathologically? I wish I could state the question better, but I am sure you will know what I mean.

REPLY.

Intoxication is caused by certain chemical substances; infection by certain microbes. The toxic chemicals may be the products of microbes, but the creature is not present in person. The difference is about the same as that between the movies and the old theater. Whisky is the product of a microbe and it causes intoxication. The microbe—the yeast plant—is not present. Consumption is an infection. The microbe is present in person. All forms of food poisoning, properly speaking, are intoxications. However, a few food outbreaks are really infections due to live bacteria present in the foods. Those are not food poisonings, in the proper sense. There are certain bacterial diseases that are intoxications in a certain sense. Diphtheria is an illustration. The diphtheria bacillus locates in the throat, causing inflammation there. In those it is an infection. The poisons secreted by the bacillus are absorbed and circulated by the blood, causing most of the systemic symptoms of diphtheria. In this phase diphtheria is an intoxication. To be contagious, the live bacteria must be present.

SENSITIVE DENTINE.

C. L. T. writes: I have a front tooth that has been giving me trouble lately, when eating hot or cold foods. It is very sensitive, even when breathing air through the mouth.

REPLY.

This condition is known as sensitive dentine. Painting the sensitive tooth with alcoholic iodine gives relief. If it tends to persist, change the diet so as to get more lime and vitamins.

VIOLATES ZONING LAW.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—In the vicinity of my home there is a wooden shack, recently used as a real estate office. The owner of this property has recently leased this building out for a grocery store. As I understand it, there is a restriction against stores on this street. Is there not some way possible to force this store to move, as it is contrary to the restrictions and injures property values near by?

L. M. M.

This district is an apartment zone, and as no business is permitted within that zone the owner has been notified to discontinue the use of premises for business purposes. This department will take such further action as may be necessary to enforce the ordinances. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

EXAMINATION NOT SCHEDULED.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Will it be possible for you to have my name put on the civil service list examination for muckers and dynamiters, as I figure there should be an examination coming up again and I don't know how to go about it? I have had ten years' experience in that line of work.

F. M.

We have no labor examinations called at this time, but have placed the name of the writer on our mailing list for notification of the next examination called for construction laborer.

J. S. OSBORNE, Secretary, civil service commission.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

NO, WE JUST CAN'T DO IT! Do what? Well, the Hon. Flem D. Sampson, himself, invites us to the field trials of the National Foxhunters' association at Louisville come November, but, governor, thank you kindly, we can't go. It isn't old Gen. Depression that makes us decline with thanks, although the general has quite a bit to do with it. But, in the first place, one of the events of the field trials will be a drag race, which means that the hunters will chase an anise bag all over field and dale. As a former vice president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Anise Bags we could not consistently go to Kentucky in November. And, besides that, we just can't bear to see the poor anise seed bag straining every nerve and muscle to get away from cruel hounds that follow so relentlessly on the trail. We hate to see the poor anise seed bag trembling with fright behind a shock of corn congratulating himself that he has thrown his tormentors off the track. "Ah ha," thinks the anise seed bag, "now I am safe and soon I will be back home with mamma and the children." Then comes the horrid baying of the hounds as they find the trail again, and then the whole pack is once more in full cry. And finally the poor, quivering anise bag, yelping for mercy, stands at bay and is torn to pieces by the dogs, while one of the hunters clips his tail off with a gleaming knife and rides away in triumph. Honestly, we just can stand it. Nor can we bear the hunt dinner, where brave men in red coats raise high the stirrup cup (it would be a stirrup cup, wouldn't it?) and sing so cheerily, "A hunting we would go, a hunting we would go," as the men are pictured in the old English hunting pictures. But when they did this sort of thing in England they had old Jamaica rum in their glasses. We just couldn't have a good time seeing men in boots and funny pants and red coats raising their glasses and singing "A hunting we will go" with nothing in their glasses but buttermilk or sarsaparilla. No, there wouldn't be any kick in that. But some day, governor, some day, when present conditions have changed, if you know what we mean, we'll join you in a fox hunt in old Kaintucky, sah. With a mint julep, a real old fashioned Kentucky mint julep, under our belts, we'd run down an anise seed bag ourself on foot and when he sprang at us snapping and snarling we'd give him a swift kick on the snoot and, snapping off his tail, go with joy to the hunt dinner and lead the singing of "A hunting we will go," because then there would be something in the glasses worth singing about.

FOOLS.

What fools are we to think
That in the crowded marts
We soon shall find the prize
To satisfy our hearts!

Amid the human throngs—
An onward plunging stream—
Sometimes a Spirit calls
That wakes us from our dream:

"Your life is something more Than running to and fro;—
A thousand dawns have died
Whose spell you could not know!"

MR. SCARFACE CAPONE has lived like a prince in his castle by the sea down at Miami and he wears shirts of the rarest silk and drives in the most expensive autos, and yet, poor and humble though we are, we envy not the Scarface; no, not we. People must be always rushing up to him and asking him how he got the scar.

WE HUMANS are hard to understand. Down in Rio de Janeiro the National Coffee council has been given authority to destroy a large part of the coffee crop. And yesterday in Rush street a man touched us for a dime to buy a cup of coffee. Now, why should tons and tons of perfectly good coffee be destroyed—oh, well, we just can't figure it out.

AND TWO rather cheering items in yesterday's news. A new airplane was christened with champagne, yessir, a bottle of real, sparkling, extra dry champagne, and Georgetown university museum put on exhibition a wine chest with gold trimmed bottles that once belonged to none other than G. Washington. Little things, say you, but, ah, it is the little things, such as little straws, that show which way the tide is setting, which way the wind is blowing.

"HELLO, all my friends in America," said George Bernard Shaw over the radio Sunday night in beginning his talk on Russia, "and how are all you dear old boobs?" Boobs? Ah, let us one hundred per cent Americans rise up in our might and rebuke George Bernard in scathing language. Or sue him for slander! Or send somebody over to give him a sharp slap on the wrist! Boobs? He calls us boobs! But privately and between ourselves—let us think this over. Boobs? Boobs? Now I wonder! Boobs? Let us think this over.

DISTANT.

I wonder if you ever think
Of things you'd like to say
To me, and then remember
That I am far away.

I think of words so often,
A silly thing to do,
Then I remember suddenly
I won't be seeing you!

AND NOW the baseball season is over we could really sit right down and study the five hundred million dollar bankers' pool plan, but there's that voice away back in our mind that keeps saying, "Would Northwestern have beaten Notre Dame if it hadn't rained?"

THE PAPER UMBRELLA

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1915.

LONDON.—Beginning of hostilities by Bulgaria on Serbia, the capture by Germans of Semendria on the Danube river; the declaration that Russian troops tomorrow will join the English and French in the Balkans, and a report that Rumania is mobilizing its army, featured the kaleidoscopic events in the Balkans today. Bulgaria inaugurated its actual entry into the war by attacking Gariboghaz, near Knihashevats on the River Timok, in an effort to pound its way to the railroad connecting Nish and Sofia. Emperor William has arrived at the Austro-German headquarters in Serbia, according to a dispatch from Copenhagen, which gives as authority a telegram from Berlin. The report that the Russians would come to the aid of the allies was voiced in a speech on the Balkan crisis by Premier Viviani, in the French chamber of deputies. He did not specify at what point the Russians would strike.

CHICAGO.—Streeterville has declared war. Led by "Cap" George Wellington Streeter of the Deestrict of Lake Michigan, which is at the door of Lake Shore drive, and Ma Streeter, the little nation expelled a force of overwhelming numbers. "Cap" Streeter was arrested on charges of resisting an officer and selling liquor illegally, but Ma beat an orderly retreat. Sergt. George Cudmore received a wound on his right shoulder which he charges up to Mrs. Streeter.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1901.

OMAHA, Neb.—Pat Crowe, the alleged kidnaper of Eddie Cudahy and who has been a hunted fugitive for ten months, has offered to deliver himself into the hands of the police. The only condition he makes is that the rewards, aggregating $50,000 for his arrest and conviction, be withdrawn. Edward A. Cudahy Sr. has agreed to the proposal and it is almost certain that the city council will do likewise. Crowe is said to fear that the large reward offered for his conviction will be an incentive to manufacture testimony against him. Eddie Cudahy was kidnaped on the night of Dec. 8, 1900, and his father paid $25,000 in gold for his ransom.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Harrison is not the only member of his family who can make a speech. Mrs. Harrison made a speech herself yesterday, her first effort in that line, when she appeared before the Catholic Women's National league meeting in the drill hall of Masonic temple.

CHICAGO. — Five thousand employés of the Illinois Central railroad, including practically every conductor, brakeman, switchman and yardman, except those in the far south, will receive an increase in wages within the next month. This was decided on at a conference between officers of the road and representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. It involves an increase in expenditures by the company of between $400,000 and $500,000 a year.

CHICAGO.—The Garibaldi monument in Lincoln park was dedicated by Italians and the Erikson monument in Humboldt park was dedicated by Norwegian societies.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1881.

WASHINGTON. — Guiteau's apprehensions are increasing as the day of his arraignment and trial approaches. He said this morning that he was too sick to appear in court. The district attorney was not ready for him and will allow him the customary two days to consider the indictment before bringing him into court.

CHICAGO.—Four masked robbers burglarized the house of Allan Fairbank in Wayne township, Du Page county, about three miles west of Wheaton. The robbers gagged Mr. Fairbank, Mrs. Fairbank, and their two daughters, and then took from various hiding places $10,200 in registered United States bonds, about $250 in currency, and some $6 or $7 in small silves.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

ACROSS THE CENTURIES.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Brother Pegler, THE TRIBUNE'S great infinitive splitter, seems to have aroused the ire of sundry fans given over to the belief that the baseball players are the greatest works of nature. Since it is difficult for a writer to defend himself, may an interested reader present the other side of the picture?

Pegler has been called a hard-bitten cynic in addition to other things. Why? He is the most enlightened sports writer in America and one of the few who write with distinction. He intelligently refrains from elevating a bunch of good but unimportant athletes to the hero ranks. He portrays sport as it is—a business appealing to the most ordinary of human impulses. He punctures the bumptious pretensions of a bunch of grown-up kids who get paid for socking apples, pugilists' mugs, pigskins, and golf balls. All of these activities are pleasant and healthful, but properly appraised they rate with any other minor amusements of human animals. We already have too much heroizing of Babe Ruths, Dempseys, Cantors, and their ilk. It is scarcely wise to make clowns and entertainers the highest products of an enlightened civilization. More power to Pegler's wisdom! He gives sports their due and no more.

"Let one but win a race through fleetness of foot, or be victorious in the pentathlon, there where lies the sacred field of Zeus, in Olympia, hard by the river of Pisas; or let him be victorious in wrestling, or in a bloody boxing match, or in the terrible contest called the pancration—in the eyes of the citizens he will be resplendent with glory; he will gain a conspicuous seat of honor in the public assemblies, there will be feasting for him at public expense, and a gift from his city for a token. . . . This is in truth a most heedless custom; nor is it right thus to prefer strength to precious wisdom."

No, Pegler did not write that. It was written by a like sports writer of the year 530 B. C., one Xenophanes. Human nature seems to be about the same today, but always there must be men like Pegler to put buncombe and sports in their proper places. A READER.

A DISH OF CROW.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—In the sporting section of last Sunday's paper the following was printed:

Pat Malone, discussing the White Sox during the regular season, said, "Give me a team of eight bloomer girls out of the old ladies' home and with my arm I can lick that bunch of sandlotters."

Now that the city series is over and the White Sox are the champs, and Pat Malone pitched to them, I wonder if he would be kind enough to make another statement. W. J. MURRAY.

SHORT SELLING.

Hinsdale, Ill., Oct. 5.—If short selling is wrong, how do critics account for the fact that after the farm board went long all the wheat offered them, or about 250,000,000 bushels, the market then made unprecedented low prices? Maybe the critics stopped figuring before coming to the conclusion. J. S. SCHONBERG.

TOM PAINE.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Thanks for the editorial, "Tom Paine and the Hall of Fame." ALFRED D. MILLER.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY CHILDREN.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—"Jimmie goes without lunch and breakfast," as told by Mr. Kinsley in THE TRIBUNE this morning, tugged at our heartstrings. However, he neglected to give credit to that band of splendid women, the Parent-Teacher associations. These organizations have not only provided the funds but the members have given generously of their time to prepare and serve warm, nourishing lunches to children who otherwise would have gone hungry. In most of the schools, also, it was the P. T. A. which attended to the matter of providing these children with food during vacation time.

In reckoning sacrifices bear this in mind: The teachers have not had their pay since April, whereas in a number of homes of P. T. A. members who have contributed money for these children there has not been a pay day since a year ago April.

By all means give the teachers all the thanks you can for the work they are doing—they deserve it—but ask those same teachers to tell you of the solid work done by the parent-teacher organizations throughout the city. You'll have your eyes opened. E. C. A.

BLUE BLOOD.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—After reading your editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE entitled "American Family Crests" I am moved to wonder if it is not your policy rather to provoke controversy than to be accurate and reliable in your statements. It is true enough to state that many of the early colonists migrated to New England under pressure of economic necessity or religious persecution, but this fact does not disprove them heirs of aristocratic lineage.

Some of them were members of old and distinguished families duly registered on the heraldic rolls. How their personal fortunes could affect their claims to aristocratic descent is beyond my comprehension, but it is all clear enough, apparently, to the writer of this ridiculous editorial. CAROL BARNES.

AFTER BEING SMILED UPON.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—This morning when I left my hotel I had a very happy surprise. A young lady approached me with the most charming smile I ever got and handed me a blue star. Being in a hotel you naturally are a stranger and you do not expect to be greeted by young ladies with heavenly smiles. If you ever traveled much you know how badly one misses the home friendliness. It is just as necessary for a healthy life as vitamin A to Z put together.

My suggestion would be: Post young ladies who are capable of smiling the sunny smile at the doors of all the hotels during the morning hours every day. They could make a collection for the unemployed. Every one would certainly be glad to make a small contribution every day and would think it a bargain at that. JOHANNES KUCHENMEISTER.

YES.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 8.—Will it interest you to know that the old Roman name for wine dealers, or wine merchants was "cauponea"? Who knows what subtle influence may have traveled through the ages. Only in modern Italian the word for "blockhead," "stubborn fellow" is "capone." M.

CARDINAL CALLS ON WOMEN TO AID RELIEF WORK

Catholic Council Hears Plea for Charity.

A call to Catholic women to interest themselves in civic affairs and charity was issued yesterday by Cardinal Mundelein.

The cardinal addressed the Council of Catholic Women of the archdiocese of Chicago on the first anniversary celebration of the organization's founding. More than 2,700 women who had attended several banquet halls in the Palmer house crowded the Grand ball room to hear the cardinal's message.

"Although money and clothing are plentiful," Cardinal Mundelein began, "yet we are confronted on every hand by poverty. We as a people have got ourselves into a panicky state. We have gone from the heights to the depths in a short time. The reins of leadership are in a snarl and no one seems to be able to untangle them.

True Charity in Adversity.

"We forget that conditions have been thus before. The pendulum that has been swinging so far must surely swing back again. God sends these depressions to chasten us, and to unite us. In adversity, strange as it may seem, we see instances of true charity and consideration for others.

"I would rather be the spiritual head of this diocese at a time like this than in the more prosperous years," the cardinal continued. "It was easy for us to erect new buildings, to expand our educational facilities. It is in adversity that men turn to God. It is then that we feel the need of comfort that men cannot give."

Cardinal Mundelein declared that although parish incomes have dropped never before have the churches been so filled, the schools so crowded, the confessional and altar rails so generously patronized, as in these times. Charity is spreading, he said, irrespective of creed. He complimented Chicagoans for their "fine sense of civic pride, and the Catholic women are an integral part of these constructive efforts to curtail depression."

Tells Pope's Call to Service.

After reading excerpts from the pope's recent encyclical referring to unemployment and to the care of needy children, the cardinal declared the pope's messages to be particularly for Catholic women, and should be interpreted as a call to a service that belongs to women.

"During the coming winter we will need all the help you can give," the cardinal said. "We of the Catholic charities will do what we can. All endeavor must be given to the relief of poor families in their own homes. The more we can give from our own means the more we can give through the citizens' emergency relief, so ready to back up our own endeavor."

THE RELIEF DRIVE

A total of $97,025 was added yesterday to the joint emergency relief fund, which brings the aggregate so far to $1,134,580. Yesterday's contributions were obtained by solicitors for special gifts from wealthy residents of Cook county. The division headed by John Stuart turned in cash or pledges for $58,575 and D. F. Kelly's section reported $35,450.

The amounts obtained by each team captain of Mr. Stuart's section follow:

Team Captain.	Amt. Pledged.
Max Adler	$17,675
John A. Stoddard	4,400
Douglas Stuart	$5,000
John P. Wilson	1,800
Robert A. Gardner	2,500
Total	$58,575

The day's results for Mr. Kelly's section are:

Team Captain.	Amt. Pledged.
Britten I. Budd	$ 7,000
Joseph P. Connery	4,150
Donald B. Douglas	18,100
James B. Forgan Jr.	3,800
Henry X. Strauss	4,500
Total	$38,450

More Relief Stations.

The Salvation Army, the Volunteers of America, and the Chicago Commons announced yesterday that they are perfecting plans to provide relief during the winter. The Salvation Army will operate four additional relief stations, one of which opened yesterday at 2390 Milwaukee avenue.

The regional officers of the Volunteers of America met in the Stevens hotel with Gen. Ballington Booth of New York presiding. They expect to complete details of their relief plans tomorrow.

Glenford W. Lawrence of the Chicago Commons announced what that organization plans to do for the Italian community in which it is located. Prominent Italian organizations are coöperating in finding jobs and in giving aid.

The City club announced a discussion of the relief situation at noon today by Dean Ralph E. Heilman of the joint emergency relief organization and by the Rev. Johnston Myers of the Immanuel Baptist church, who is operating independent relief agencies.

Jack Oakie Sued Again on Auto Collision Charge

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—As a result of a collision between the automobile of Jack Oakie and another car, two more persons have filed suit against the film actor. Margaret Dunlap sued him last week. Today Charles McCarty and Herbert Martin joined the litigation against Oakie, whom they declare to have been driving carelessly. Both men assert they were injured. They ask $2,000.

TEAR GAS BURNS GUARD, AROUSES JOLIET CONVICTS

Nicholas Geuther, 45 years old, a guard at the Sateville penitentiary, is in St. Joseph's hospital at Joliet, temporarily blinded and seriously burned on the face, as a result of his curiosity concerning the operation of a tear gas gun. Thirty-five convicts confined in solitary cells at the prison were also gassed on Sunday when Geuther discharged the gun in his own face.

He had been shown the gun by another guard, who visited the cellhouse where Geuther was on duty.

As the tear gas seeped into their cells, the prisoners in solitary confinement set up an outcry which brought Oren Coleman, deputy warden, rushing to the cellhouse at the head of a group of guards armed with rifles, suspecting that a riot was in progress. Several prisoners were removed to the infirmary, but none was seriously injured, physicians said.

WOMAN DIES OF INFECTION.

Mrs. Emma Williams, 57 years old, 5344 Drexel avenue, died yesterday at the Jackson Park hospital of an infection which started several weeks ago when she scratched her finger on a nail.

HOLD SUSPECT IN BLACKLIDGE FARO SWINDLE

Victims Asked to View Iowa Prisoner.

Riley Gaffigan, 43 years old, alleged Chicago confidence man, was being held in Washington, Ia., yesterday as a suspect in the famous Blacklidge-Litsinger faro swindle. Chief Walter Moody of the state highway police said in Springfield that he had questioned Gaffigan. Chief Moody said he had asked Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge and Fred Litsinger to go to Iowa to determine if Gaffigan is one of the three men who took $50,000 from them last January.

Mrs. Blacklidge could not be reached last evening. Litsinger said he had not been informed of the arrest but that he would not leave the city to confront the prisoner. Fred Litsinger is a nephew of Edward R. Litsinger, tax reviewer, whose money was lost in the game. Mrs. Blacklidge, at the time of the swindle, was collector of internal revenue for the northern district of Illinois.

Long Police Record.

Gaffigan, Chief Moody said, has a long record as a confidence man. The suspect was arrested with a companion last Thursday. They were suspected of attempting to swindle wealthy farmers in the vicinity. Gaffigan carried $1,400 in $100 bills and $115,000 in spurious cashier checks, officials said. The pair would enter a big poker game, Chief Moody said, and attempt to cash or pay off with the checks.

Gaffigan denied he had anything to do with the faro swindle, saying he had spent the last year in the south.

Third Suspect Escapes.

Gaffigan, who has aliases of McDonald, Burgess, and Mahoney, told Chief Moody that the confidence game racket had been ungroftable in the south, and that he was moving north. His companion is J. J. Kellogg, also of Chicago. A third man, of the name of Thompson, escaped.

The men had driven to Washington and other Iowa towns in a large sedan they had purchased in Florida. The car was later found to be carrying fictitious license plates issued in Minnesota.

Ross C. Saunders, Chicago, of the American Bankers' association went to the Iowa town to question the men in regard to the checks found on them.

One of the swindlers, George L. Perry, was shot to death last April at his home in South Bend. Mrs. Blacklidge identified his body as that of the leader of the trio.

Questioned on Bank Robbery.

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Quincy police said today they believed J. J. Kellogg and Riley Gaffigan, under arrest in Washington, Ia., were the same pair questioned last week concerning a bank robbery in Hannibal, Mo.

Charges Political Effort to Ruin Graft Prosecution

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who has been trying for a year to bring to trial the graft conspiracy charges against former officials of the sanitary district, issued a statement last night assailing the defendants and their political allies. He charged that a series of conferences had been held recently in which the defendants and their associates "high in political life" had made agreements intended to wreck the prosecution of the case.

Timothy J. Crowe, who was president of the sanitary district board during the "whoopee era," and eight other former trustees and officials of the district are the defendants in the indictment, which is waiting before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court for assignment to a trial judge. The case was pending for eight months before Judge Joseph B. David, but last week a change of venue was obtained.

The Prosecutor's Statement.

"I have very reliable information that shortly before the sanitary district case was transferred by Judge David to the chief justice of the Criminal court some very remarkable conferences were held between certain of the defendants and their associates high in political life," says the prosecutor's statement.

"At some of these conferences astounding agreements were made and guaranties were given that very definite results were to be forthcoming within a period of thirty days.

"If the wreckage proposed by the agreements and guaranties in question shall ever occur, it may be well for certain gentlemen to reflect as to whether they will ever be extricated from its sordid toils. From some observation of wrecking operations, I will say that this constitutes as huge and risky an undertaking as any one ever shouldered."

When asked to amplify his charges and tell of the alleged meetings, Prosecutor Northup asserted: "A panicy state of mind on the part of several defendants shortly before the case was sent back to the chief justice by Judge David led them to demand from their friends absolute assurances. These same men now profess confidence that they are in no danger from the prosecution of the case."

Judge Fisher, when apprised of Prosecutor Northup's statement, said: "I will pay no attention to any statements made out of court."

Judge Fisher indicated that some action toward a new assignment of the graft case will be made during the week. The Criminal court as now constituted contains six Democratic judges and one Republican. Judge George Fred Rush, the only Republican, it is reported, will not get the case. The other Criminal court judges beside the chief justice are Philip J. Sullivan, John Prystalski, Joseph J. Kelly, Rudolph Desort, and Walter B. Stanton.

Started Three Years Ago.

The prosecution of Crowe and his codefendants started three years ago when Frank J. Loesch, employed as a special prosecutor to fight the alliance of crime and politics, called witnesses before the grand jury. The prosecution was taken over by State's Attorney Swanson when he took office, and shortly thereafter Prosecutor Northup was given complete charge of the cases.

Three sets of indictments have been returned by grand juries since the case was begun, the first having been returned on May 3, 1929.

The defendants, besides Crowe, are James M. Whalen, John K. Lawler, Frank J. Link, John J. Touhy, and August W. Miller, former trustees; John Miller, Timothy L. Connolly, and Martin Edelstein, former officials of the district. Connolly has been a fugitive for some time.

Court Frees Gun Girl; She's Seized by U. S.

Anna Albrecht, 18 years old, was freed yesterday by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, but was seized by an immigration officer a few moments later. The government agent said the girl was from Nova Scotia and that her papers will be examined. Police arrested the girl on Saturday and found a revolver in her purse.

KIN BEGIN FIGHT OVER ESTATE OF RICH MRS. WOOD

2 Sets of Claimants; One Plea Set for Today.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A determined legal battle will be fought by two sets of relatives of Mrs. Ida E. Wood, the 93 year old eccentric widow, to gain temporary and then permanent possession of her estate, which already amounts to nearly $1,000,000 in cash and securities and may be largely increased by the discovery of registered bonds.

Persons most familiar with the fantastic affairs of the old lady would not be surprised if the estate eventually mounted to a million and three-quarters.

Nephews on One Side.

On the one side is a group of relatives consisting of four nephews of Mrs. Wood—sons of her late husband's brother, Fernando Wood, who was mayor of New York City in civil war times. They are Otis F. Wood, recently appointed by Supreme Court Justice Irwin Untermyer as the custodian of her property and person; Henry A. Wise-Wood, Washington Wood, and Benjamin Wood. The other group is composed of Mrs. William C. Hields and Miss Gertrude Wood, who are represented to be granddaughters of the late Benjamin Wood and daughters of a son named Henry Wood, now dead.

Begin by a Raid.

The two women who maintain that they have the best right to be considered the closest heirs of the late Benjamin Wood, one time owner of the former New York Daily News and creator of a large part of the fortune now held in trust for the widow, went into action by going to the Herald Square hotel, knocking at the door of the old lady's new apartment on the fourth floor and pushing their way past the nurses and attendants that have been provided. Mrs. Shields, her husband, Miss Wood, and Lawyer James A. McKaigney were in the party.

As a result of that visit they have submitted charges to Untermyer that there are black and blue swellings on Mrs. Wood's arms and a mark on her upper lip.

Through their counsel these claimants have charged that Mrs. Wood was painfully injured when she was removed some days ago from the apartment she had occupied for fourteen years to one which was clean and orderly. Justice Untermyer will hold a hearing at 11 a. m. tomorrow on the dispute.

The four nephews, represented by Otis F. Wood, custodian of his aunt's property and person, say that the charges are utterly without foundation.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Carl A. Futter, managing director of California Vineyards company, with main offices in Chicago, and seven others go on trial tomorrow before a jury in Federal Judge Harry Hollzer's court. They are charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. It is charged they conspired to distribute and sell unfermented grape juice with the intention that it later would turn into wine. In addition to Futter, William J. Vaughn, N. J. and Zeno Futter, directors of the company; Thomas Stone, Los Angeles; A. C. Fredericks, local warehouse manager; J. W. Lowberry, and J. S. Payne, salesmen, are indicted.

Cuba Plans to Tax Ships on "All Expense" Tours

SOUR stomach

IF fear of what will follow overshadows the enjoyment of your meals, your system may be too acid.

Those pangs of indigestion right after eating and that lump you feel in your stomach for hours after, the flatulence and sourness, are the symptoms of over-acidity. Take an anti-acid and neutralize the excess acid. You won't be comfortable until you do.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will always check that condition of over-acidity. It acts pleasantly, but promptly and most effectively. It supplies needed alkali to neutralize excess acids of the stomach and bowels. Headaches, flatulence, and nausea are promptly relieved. Your digestion will speedily improve. Your appetite will be sharpened. Constipation quickly yields to the gentle laxative effect of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Many make a practice of taking a spoonful or two before meals one or two days weekly. It is a delightful way to keep the system always sweet; and to keep the bowels from growing sluggish; also to guard against auto-intoxication.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will check a cold in a hurry. Just take a spoonful at three-hour intervals until that weak, achy, feverish condition is gone and your head is all clear.

Get a bottle today; read the directions and learn Phillips' Milk of Magnesia's many important uses. For you and the whole family. 25c and 50c, bottles can be obtained at drug stores everywhere.

MAYOR ORDERS ACTION AGAINST ILLEGAL SIGNS

Mayor Cermak last night ordered Building Commissioner Ericsson to prepare a list of billboards now standing within the city limits with a view to demanding their removal. His action followed reports that many of the thousands of flaring signs in Chicago have been erected without permits and in violation of the zoning ordinance. Commissioner Ericsson said he will immediately start a survey of his records and have his inspectors report on the number of billboards which have been put up illegally. Ninety-nine per cent of the billboards have been built and are controlled by the General Outdoor Advertising company, a concern which grew under a previous city administration.

HENRY ERICSSON.

Aids to Determine City's Loss.

The mayor's order asked the building commissioner to determine how much the city is losing annually by the failure of the advertising company to obtain permits at $5 per billboard and failure to pay a $1 a year inspection fee for each billboard. The city controller's records show that only $38,000 was paid to the city last year in inspection fees. The building department records failed to reveal how many permits had been obtained by the outdoor advertising company.

It was reported that the building department records are deficient, many of the records having been lost or stolen some years ago. A complete revision of the records will be necessary before the billboard situation is cleaned up, one observer said.

Promises Thorough Inquiry.

Mayor Cermak also repudiated the signs which have been put up by the outdoor advertising company bearing messages to the people and containing his signature. He promised a thorough investigation into the methods by which the outdoor advertising company had contrived to obtain a virtual monopoly of the billboard privileges in Chicago.

Commissioner Ericsson declared that any billboards which have been erected without permits would be torn down or the owners forced to pay for their violations of the law.

In this connection it was pointed out that the building code carries a penalty of a fine from $25 to $200 for each billboard erected illegally, and the stipulation that each day upon which the billboard remains standing constitutes a separate and distinct offense.

Find More Illegal Signs.

A tour of west side boulevards yesterday revealed many billboards erected in violation of the zoning ordinance. Some of those noted, and the length of each, follow:

	Feet.
3125-3131 W. Washington boulevard	25
Homan avenue and Washington boulevard	100

DEMOCRAT LEADER FOR MRS. MORROW IN SENATE VACANCY

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Encouragement from an unexpected quarter came today for the growing number of advocates of the appointment of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow to the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of her late husband.

A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for governor, announced that he considered Mrs. Morrow "a very estimable woman" who, if appointed would remain in the senate if he becomes governor.

"The New Jersey candidate to fill the term of the late Senator Morrow must be truly representative of the state," Mr. Moore said. "If Mrs. Morrow receives the appointment from Gov. Larson she will remain in the senate if I am elected, for I will not call a special election to unseat her."

GLORIFY POLICE, NOT GANGSTERS, HOOVER ADVISES

President Praises Work of Peace Officers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—President Hoover asserted today that a long step would be taken toward stamping out gangsterism if the people of the country would glorify the policeman rather than the gangster.

Speaking over the radio to the opening meeting of the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the President praised the part played by policemen in combatting crime and asserted that if given a fair chance they remove the "world wide disrepute which has disgraced some of our great cities." The police chiefs are meeting at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Make Heroes of Criminals.

"There is a sentimentalism in some people," Mr. Hoover said, "which makes popular heroes out of criminals which needs replacement by a sentimentalism that makes a popular hero of the policeman for the courage and devotion he shows in protection of our citizens.

"Instead of the glorification of cowardly gangsters we need the glorification of policemen who do their duty and who give their lives in public protection.

"The police perform an unending task, not alone in the mothering of the children of our streets and in the good humored dissolution of traffic jams but in this incessant war against criminals.

Need Public Opinion's Aid.

If the police had the vigilant, universal backing of public opinion in their communities, if they had the implacable support of the prosecuting authorities and the courts, if our criminal laws in their endeavor to protect the innocent did not furnish loopholes through which irresponsible, yet clever, criminal lawyers daily find devices of escape for the guilty, I am convinced that our police would stamp out the excessive crime and remove the world wide disrepute which has disgraced some of our great cities."

DELAY ASSAULT CASE AGAINST CHIEF OF POLICE

The case of Chief of Police Otto Miller of Willow Springs and his one patrolman, Martin Wagner, who are charged with assaulting and severely injuring four prisoners whom they had confined for a trivial offense, was called before Magistrate Martin McGrath of Oak Park yesterday, but was continued to Oct. 20 at the request of the policemen.

The motion for the continuance was made by Village Attorney Emory Smith, who said he had not had time to prepare a defense. Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Markham objected to the continuance, but was overruled.

About twenty-five witnesses for the complainants were ready to take the stand at the hearing yesterday. The complainants are Otto Reinmuth, head of the Midwest Motor Service company at 4915 South Campbell avenue; his father-in-law, Walter Barnesak; Frank Skienar, a disabled war veteran; and Frank McDougall. They alleged they were all taken from their cells, one by one, and beaten by the policemen, who are charged with assault with intent to murder. A charge of extortion was also placed against Wagner, Reinmuth claiming that he gave the former $100 to get out of jail.

DENY HIGH COURT REHEARINGS FOR 5 TO 4 DECISIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court convened today for its second sitting of the term and commenced getting its calendar in shape for the coming session. The court denied a rehearing of the so-called Indiana chain store case in which by a 5 to 4 decision, the court held at its last term that the Indiana tax on chain stores was constitutional.

The court also denied rehearings of the 5 to 4 decisions on the cases of Prof. Douglas Clyde Macintosh, Yale theology professor, and Marie Averill Bland, a New York nurse, who were denied citizenship because of their refusal to swear that they would take up arms in case of war.

The court granted petitions for writs of certiorari filed by Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway and the Elgin, Joliet, and East Railway company, both cases having originated in Illinois, and the petitions being from assessment of personal damages against the railroads. The court denied the petition of the Chicago Electrical Workers' union which sought relief from an injunction against boycotting obtained by the Western Union.

In all, the justices denied seventy-six petitions and granted eleven.

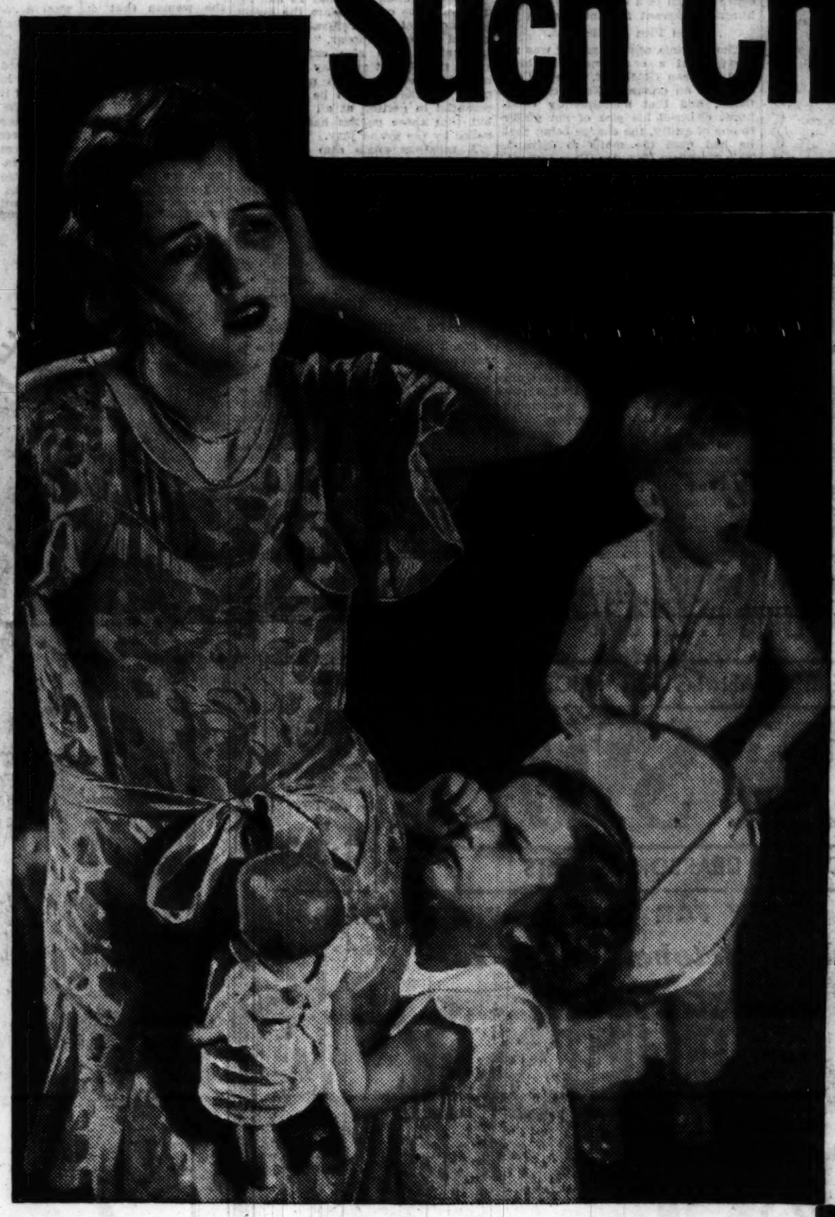
Such Children!



WE'RE all the same! When we are "jumpy," irritable, "all on edge"—we must blame it on something.

With mothers it's the children. With you it's office troubles. With the rest of us it's something else.

But the real reason is—"bottled up" nerves! The tension of our modern way of living.

It's almost unbelievable how much the simplest things can sometimes help!

Science, for example, has lately pointed out some interesting facts about chewing gum—and nerves.

Biochemical research has now proved that chewing gum is a definite help in smoothing out tense and tired nerves. Wrigley's actually aids in counteracting nervous tension, in promoting nervous relaxation.

You might try it out yourself. Thousands are convinced there's really something in it. When "nerves" are getting the best of you—try Wrigley's. See if it doesn't relieve the tension and help to make your little troubles fewer!

If you really want to know: There are in that portion of the face directly connected with gum chewing, the trunks of the 5th or trigeminal nerve and also the 7th nerve. Gum chewing, which necessitates the massage and relaxation of these nerves (scientists say) definitely reduces nervous tension, promotes nervous relaxation.

All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research.

It's nervous tension . . not the children . . that upsets you so. . . . For quick relief TRY THIS . . . .

1 Wrigley's SPEARMINT—The full, refreshing flavor of fresh spearmint—the finest grown. (Do not confuse with Wrigley's Double Mint.)

2 Wrigley's JUICY FRUIT—The delicious fruity flavor that you get alone in Wrigley's Juicy Fruit. Like all Wrigley flavors, it lasts and lasts!

3 Wrigley's DOUBLE MINT—flavor that only the world's finest peppermint, double distilled, can give. (Do not confuse with Wrigley's Spearmint.)

ORDERS INQUIRY INTO PAROLE OF CANNON'S BROKER

Mitchell Acts on Charges by Senator Glass.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Attorney General Mitchell announced today that the department of justice would investigate charges made by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] concerning the procedure by which Harry L. Goodhurst, former New York bucket shop operator and broker for Bishop James Cannon Jr., had been sentenced to prison and subsequently made eligible to parole.

W. D. MITCHELL. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

In a letter written Aug. 29, but not made public until yesterday, Senator Glass, long time foe of Bishop Cannon, declared that the record of the case showed evidence enough of a compact with Goldhurst to warrant full inquiry.

When Plea Is Changed.

The Virginia senator said it was reported that a conference had been held between Goldhurst, Bishop Cannon, and an unnamed New York politician, and that subsequently Goldhurst changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty, the charge being that he had used the mails to defraud. This procedure, Senator Glass intimated, might have been followed to hide the bishop's bucket shop speculation. He demanded that the attorney general learn whether there had been a promise that influence would be used to get Goldhurst out on parole.

Other matters on which Senator Glass demanded clarification were the fact that the case was first assigned to a woman prosecutor who had formerly been a student of Bishop Cannon, and the fact that Goldhurst is now at a prison farm near Washington instead of in Atlanta penitentiary, to which he was originally sentenced.

Goldhurst was committed to Atlanta penitentiary on Oct. 16, 1929, for a five year term. It was announced last July that he would be paroled on April 15, 1932.

The study of the Goldhurst case by the department of justice is expected to develop into the fourth phase of official inquiries into Bishop Cannon's political and financial activities. These first were aired more than a year ago by the senate lobby committee. Next the senatorial campaign expenditures committee went over the same ground again and finally, within the past two weeks a federal grand jury here began a study to determine whether Bishop Cannon had violated the federal corrupt practices act for his alleged failure to report contributions to his anti-Smith campaign fund.

Bishop Offers to Testify.

Bishop Cannon said that he had requested to be called before the grand jury and had been refused. He said he had offered to appear, "waiving all immunity." He also said he had given the district attorney the names of "three other parties whose testimony I believe would be absolutely essential in getting at all the facts," but that these parties had not been called by the grand jury.

A religious angle also was interjected into the current controversy when Bishop Cannon reviewed the religious affiliations of some of the officials concerned with investigations of his political activities and added:

"Rome, whether accidentally or otherwise, has been allied with the vindictive Senator Glass for the past three years."

Market Losses of $30,000 Are Blamed for Suicide

Stock market losses of $30,000 were assigned at a coroner's inquest yesterday as the possible reason for the suicide by gas on Sunday night of John Hill, 35 years old, 1005 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston, an engineer in the Evanston High school. The principal witness was Mrs. Luella Collins, 2214 Maple avenue, Evanston, a divorcee. She told of Hill's losses and said that his parents live in Durban, Africa, and are owners of a hotel there. Hill left two notes to Mrs. Collins. The coroner's jury found he ended his life while insane.

CONGRESS WILL GET MORE PANACEAS BY FARM RELIEF GROUP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Granted that those claiming to represent farming interests are able to agree, a drive will be made in the next congress to inject either the equalization fee plan or the debenture plan into the agricultural marketing act.

This was the prediction today of Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the senate agricultural committee and assistant majority leader.

He announced that during the next two or three weeks he would hold a series of conferences with the leaders of so-called farm organizations to see whether differences of opinion might not be ironed out and an agreement on a program arrived at.

"The agricultural marketing act will not be modified or strengthened, I believe, unless there is unanimity of opinion among the farm leaders," Senator McNary declared. "Without agreement the act will be left as it is."

DRUGGIST POINTS OUT MOTHER AS BUYER OF POISON

Accuses Woman in Trial for Slaying Girls.

Lebanon, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—"I sold that lady sixty grains of strychnine at my Indianapolis drug store the morning of June 12."

Pointing his finger straight at Mrs. Carrie Barrett Simmons, Charles W. Friedman, Indianapolis pharmacist, today caused a sensation here in the trial of Mrs. Simmons in Circuit court for the murder of her two daughters. The girls died shortly after a family reunion and picnic held here June 21, the coroner's verdict being that they had eaten chicken sandwiches into each of which a strychnine capsule had been inserted.

Mrs. Simmons stood up at suggestion of the defense counsel and Friedman then pointed her out, amplifying a statement he made before today's court session to prosecuting attorneys. Preliminary defense cross-examination failed to shake him in his positive identification of Mrs. Simmons.

Tells Details of Sale.

Friedman recalled selling a sixty grain bottle of strychnine to a woman about 10 a. m. He recalled cautioning the woman that it was a deadly poison and that it should be handled carefully. He said the buyer of the poison was alone when she asked for the poison, and said she wished the strychnine for the purpose of killing weasels or rats which had been invading her flock of chickens. The witness, however, was unable to describe the woman's clothing or to remember whether she carried a purse. He said she handed him 25 cents in payment for the poison, the defense laying stress on the fact that she paid the exact price for the drug without asking. Friedman said the drug cost him seventeen cents.

His pharmacy is on the far south side of Indianapolis. Hancock county is east of Indianapolis. In cross-examination it was brought out that Friedman, posing as a pseudo auto accident victim, had looked at Mrs. Simmons Sunday without her being aware of the fact that she was being identified.

Husband Is Questioned.

Called again to the witness stand, John W. Simmons, husband of the defendant, denied today that his wife bought any strychnine at Indianapolis.

The prosecution questioned Simmons and other surviving members of the family—George Simmons, 25; Dale Simmons, 23, and Elizabeth Simmons, 16.

In rapid succession, Simmons was asked:

"Does your wife raise chickens?"

"Yes."

"Had anything been killing them?"

"Had there been weasels killing them?" "Had there been any rats killing them?" "Had you bought any poison to kill weasels or rats?"

The witness answered negatively each time.

FAMILY OF 4 FOUND SLAIN IN THEIR BEDS; TWO NEGROES HELD

Berlin, Md., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A farmer, his wife, and their two daughters were found dead in their beds in their farmhouse near here late today, their heads battered in by an ax and the bodies riddled with bullets and saturated with coal oil.

The discovery was made by poultry farmers nearby, who had missed the family since Saturday. A Negro farm hand, Orphan Jones, 60, who was discharged by the farmer Saturday, was arrested a few miles away and held for questioning, and later a second Negro was arrested.

The dead are Green Davis, 55; his wife, Iva, 43, and their daughters, Elizabeth, 15, and Mary Lee, 13.

Jones, according to officers, had $70 in his pockets when arrested and a pocketbook and several rings identified as the property of the Davis family.

MacDONALD ASKS MINERS TO SEND HIM TO COMMONS

Pleads with Laborers on 65th Birthday.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Prime Minister MacDonald opened his battle at Seaham Harbor tonight to retain his seat in the house of commons. In an election appeal to the coal miners of Easington he asked them to send him back to parliament as a "common laborer." Mr. MacDonald opened his campaign on his 65th birthday and in his own constituency, whose Labor party organization has repudiated him.

"I have come to win," Mr. MacDonald cried in response to shouts of welcome and admonitions to "go in and win."

A birthday tea party at Eastnigton preceded the more serious business of "getting votes." His first of two night meetings was held at the Easington colliery hippodrome. Two thousand miners and their wives sat there. As the prime minister began to talk there was a sprinkling of interruptions, but the spasmodic booing gradually died down as Mr. MacDonald warmed up to his fighting speech, in which he explained his position, leading to his formation of the national emergency government and the appeal which this goverament is now making.

Defies His Personal Enemies.

"Who dares to point the finger of scorn at me?" the prime minister shouted. "I am fighting as a Labor candidate. No party caucus is going to make me anything else. Labor is in my blood and in my bones. Labor sat by at my birth and I shall be at labor at my death."

He silenced hecklers by advising them to listen and they would become the wiser.

"I have no qualms of conscience regarding the step I have taken," he said. "I have taken it and I would do it again and again whether it be popular or unpopular."

Tells of Early Days.

He told of the early days of the Labor party and his work in it.

"You do not remember," he said, "that in those days I had to pay for your postage stamps out of my own pocket. You met in my room and did not have to pay for it. When I did not have enough chairs for your meetings, you borrowed my coal-scuttle and sat on it. Not even my salary was offered until years afterward and then against my protest.

"Today you sit here feeling power in your power, and I and my colleagues are subjected to the taunts and abuse of the men we made. I can understand why my former colleagues did not join the national government, but I can't understand why they didn't stand up to what they had done in office."

Speaks on Tariffs.

Indicating how far he was prepared to go on the matter of a protective tariff, Mr. MacDonald said:

"I shall reject no theory on account of dogmas. I do not believe that even the strongest tariff reformer would suggest the government would increase the cost of living when a devaluated pound is threatened. It could not be done. But a case must be made out, and under this condition—that it is not going to be extra oppression upon the lives of the masses of the working people in the country."

Turning to the question of unemployment the prime minister chided the miners with the announcement that last week's figures showed a considerable reduction in unemployed.

"There are various causes," he explained. "One of the biggest is the feeling of national confidence that the situation is being well handled."

FOUND DEAD ON "L" TRACKS.

The body of Thomas F. Maloney, 33 [illegible], 143 North Laramie street, apparently electrocuted and then crushed, was found on the tracks of the Lake street division of the Rapid Transit lines near the Laramie station yesterday.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Prime Minister MacDonald opened his battle at Seaham Harbor tonight to retain his seat in the house of commons. SCHOOLMASTER, FAT AND JOLLY, CERTAIN HE'LL DEFEAT PREMIER SEAHAM, Durham, England, Oct. 12.—(AP)—William Coxon, 47 year old schoolmaster of Seaham, who is the opponent of Prime Minister MacDonald in the latter's campaign for reelection to parliament from Seaham Harbor, was confident tonight over his chances of defeating the prime minister.

Coxon, fat and jolly, sat before his little fireplace in his shirt sleeves and carpet slippers and discussed the political situation. His radio outfit stood on an unpainted soap box in a corner of the room, in which there is one unshaded electric light. The fireplace itself is one of the kind common in English houses of the lower middle class, a combination cook stove, fireplace, and water heater.

The cottage has five rooms and was built by the county council authorities. As headmaster of the local elementary schools Coxon earns about $1,600 a year. As a member of the house of commons he would earn $1,520. Mrs. Coxon is a frail, hard working little woman who looks forward to moving to London. They have one son, 20 years old, who is preparing his work for a science degree at Nottingham university. Coxon was a star cricketer before his waistline got out of hand. Tonight he confidently predicted that the prime minister would lose his seat in parliament and that "the money magnates would have to find him a safe constituency in parliament."

Coxon was born in the south of England, but has lived in Durham 26 years. He has been active in Labor party politics for 25 years.

"If the world wants to recover," he said, "it must cancel the war debts—and nobody would be the loser."

SURGEONS MEET AND JAB LANCET INTO LAY CRITICS

They Take a Fling at Lydia Pinkham, Too.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Grave doubts of the practicability of health insurance and state control of medicine in this country were voiced tonight by Dr. C. Jeff Miller, retiring president of the American College of Surgeons, in opening the twenty-first annual clinical congress of that body at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

"Public and municipal hospitals are filled with medico-political appointees whose ability is frequently negligible and whose ethics are frequently doubtful," Dr. Miller asserted in discussing state control before the 3,000 odd surgeons who attended the opening session.

His remarks came only a few hours after Dr. Franklin H. Martin of Chicago had presented a report on hospital standardization, which placed only 2,184, or about 65 per cent, of the 3,319 hospitals throughout the United States, on its approved list.

Lay Critics Criticized.

Taking as his subject "Medical Men and Their Lay Critics," Dr. Miller replied to charges made against the medical profession by such lay critics as George Bernard Shaw, H. L. Mencken, and others.

"Bernard Shaw," said Dr. Miller, "in his preface to 'The Doctor's Dilemma' is an excellent example of the abuse of medical men. His whole thesis is based on the promise that whatever is, is wrong, and in medicine things are very wrong, indeed. We learn from him that the tragedy of illness at present is that it gives one helplessly into the hands of a profession one deeply mistrusts. Most doctors have no honor and no conscience, and the truth about them is too terrible to be faced.

"Surgery is performed and drugs are given only for the sake of fees. Vaccination is done in filth and vivisection because of a lust for cruelty."

Ridicules H. L. Mencken.

The speaker ridiculed recent magazine articles by Mencken, Chester Crowell, and F. C. Kelly.

"Health insurance," he went on, "works in nearly twenty-five countries, being more or less successful according to the degree of paternalism which the government practices in its administration, but it is doubtful whether it would ever work in the United States and it is obviously open to grave danger of abuse.

"But it is the project of state medicine that our ardent critics welcome with the loudest cries of joy. Even Glenn Frank seems to have a childlike faith that when medicine is under state control disease will be conquered and death will be no more.

"Perhaps so, but I doubt it. One has only to look at the corruption in state and municipal governments all over the country today to question very seriously the claims which are made for further state control of anything."

Dr. Miller also took a few slaps at wealthy patients who fail to pay their doctors.

"They have country and city homes, cars and servants," he said. "They travel, they send their children to exclusive schools, entertain lavishly. But they do not pay their doctors, and they meet them publicly and socially without a quiver."

Dr. Kanavel Utters Warning.

Dr. Allen B. Kanavel of Chicago, president-elect of the college, declared in his inaugural address that modification of the present concepts of medical ethics may be necessary to meet the "startling changes" of the nation's social structure in the last decade.

"Neither the individual, nor industry, nor the constituted authorities of government wish inadequate service," Dr. Kanavel warned, "yet through the urge for 'reasonably priced' medical service this catastrophe is likely to occur unless, with broad and unselfish vision, we help to guide the movement toward collective medical service, rather than sit complacently by, bulwarked by a supposedly sacrosanct code of ethics, and let the initiative slip from our hands."

Speaking at the morning session, Dr. Kanavel attacked the rise in quacks and the invasion of medicine and surgery by "irregulars."

"There are so many chiropractors, naturopaths, cancer quacks, faith healers, osteopaths, electropaths, Chinese herbalists, bone setters, electric belt adherents, and buckeye specialists," said Dr. Kanavel, "to say nothing of Lydia Pinkham and devotees of patent medicine, that the trained physician must almost wear spurs on his elbows."

Teeth Whiten 3 Shades in 3 Days!

NOBODY likes to look at teeth that are dull, dingy, yellow, discolored or eaten away by decay. And now there's no reason why you should have such teeth. They're unnatural. And the new scientific Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique proves they're unnatural—by removing stain and yellow, and making teeth gleaming white.

Try this technique for a few days . . . . A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. You'll note an improvement after the first brushing. Your mouth will feel cleaner than ever. And in just 3 days teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. All because Kolynos does what no ordinary toothpaste can do—it kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles. And cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

Kolynos is unique—unlike anything you've ever used. The very moment it enters the mouth it FOAMS, thus permitting the use of a dry brush, which makes Kolynos 10 times more effective.

This penetrating FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny pit, fissure and crevice. It erases tartar and yellow—washes away the unsightly mucoid coating. It kills the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath and attack teeth and gums—kills 190 million in the first 15 seconds.

Easily and quickly this remarkable Kolynos FOAM cleans teeth gleaming white and keeps them sound. It stimulates gums and keeps the breath sweet and fresh.

If you really want sound, dazzling white teeth and firm, coral-pink gums, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. Buy a tube of Kolynos from any druggist.

GIRL, 8, KILLED BY SPEEDING AUTO THIEVES

Run Down Crossing Street with Mother.

An 8 year old girl was killed and her mother was injured when they were run down by a stolen car at 32d and Saginaw avenue last night. The victim was Josephine Heymanski, 8452 Green Bay avenue.

With her mother, Mrs. Rose Heymanski, 40 years old, she was crossing 32d street when the machine, speeding west, hit them. The car was stopped down the block, and two youths alighted and escaped on foot. Mrs. Heymanski and her daughter were taken to the South Shore hospital, where the girl was pronounced dead.

Auto Stolen from Theater.

Police learned the car had been stolen earlier from Exchange avenue and 79th street while the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warner Jr., 557 East 94th street, were in a theater.

This death and two others increased the Cook county motor toll to 973 since Jan. 1. The victims:

Herman Kaizel, 75 years old, 3814 Belden avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered on Sunday when struck by an automobile at Fullerton and Hamlin avenues.

Charles Quarles, 35 years old, colored, 4428 Evans avenue. Killed when his automobile was wrecked by a heavy truck at 56th and State streets. The truck driver, Clemens Stigler, 10637 Edbrooke avenue, was held.

Donald Nichols, 5 years old, 47 Elm avenue, Highwood, was killed yesterday when he ran into the street while playing in front of the Oak Terrace school in the suburb and was struck by a school bus.

ASKS U. S. TO PAY $10,000 FOR WINE CELLAR DEATH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Congress will be asked to award $10,000 to the child of the late Mrs. Helen Vasilzevic, electrocuted in Milwaukee Aug. 13 while standing in a pool of wine poured on her cellar floor by dry agents.

Representative Schafer, Wisconsin, anti-prohibitionist, said today he would introduce a bill in December calling for the outlay on the basis of a letter received from Prohibition Director Woodcock.

The letter said Mrs. Vasilzevic was electrocuted by coming in contact with an electric socket and wire in the basement, but that it was "probable that the presence of wine on the floor and possibly some of it on the wire had something to do" with the electrocution.

"I think that there is legitimate criticism of the agents' judgment in pouring wine on the dirt floor," the letter added.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Occasional rain Tuesday and probably Wednesday, slightly warmer Wednesday in central and north portions.

Lower Michigan—Fair in north, mostly cloudy in south portion, slightly warmer in south portion Tuesday; Wednesday cloudy, probably occasional rain, slightly warmer.

Upper Michigan—Fair in east, increasing cloudiness, slightly warmer Tuesday; Wednesday probably occasional rain.

Wisconsin—Mostly cloudy Tuesday, rain in west and south portions by or before night; Wednesday partly cloudy in west, possibly rain in east portion, somewhat warmer Wednesday.

Ohio—Cloudy and slightly warmer, probably showers in extreme west portion Tuesday; Wednesday showers and slightly warmer.

A. F. OF L. LEADER PREDICTS LABOR VOTE FOR BEER

Expects Convention Will Unite on Issue.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—M. J. McDonough, head of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, predicted today that the 51st annual convention of the federation here "will unite on beer in order to make labor's stand definite."

Advocacy of modification of the Volstead act to legalize beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content was included in the program of the executive council and will be acted upon this week, he said.

Although there has been considerable discussion among the delegations on prohibition, many favoring a more drastic change than beer of low alcoholic content, indications were that all shades of opinion would be consolidated to ask only congressional modification of existing laws, without any attempt to disturb the 18th amendment.

Expect Hoover Dam Quiz.

"Beer is within the possibilities, although the congress meeting in December may not act," McDonough said. "While many of the delegates feel we should go further, it looks now as if the convention will unite on beer in order to make labor's stand definite."

A demand for a congressional investigation of Hoover dam on the Colorado river is expected to grow out of the resolutions committee's study of what has been described as "intolerable" working conditions on the project.

Matthew Woll, Washington, D. C., third vice president of the federation and chairman of the resolutions committee, said the subject probably would be referred to the executive council for study with a view to eventual congressional action if necessary.

Hopes to Settle Internal Row.

The internal dispute in the building trades department is likely to be settled amicably by the time it reaches the convention floor tomorrow, Martin Francis Ryan, treasurer of the federation and chairman of the committee on laws, indicated.

Ryan said he expected the committee to take the "sting" out of the controversy which was precipitated by the withdrawal from the building trades department of the carpenters, brick layers, and electrical workers. The department, in a preconvention gathering, decided to ask the federation to amend its constitution to force dissenting crafts to affiliate with their department or get out of the federation.

The delegates today were idle, except for a few scattered committee meetings. They will get down to business tomorrow after a three day layoff.

Instant Relief From Corns!

Yes, that's a fact. Within a few seconds after applying Shur-Off the pain's gone and in a couple of minutes the corn is gone too. Shur-Off is safe, quick and painless. Get a small bottle from your druggist. Remove your corns and, go to the dance tonight.

Shur-Off means corns off in 3 minutes or money back.

Being kept in with a cold is no joke

THERE are two other people who don't think it's so funny either. His mother who has to stay home with him and take care of a cross and disappointed young son. And his teacher who has to help him catch up with the lessons he is going to miss.

The worst part of it is, he's one of maybe half a million children who are right now staying indoors for the very same reason. And a whole lot of them could avoid most of these colds if only their resistance was built up ahead of time. If your children seem to "catch everything that goes around," try giving them Nujol.

For Nujol not only prevents any excess of the body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal. It certainly would do no harm, anyway, to try Nujol, would it?

Try Nujol for, say the next three months. Then compare their report cards with those they had last year. See how the absences from school have dropped—how the school marks have jumped. Nujol was perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

See for yourself if Nujol doesn't help build up healthy resistance to colds and resulting ills—as thousands of other mothers have discovered. Keep a bottle of Nujol handy and give it to them regularly. Contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

Meant only for a Personality!

You must rise above the common level to wear so daring yet so beautiful a costume...you must rise above the common level to use Pebeco Tooth Paste.

For the use of Pebeco takes intelligence, understanding. You must think of what its sharp tang means, and why it "tastes that way".

Think about it a moment—and you'll realize that the reason is the costly ingredient (40% of every tube of Pebeco) which makes Pebeco the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world to make. You'll realize that this is the very reason Pebeco gives a glorious bounty in oral aid such as no heavy foaming or candy-like dentifrice can offer.

If you are the average, non-thinking person, the man or woman of ordinary tastes, we do not believe you will gain anything by buying a tube of Pebeco. You probably would not like it.

But if you are a personality—if you have a mind of your own—try Pebeco. The way it helps your teeth, the way it comforts your hot, dry mouth—will amaze you.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Tap a Buying Area twice the size of Massachusetts!

SALES strategy has shifted.

Today, it is market attack, rather than mass attack, that brings results.

Advertisers know that dollars spent where buyers are concentrated, give greatest returns.

But you cannot win these great city markets unless you know them. And real, adequate market knowledge seldom is the complete thing it should be, yet it is available.

For instance, do you know that there are 18,282 square miles—twice the area of Massachusetts—in the Cleveland Trade Empire?

Do you know that this great North Ohio market, radiating a hundred miles from Cleveland's Public Square, contains more than 3,300,000 people?

Do you realize that this makes a consuming population greater than the combined population of Nevada, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico, New Hampshire, Montana, Idaho, Delaware and Vermont?

Twenty million tons of goods are distributed annually from Cleveland. That means over half a million car loadings!

Here, in the Cleveland Trade Empire, you have the "cross-roads of the country." A market that in size, activity, balance, purpose, stability and future merits the intensive consideration of every sales executive.

For, once you know it, you also know that the entire market is open to you through the complete coverage of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In 134 cities and towns, as well as Cleveland itself, the Plain Dealer is the only morning newspaper to be delivered on the doorsteps throughout this entire market.

The Cleveland Trade Empire is of such immediate sales importance that the complete data-picture of this vast market should be placed before you now. A word, by mail or wire, will bring it.

THE CLEVELAND TRADE EMPIRE

consists of 31 counties in Northeastern Ohio. It buys more automobiles in a year than all Massachusetts. Its income tax returns exceed those of the entire state of Texas—its realty tax valuations are greater than the combined total of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina! 135 towns and cities of more than 1,000 population—note them on the map—with per capita income 26% above the average for the entire country! Rich, busy, growing even larger—that's the Cleveland Trade Empire.

AUSTRALIA WILL VOTE ON FATE OF SIX PARLIAMENTS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Oct. 12.—The fate of the six Australian state parliaments will be settled by a referendum which the federal government announced today it proposed to take after Christmas. Prime Minister J. H. Scullin declared the federal government would seek power to give effect to a plan for the unification of Australia with complete sovereign powers for the federal parliament, abolition of the state parliaments and delegation of authority in local matters governing areas.

The people, he said, would also be asked to give the central parliament, which would then be the only parliament, the right to alter the constitution at will.

The commonwealth of Australia was constituted under an act passed by the imperial parliament in 1900. It includes New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland, and Tasmania and Western Australia.

Summons Bride and Her Mother, Then Kills Himself

Charles Murray, 22 years old, summoned his bride of six months and her mother to the cigar store where he worked as a clerk at 113 West Oak street yesterday. As they entered, he shot and killed himself. The young man's wife, Laura, had been living with her mother, Mrs. Zeno Marshall, at 2443 North Albany avenue, since their marriage.

Artist Who Designed King's Profile on Coins Is Dead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Sir Bertram Mackennal, famous Australian artist, died in his 68th year yesterday. The schulptor was one of the most sought-after artists in the country and was the first colonial ever to become an associate of the Royal academy. His works are known to every one in the country, since he designed the profile of King George which is used on all coins. His designs have also been used on all stamps since King Edward VII., who gave him his first royal commission.

Right to the Mark

With a General Electric Heat Regulator in your home, the temperature rises right to the mark you select—and stays there. The chart shows there is less than ½ of 1 degree variation, either way.

That's important, for fluctuation contributes to colds and wastes fuel.

The new G-E Heat Regulator solves this problem by means of its exclusive features. Stop in today to see it. Or telephone for a demonstration in your own home.

The single-range model sells for $85; the double-range model, with an electric timer for automatic day and night temperature changes, for $125. Prices include installation. Convenient time-payment if you wish.

FISHERMEN GET BLAME FOR DROP IN FISH IN LAKES

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The responsibility for the gradually diminishing number of fish in Lakes Erie and Ontario was put squarely up to the fishermen themselves at an international conference between fisheries authorities of Canada, New York state, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, and the federal government here today.

Dr. Elmer Higgins, chief of the scientific inquiry division, United States bureau of fisheries, blamed "overfishing" for the falling off in the annual take, about which fishermen have complained so bitterly.

Another Novel by Floyd Dell Depicts Youth

"Love Without Money Is Well Named.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Love Without Money," by Floyd Dell. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published today.

FLOYD DELL as a chronicler of modern youth grows more and more gay as the list of his novels grow in length. From thorough seriousness in "Moon Calf" he gradually has emerged into "Love Without Money."

FLOYD DELL.

His themes is the same his technique has changed but his "philosophy," shall we say, has evolved from the tragi-serio worry of his own youth to a pleasantly humorous acceptance.

His hazards in his early forties "Love Without Money" discusses no less serious a problem of modern youth than did his earliest novel.

The protagonists of "Love Without Money" are the daughter of a college professor in a small town and a boy going through preparatory school and college on a scholarship. They want to be allowed to make love to each other. They can't marry without money, and "without money" in this case means literally without it, for the little that the boy earns after school hours and in the summers by working as a reporter on the local paper is almost nil.

They belong to the generation that can stare at the sun and when they look away know that the splotches they MADE for dramatizing into far less than reflex actions and not warnings that they are going blind.

They are very outspoken youths, things, and out-acting, too. They love each other, but it takes them a while book of conversations about being entirely free of each other, and about the bootlessness of trying to make love work in marriage, to realize that they do love each other and are not just lassooed by a biological urge.

They have exhuberant youth and youthful passion and they make love their relationship the most that circumstances permit. The author finds in them material for an amusing and at the same time rather pathetic tale.

Not so long ago Mr. Dell wrote a book called "The Unmarried Father," which, with Thomas Mitchell, turned into a play called "The Little Accident," which became one of the most popular farce comedies of the day.

"Love Without Money" is, I suppose, destined to follow the success of "The Little Accident." Its situations are just made for dramatizing into farce comedy. The dialogue could be taken out of the book whole and spoken on a stage with hilarious results. The fact is that skillful intermingling of slightly shocking situations and apparently innocent words that make scenes that any audience wears out its gloves over. With the paragraphs of description removed, "Love Without Money" might be almost the script of a play. Mr. Dell has achieved a new popularity in his writing which ought to bring him fortune without doing anything drastic to the form which is already his as a novelist.

FLOYD DELL as a chronicler of modern youth grows more and more gay as the list of his novels grow in length. From a thorough seriousness in "Moon Calf" he gradually has emerged into a thorough lightness in "Love Without Money."

Guten Morgen!

Apparently they say it with waltzes, instead of flowers, in Germany.

"Liebeswalzer" isn't quite up to "Zwei Hertzen in 3-4 Takt," but it's the best operetta to emerge from the German studios since that delectable number.

The present opus on the Cinema screen is gay, mannerly, musical entertainment. The action starts in America and swoops over to the Vaterland, where it continues until the end. The finale leads you to believe that the young German-American hero will shortly electrify his automobile manufacturing papa in the States with a German princess daughter-in-law. But you are still in Deutschland when "Ende" is flashed on the screen.

The story of "Liebeswaltzer" is not difficult to follow by non-German sprechers. By concentrating, you gather correctly that young Bobby Foulds and his irascible father get along so badly that one fair morning Bobby cries: "Du macht mir mude! Ich gegangen on mine own weg!" Or words to that effect in real German—and starts forth on his own.

Speeding along at a lively pace, he comes upon an archduke in distress—i. e., having motor trouble. Bobby's trained eye discerns that all the archduke's chariot needs is ein wenig gasse, and supplies the same.

"O. K.," says Bobby, preparing to depart. (Bobby talks English occasionally. So does the archduke.) But not so. Ferdinand is tremendously taken with both the expression "O. K." and Bobby. So, not weising das he is speaking to the son of the grosse Foulds who turns out 2,000 cars a day—or is it a minute?—he requests the youth to be his O. K. man or general manager. Bobby delightedly accepts.

Now, an archduke's okay man is an archduke's Mr. Fixit, even unto impersonating ye archduke, and, when occasion arises, becoming affianced to a maiden picked out for archduke by archduke's mamma . . . From here on, you must learn the story from the film.

You will find "Liebeswalzer" unusually well acted, bountifully supplied with laughs, and fairly well equiped with music. There's one charming tune that should have been given greater play.

Willy Fritsch, who plays Bobby, is the answer to the matinée girl's prayer. He reminds you of Richard Barthelmess, but is ten times more ittful. Georg Alexander impersonates the archduke with zest, finesse, and humor. Lillian Harvey, as the Princess Eva, is a fetching young wild cat.

BETTER ENGLISH FIGHT AS COLUMBIA SHOWS "TO ERR IS HUMAN"

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The better English urge at Columbia university has reached President Nicholas Murray Butler.

Students who have been sniping at professors had something to take them down a peg in one of Dr. Butler's sentences. They submitted it to Frank H. Vizetelly, the dictionary editor, and got it back marked "O. K." as to the point they raised and "N. G." as to a point they didn't even notice.

Before the University of California on last March 23, Dr. Butler is reported to have said:

"Save the ancient Roman empire and Great Britain, no people in history has every been so closely intertwined with the whole civilized world as are the American people today."

The student had their fingers on the usage of "has" and "are."

Mr. Vizetelly said that was permissible.

But—the dictionary editor ruled—the word "other" should have been placed between the word "no" and "people." Otherwise, he said, the sentence excluded in the characterization the very people it included later. He called it a very common error.

Press Freedom Celebration Set for Monticello

Anti-Gag Law Victory Fete on Oct. 20.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—President Hoover had signed a "patriots' pledge of faith" to open a campaign of rededication to the ideals of the founders of the nation. This was announced today by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation. The pledge will be carried by an autogyro from Washington to Monticello on Tuesday, Oct. 20. The plane will land on the lawn of the historic Jefferson estate as part of ceremonies to be held under the auspices of the freedom of the press committee and the patriots' pledge of faith committee of the foundation.

The event, according to the announcement, "is in celebration of a recent notable victory won in the United States Supreme court where the so-called 'Minnesota gag law case' was carried up on appeal, and it is in honor of the man who planted into the constitution, after a bitter fight, the amendment that gives this commonwealth today its rights to a free press, the free speech, free public education and religions freedom."

A room used by Jefferson as a "writing nook" will be dedicated to the ideals of a free press and Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will preside. Speakers will include Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania and Claude G. Bowers, journalist. The exercises will be broadcast over a national hookup.

Chicago Civic Opera Sues Memphis Hotel for $1,000 Guarantee

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Chicago Civic Opera company filed suit for $1,000 against the Memphis Hotel company here today, in efforts to collect funds pledged as a guarantee against a financial deficit in the presentation of three operas in Memphis last February.

The opera company claims the cost of the Memphis opera season was $45,000 and receipts were only $14,747. The hotel company was named as one of the guarantors which agreed to pay at least $20,000 of any deficit, its share being $1,000. Of the $20,000 guaranteed only $4,000 remains unpaid.

The other guarantors have signified their willingness to pay the remainder, the opera company's attorneys said, providing the courts hold the hotel company is liable for its pledge.

THE STAGE

THE Theater Guild announces that Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," written as a trilogy and popularly known as a "three day drama," will be offered in the manner of "Strange Interlude," for afternoon and evening sittings with time out for dinner. This arrangement will take it out of the three day class and place it on a six hour schedule.

The performance will begin at 5 p. m., and the first section of the trilogy, called "Home Coming," will be run off in two hours. From 7 until 8 p. m. the audience will dine, or at least fortify itself with a quick lunch. The period from 8 o'clock until time to go home will be allotted to the second and third chapters, which bear the titles of "The Hunted" and "The Haunted."

Two tickets will be required for attendance upon this feat of long distance acting—one for "Home Coming," the other for "The Hunted" and "The Haunted." The Guild has not yet decided what it will charge for the pair, but it will undoubtedly arrange an excursion rate. The New York première is scheduled for Monday afternoon and night, Oct. 26.

The Guild explains its strategy for "Mourning Becomes Electra" as follows:

"The decision to present the three plays in one day was arrived at late last week after prolonged consultation with Mr. O'Neill and Philip Moeller, who is staging the trilogy. The two performance plan was hit upon so that the second and third plays might be grouped. The first complete rehearsal of the play was instrumental in revealing that the unity and suspensive action of "Mourning Becomes Electra" would be aided if the plays might be presented in a single day, rather than in the plan which was first considered, each play on separate days.

"It was further found that the plays were shorter than had been believed, and that the total running time of the three plays will not be excessively over the time devoted to the presentation of "Strange Interlude." Though each of the plays is as long as any O'Neill play which has been presented within regulation acting time, it is felt that an early beginning will solve the problem, retain the suspense and at the same time reduce the price for the trilogy."

To confirm earlier announcements that Maude Adams will soon emerge from her retirement of fourteen years, the fact may be heralded that she has begun rehearsals for the rôle of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." Otis Skinner will be the Shylock of the revival and he, too, is warming up in a character that he hasn't played for thirty years. The tour of the co-stars will begin in Cleveland early next month. C. A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Build Safety Into Highways, Cities Told at Safety Conference

BY HAL FOUST.

Stop-and-go lights, educational campaigns, and police enforcement drives tend to reduce automobile fatalities, but the problem will not approach solution in the metropolitan areas until main thoroughfares are constructed with continuous grade separation. This was the opinion of Sidney J. Williams, director of the public safety division, at the conclusion last night of the first day's session of the National Safety council's twentieth annual congress, being held in the Stevens hotel this week. He indorsed the proposal to build a west side elevated highway this winter.

"In a city like Chicago," he said, "it is obvious that the only final solution of the accident problem on our leading thoroughfares is to provide traffic arteries without either pedestrians or automobiles crossing at grades.

"An elevated highway program for the west side, giving continuous grade separation such as now is enjoyed by the north and the south side motorists on the outer drives, would save hundreds of lives as well as expedite traffic.

"A map of Chicago's 1930 motor fatalities shows clusters of dots along the streets leading westward from the loop through the congested residential districts of the west side.

"With finances available, it is important to start work on this elevated highway program at once, not alone to save lives and to expedite traffic, but also to relieve unemployment this winter."

The 7,000 safety experts attending the congress received a message from President Hoover which concluded, "I trust that the meeting may be conducive to still greater efforts to safeguard human life and property." Accidents in 1930 took 99,000 lives, with street and highway mishaps contributing 33,000 deaths to this toll.

C. W. Bergquist, president of the national council, in an opening address to the congress declared that the irresponsibility of drivers was responsible for the large number of traffic deaths. The council is in favor of a drivers' license such as has twice been defeated before the Illinois legislature.

Samuel Insull Jr. was appointed chairman of a national advisory commission on safety in industry, homes, and on streets and highways.

"The general public," he said, "still believes that accidents are mainly acts of God, beyond human control. As we progress with our studies, however, we learn that each accident has many causes and these are closely interwoven with the physical conditions under which we live, with our subconscious reactions and habits. We learn that there is much that can be done to reduce the number and the seriousness of accidents."

Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, spoke of the importance to industry of guarding the health of the workers.

There will be special sessions and demonstrations in domestic, industrial, and traffic safety throughout the week.

Hoover Deplores Auto Deaths.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The enormous accidental annual death toll in the United States was deplored by President Hoover today in a letter of greetings to the congress of the national safety council, meeting in Chicago. The fact that there are 33,000 motor vehicle deaths annually, he said, constitutes "a challenge to the efforts of safety organizations."

"Although substantial progress has been made in diminishing industrial accident rates, one cannot complacently contemplate the fact that there are still 99,000 accidental deaths a year in the United States as well as the vast number of injuries," Mr. Hoover said.

Varied Views of Religions at One Session

Gilkey, Rabbi, Catholic, Darrow Talk.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A crowd that packed Orchestra hall, overflowing to the speakers' platform, last night heard a Catholic, a Jew, a Protestant, and an agnostic, each a personage widely known, champion the religion or creed in which he believed.

There was John A. Lapp of Marquette university, a sociologist, Catholic; Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, Protestant, and Solomon Goldman, rabbi of Congregation Anshe Emet, Jew. Clarence S. Darrow, criminal lawyer and exponent of the evolutionary theory of creation, agnostic.

Each was introduced by Dr. A. Eustace Haydon of the University of Chicago, himself a student of comparative religion. The arguments as set forth by each speaker were received with good humor and considerable applause from the audience that apparently had come with an open mind. It was understood that the meeting was a forum and that each speaker spoke simply for himself. The assembly appeared to agree with Dr. Haydon that "these men do not need the backing of any organization. Each has a national or an international reputation."

When the Catholic, the Protestant and the Jew had completed their thirty minute talk, it was apparent that they had set forth two primary beliefs shared by the three religions. These were, first, know God and serve Him, and, second, love thy neighbor as thyself. And even the agnostic was caught by the speaker following him, Rabbi Goldman, quoting the Bible in driving home a point.

"There is a widespread ignorance of Catholic work and doctrine," Dr. Lapp, the first speaker, said. "Catholics are proud of the contribution of their church to civilization. I like the democracy of the Catholic church—the rich and the poor, the educated and the uneducated, the high and the low, black, white, brown, princes or paupers. I am glad that our clergy has come from the ranks of the people.

"We are often asked how we can be Catholics when the tenets of our faith are at variance with science. The church calls for proof and does not accept theories until proven. It never has been necessary to retract on any scientific facts in the Catholic church."

Dr. Gilkey declared he is a Protestant because he believes in democratic principles in all phases of human life.

"Religion is a way of life, a way of living," he said. "Life, as I see it, always is born from previous life.

"The Protestant religion, like all other forms of religion, has difficulties within. Unless its sectarianism and element of class consciousness are corrected, it cannot survive. Protestantism got its name obviously as a protest. It got its liberty. And it should go out on a new crusade against social injustice, social exploitation, against those militaristic times of ours."

As Clarence Darrow shambled to the rostrum and leaned his elbows upon it, looking over the crowd, there was a ripple of expectancy. But presently this turned to a roar of laughter as the veteran lawyer remarked:

"There's one thing I haven't heard referred to tonight. It's the Bible. Can it be that these two gentlemen before me could have forgotten the Bible?" Again the laughter.

"I am an agnostic because I don't believe the Bible was written by any one but human beings. I don't think the soul dies, because it never lives. In defining the soul, I'm a disbeliever. As for the Bible, I think of it as a compilation of books, literature over thousands of years by all kinds of people. And if there is a God, that's something upon which I demand proof. I don't want to make any of my associates unhappy," he added, turning around to the three, "but you just haven't any soul."

"I've been here quite a while and done the best I could, used what intellect I have. I'm not afraid of any God in the universe who would send me or any human being to hell. If he were that kind of a God he'd be a devil."

It was Dr. Goldman who called attention to the fact that the two speakers preceding him had quoted the two essentials of religion—glorify God and love thy neighbor.

"And even the agnostic, when he said a person is born, sticks around a while and then dies, was quoting from the book of Ecclesiastics.

"There is no people who have urged the principle of social living and thinking as much as the Jew."

SAYS PLOW DUG UP BONES OF STEPSON OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Four days after Lord Cornwallis surrendered his army after the "little battle with big fate" at Yorktown in 1781, John Parke Custis, only son of Mrs. Washington and stepson of the first President, died of "camp fever" at the old Virginia estate of Eltham on the Panunkey.

Today George Lyttleton Upshur, son of the late Rear Admiral John Henry Upshur and a descendant of John Parke Custis, told how his great grandfather had been buried at Eltham, how the grave had been forgotten and the spot lost as the estate passed from hand to hand throughout the years, and of how eight years ago on the Eltham estate an old brick tomb containing a handful of dust and human bones tentatively were identified, by the location of the grave, as those of Washington's stepson.

They had been accidentally unearthed by a ploughshare. The information as to the location of the grave was passed down to Mr. Upshur by his ancestors.

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodrigues, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy, Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. A baby son arrives to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's lifelong ambition is a European voyage. A paid up endowment policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly agrees to leave the baby.

INSTALLMENT XX.

A DIFFICULT WIFE.

Irma went downstairs. Wallace was on the main floor arranging for a tour of the battle fields.

"There's no letter," she cried rushing up to him.

"No? O, I'm sorry, dear, but it's nothing to worry about. Aunt Tessie is a very bad correspondent."

Wallace completed his arrangements and he and Irma walked into the Parisian sunlight. He glanced at her and saw the familiar pucker between her eyebrows which was there so frequently of late that it had begun to deepen threatingly.

"I know you're worried, dear," he said, "but just remember that if anything bad had happened we would have heard it."

"Nonsense. Your Aunt Tessie doesn't know about cables. She'd just write that the baby had diphtheria or had fallen out of the window, and being a bad correspondent it would take some time for her to get around to it."

It was very hard at a time like this for Irma to remember that God was watching over the baby.

Irma went back to the American Express later that afternoon. She hypnotised herself to the point where she believed that the young man had overlooked her letter and that she would fare better with another clerk. But, no, there was actually no letter.

The next day there was none and the next day there was none.

"We've been away from home seventen days now, Wallace. There should be a letter, shouldn't there?"

"Shall I cable, Irma?"

"Would you?"

"Certainly I would. Why not? I'll just say, 'How is baby? Cable reply.'"

After the cable was sent Irma felt better. Before it was necessary to decide at which of Paris's many restaurants they would dine that night there would be an answer—providing Aunt Tessie knew how to send a cable.

Irma flung herself face downward on the bed.

She had been waiting an hour at the American Express before the answer arrived. It was laconic but comforting.

It merely said, "Fine. Aunt."

"Feel better?" Wallace asked.

"Much." She nodded happily. Across the street she stopped and bought a suede handbag. It was the first spark of interest Irma had shown in any of the fascinating wares displayed all over town. It cheered her to think that in another few days if worry again obsessed her she could send another cable.

It was two days later that a letter written during Irma's first few hours in London arrived. It was quite a long letter. Irma never did finish it all. It began:

"Dear Children: It is really only a few days since you left, but we all feel as though you had been gone a year. I hope you are enjoying yourselves enough to make up for how lonesome we feel without you. There is no news to write. We are all well. I met Herman Schmaus in the drug store yesterday and he says the doctors have completely given Ellen up. She won't live the summer out.

"Mildred is busy as usual. She's learning to play contract bridge and if she put as much thought in on her lessons as she does on bridge she'd be the best scholar in town. The other day I was playing with the baby out on the lawn and quick as a flash he toddled away from me and was in the driveway before I could say 'Jack Robinson.' Mildred was just backing the car out and I certainly was frightened. I guess I haven't moved as fast as that since I was a child.

Well, to make a long story short the rear tire bumped him and down he fell. I screamed and Mildred hopped out of the car. As luck would have it the baby was more frightened than hurt and there's nothing to worry about.

"Mrs. Singer came over last night and she said that Ben married a girl out in Indianapolis and settled down on a farm. He——"

Irma stopped reading the letter there. She looked at Wallace. He was still standing at her elbow reading interestedly."

"I hope you're satisfied now," she said, "that you got Mildred her driver's license."

"Well, there isn't any harm done, dear."

"How do you know?"

"Why, Aunt Tessie would have said and her cable only a few days ago said he was fine."

"Certainly. She doesn't know that children's bones get bruised and that months later terrible things result. She doesn't know anything. She probably gave him a chocolate drop and called it a day."

"Do you suppose she wouldn't know if the baby was in pain?"

"I'm telling you that things happen and nobody knows about them at the time. He should have been thoroughly examined and X-rayed. I should have known better than to leave him. It's a wonder Mildred wasn't going too fast to stop, then we'd have had no baby."

"Darling, you can't back out of that driveway fast. What happened to him wasn't a bit worse than being knocked down by a kiddie kar. Honestly it isn't. Just the thought of an automobile being involved is it has you seeing the thing all out of perspective."

"Well, I see one thing straight and that is this: I should be home with him instead of gallivanting around Paris. I was a damn fool to expect anybody else to be able to take care of my baby for me. I'm going home."

They were walking down the street now swiftly as though they had a destination. Wallace said nothing. There was no use in telling her now that wandering America had begun its annual homeward trip, toat a stateroom could not be had for love nor money.

"Listen," she stopped walking and looked at him, "I'm a fool woman I know and darn unlucky you are to have picked me for a wife. But, look, I'm superstitious as hell, Wallace. I only came over here because something somebody said made me think that I should. I'll tell you all about it some day. Now I feel that I was wrong. I should have stuck with my baby. I've got to get home to him. And I'm never going to leave him again till I die."

The dark, earnest little face beneath the red turban looked into his, pleading not for understanding but for blind obedience. She did not ask him to understand any more. He sighed as he reflected that he must have failed her often. His eyes wandered away and he discovered that she had stopped him at the entrance to the steamship office.

"Come, Wallace, let's change our tickets and go home sooner."

"All right, dear." He knew as he walked with her into the office that they would get no satisfaction here. The first boat they would be able to get would be the one on which they had reservations.

Wallace was right. The young man smiled and shook his head at them.

"You see, dear?" Wallace asked as they left. "We have to stay here until our boat sails. Don't be blue. Everything is all right."

She did not answer him. He saw that there were tears in her eyes, so he signaled a taxi and they went to the hotel.

Irma took off her hat and coat and flung herself face downward on the bed. He did not interfere or try to check her sobbing. Perhaps she would feel better for the tears. Too bad that she should be so miserable over nothing. He searched his own emotional chambers and was unable to find a sign of worry for the baby's safety. With three people—none of them imbeciles—on the job certainly nothing could go seriously wrong. His mind wandered to other matters. He and Irma had an engagement that evening with a couple whom they had met on the boat. He wondered if he should call them and say that Irma was ill.

Presently Irma raised her tear-drenched face from the pillow and turned over. "Why don't you go do something, Wallace?" she asked. "You don't have to sit here and watch me cry."

"That's all right, dear. I know how you feel."

"You don't. You're positively amazed that any one should make such a fuss."

"It does seem out of proportion," he admitted.

"Sure, it must," she sighed. "You don't know how much the baby means to me. You see, he's the only thing that's ever really belonged to me. You belong to Mildred and Aunt Tessie and Anne. The baby doesn't even know anybody else exists or ever existed. He's happy that he's got me, Wallace. He claps his hands when he sees me and I mean to make him happier that he's got me all the time."

"And I'm sure you will, dear."

"Yes, if he lives. Suppose this completely insane trip of mine has caused something that will prove fatal?"

Bright Sayings of the Children

Three year old Betty was enjoying herself at a Sunday school picnic in the park. Suddenly she espied two men paddling down the lagoon in a canoe. She rushed to her mother and excitedly exclaimed, "O, mother, look at the men sweeping the lake!"

Bleaching Brings Medium Tans Back to a Normal Color

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I still note a good deal of the summer tan about on faces that give a clew to a short outdoor season. We hear from those headquarters from which we follow orders lamblike that the Samoan tones of complexion are distinctly on the out and out. That they don't subscribe to the new order of fashion on the 1932 calendar. Yet some of these girls with their early Indian and late Tahiti tinting do look pretty stunning, providing they strike just the proper color note in dress.

One blond met up with in a recent day's tour was brown as the proverbial chestnut. Her frock was a gorgeous golden shade, a few degrees lighter than her tanned skin. Her eyes were huge brown ones. Had she gone Victorian pals she probably never would have been noticed in the crowd. So I don't think it's wise to take those headquarters orders too personally. Not if you feel you know your style better than does any one else.

But in the in-between stages where the tan is neither this or that and where it doesn't set one apart flatteringly there will have to be a period of bleaching to catch up with the group this type had best associate with—the back to normal group. Meanwhile the powder and rouge may be made to serve as a coverall for the tint that glows not, neither does it spin any tall praise.

It may mean a complete change in cosmetic color scheme. That is, the shades that went all right with the lightweight, pastel or white summer things may not serve with the woolen frocks and the felt or velvet hats.

It's a pretty safe bet under any circumstances that the rouge that served in summer against a summer dress background will not be quite so good with heavier materials and deeper colors. The browns, for instance, that are so popular now call for a sharper toned rouge than was used along with summer things. The lipstick might take on a clearer red, too. And the green eye shadow probably wouldn't do at all with one of the autumnal browns.

Food Talk.

Yesterday we spoke of preserving plums and tomatoes. Today our subject is much akin to that topic. One of our contributors, Mrs. A. C. H., has written giving several valuable suggestions.

She says: "We have been making chili sauce and tomato paste lately, while tomatoes were cheap, and this is what I do: First, I cook together one dozen peppers—half of them green and half of them red, but all sweet—three pounds of onions, and one bushel of tomatoes. (For some people half a dozen peppers is sufficiently strong.) As the juice cooks out, I dip out, strain it off and set it aside. When the mixture has been thoroughly cooked I let it stand until fairly dry for chili sauce, before adding the sugar, vinegar, and spices.

"All of this juice, if cooked down for about half an hour and sealed carefully, will keep as long as unused, and makes wonderful cocktails, soup stock, or aspic. When making the paste I first put all of the cooked mixture through a wire strainer and then into a jelly bag to drain for several hours, and then cook it down, bottle, and s . This is good with spaghetti, meats, or with what the Italians call 'polenta' (a stiff corn meal mush). It takes about one cup of salt to a bushel of tomatoes—put into the mixture at the beginning."

FRICASSEE OF RABBIT.

Skin and remove the fine skin from the meat, and wash in cold water. Cut in pieces for serving. Dredge well with salted flour. Brown quickly in hot fat. Remove from the pan and place in a casserole or roaster. Add a little water to the casserole. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Cover closely and bake in a slow oven (275 degrees Fahrenheit) until the meat is tender. Serve with a tart jelly and horseradish sauce.

ORANGE ICE BOX PUDDING.

½ cup of sugar
1 tablespoon of flour
3 eggs
1 cup of milk
1 tablespoon of butter
1-3 cup of orange juice
Grated rind of half an orange
24 ladyfingers, or pieces of sponge cake
1 cup of cream

Mix the sugar and flour. Add to the beaten egg yolks. Add the milk and butter, and cook all these ingredients together in a double boiler until thick. Add the orange juice and rind. Take from the fire; cool slightly, and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Line the bottom and sides of a form pan with ladyfingers; pour in part of the mixture, and continue alternating in layers, ending with a layer of ladyfingers on the top. Place in a refrigerator for at least twelve hours. When ready to serve, remove to a platter and cover with whipped cream.

Husband Thinks Job Hunting for His Wife Work Enough for Him

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What would you, as a wife, do in a case like this?

The woman, nearly 40, has a husband who prefers that she go out to work rather than have her stay home and attend to the housework. She did work until last February in a department store. She found out that while she was on her job her husband wasn't on his as an insurance salesman. He stayed home most of the day playing the radio or sleeping. He complained that business was too rotten to pursue it. The woman turned her full time energies finally into the home work, washing, scrubbing, pressing hubby's trousers, mending, cooking, and so on. Everything to save a dollar. There are no children.

The man doesn't ask the woman directly to go out to work, but he looks in the papers for a job that would be suitable for her and reads the ads aloud.

The man is good enough to the woman in most ways. She doesn't want to go back to work. She doesn't want fighting and arguing. She would do anything to make the man happy. But she wants him to realize that he is not single any longer, and that his job is supplying the income if she is willing to take over the other end of the partnership conscientiously.

To get an honest appraisal on the situation one must take into consideration whether or not the current depression is responsible for the man's lethargy. It's not the moment for harsh judgment. It's a time during which wives are called upon to show a courage which has not been expected of them in a long time, even to going out into the business world, if need be. There are men, supposedly engaged in occupations at the moment, who simply cannot get business. They cannot earn enough to pay the rent. They get discouraged and perhaps lose heart to go after anything at all.

However, the wife knows her man best. She knows whether there is a natural disinclination to work or not. If the man is lazily inclined then her best bet is to hold to her housewife job and insist that he take care of the other end.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Belied the Bragging.

One evening my husband invited a most distinguished guest to dine at our home. My husband is fond of drip coffee and had been bragging about how to make it.

Imagine my most embarassing moment when to find that I was ready to serve our guest and pour the first cup of coffee, water came out of the coffee pot. I had forgotten to put the coffee in the pot and had dripped my water in vain. A. L.

Miss James to Wed Briton as Mother Did

BY THALIA ——.

THE engagement of Miss Margaret Elizabeth James, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Ralph H. James of 220 East Walton place, to Charles Clarence Smith, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dalrymple Smith of Loughbrown, Hexham, Northumberland, was announced recently in London.

This interesting news is relayed across the Atlantic, preceding by a week the arrival of Miss James and her mother from their yearly summer stay in England.

Col. and Mrs. James [she was Miss Louise Brega of Chicago before her marriage to the British officer in the early part of this century] returned here to live six years ago. Miss Margaret, who has been a popular belle during her half dozen winters here, had her Chicago coming out at a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. John Cowar for her and their daughter Catherine, at the Fortnightly. The following spring she was presented at the Court of St. James. She has been active in the social affairs of the younger set and during the last few years has been studying sculpture with most creditable results. One of her figures, "Jungle Mother," I believe it was called, was exhibited last winter at the Art institute, and later was one of the star exhibits at a display of work done by the Junior leaguers.

R. R. Richardsons Plan Trip to Gaylord, Va., Soon.

The Ralph R. Richardsons, who are still out at their Wheaton place, during the hunting and the nice fall days when they ARE nice, plan to go to their Rose cottage at Gaylord, Va., some time before Thanksgiving although they don't know exactly when. For Thanksgiving week they plan to entertain a gay, young house party composed of their two sons-in-law and daughters, the Frederick Spences and the Walter W. Crawfords, the John Lewis Cochrans and the Stephen Y. Hords.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers has invited the members of her ticket selling committee for the Marx Gardner benefit concert at Orchestra hall Nov. 9 to luncheon at the Casino next Monday to make their reports.

Art Institute Reception Planned for Week from Thursday.

The Art Institute's annual reception, to be held a week from Thursday, will be much the same as ever, apparently, no depression. The same important clubs will be represented at the tea tables in the galleries, and as the kind and quality of the refreshments served in each room are standardized to tea and one type of coffee a few years ago [before prohibition, there was always a larger crush at the table that had the cakes with the prettiest icings or the goolest fillings, and the others] there will probably be no further curtailment of the menus.

As usual, the Antiquarians, the Fortnightly, and the Friends of American Art will share Gallery 25, with Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Potter Borden, Mrs. H. B. Erminger, and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick pouring in behalf of the Antiquarians; Mrs. J. Nick Cummings, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth for the Fortnightly, and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis, and Mrs. Frank G. Logan for the Friends of American Art.

In Gallery 45 will be representatives of the Chicago Woman's club, the Municipal Art league, the Chicago Woman's Aid, and the Art Institute Alumni association; in Gallery 27, the Tuesday Art and Travel club, the Arché club, and the Musicians' Club of Women; in Gallery 52, the Chicago Drama league; in Gallery 30, the Renaissance club, the Association of Arts and Industries, and in Gallery 48, the Arts club, with Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. Tiffany Blake pouring, the Contemporary club to be represented by Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, Mrs. Harold Beacom, and Mrs. Willard N. Boyden, and the Friday club, with Mrs. E. H. Brewer, Mrs. Alfred Hamill, and Mrs. William B. Hale.

Mrs. C. H. Sabin to Talk Against Dry Law Friday.

Mention of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin to any of the local women working for the Women's National Organization for Prohibition Reform galvanizes them into grabbing bunches of membership cards and rushing out to get new recruits for the cause. The organization in the east has grown so prodigiously under her leadership that the Chicago women feel they have to work like everything to keep up. Mrs. Sabin is coming on from New York to give a talk on prohibition reform in Waukegan Friday night.

The Chicago executive committee will give a luncheon for her at the Casino shortly after she arrives, and Mrs. Stanley Field and the Lake county co-chairmen of the W. N. O. P. R. will give a dinner for her at the Waukegan hotel before she speaks. She is to spend the night with Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, who is her cousin, and will likely return east on Saturday.

The diligent stitching ladies in the Women's Parish league of St. James's have decided that they've made enough blanket protectors, pincushions and things for the annual bazaar (they've been working on them since last year), and so, beginning with their first fall weekly sewing circle today they'll put in their time making sweaters and clothes for the unemployed. The bazaar is to be on Nov. 24, the Tuesday before Thanksgiving as usual. Mrs. Alan C. Dixon is president of the league.

Paris Knits Romance Into New Sweaters

By BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There is a very important change in sweaters to fall and winter than the mere matter of whether this useful sports garb shall tuck in a skirt or remain over the top. The new sweaters, while retaining sport in effect and as warm and practical as ever, are breaking out with pretty Victorian details that give them a romantic air. These details are done with the same needles that make the body of the sweater, a fact they do not seem merely added on to catch up with the romantic spirit that dominates most of the other clothes that are smart this year. These are part of the sweater itself.

In this spirit the stitch with which the sweater is knitted is a lacy stitch, and the wool used is a soft cashmere, in most cases. The favored sweater today is that of the lacy open stripe which is used by many of the Paris sports houses to make pullover sweaters. In the sketch shown today this lacy stripe is used, and Lucile Paray, who designed this particular sweater, has added further to the quaintness of the pattern by introducing dots of the same into the lace stripe on the sleeves and the body of the sweater below the dropped shoulder yoke.

This sweater is made of dove gray cashmere wool, soft and fine, and this, together with the dropped shoulder yoke, gives it that dash of romance which makes it so chic. The neck is round and at the front are two wool buttons. At the back, from the neck to the bottom of the shoulder yoke, the sweater is buttoned so that it may be opened and slipped on over the head.

Esparelli's new winter sweater, also shown, is a knockout. It is made of raspberry red wool, knitted into narrow stripes on the body and the sleeves. This sweater comes close around the base of the throat and is knitted a short distance down the back to enable you to get into it. Ending up at the neck is a frill of knitted red wool lace, and falling over the wrists of the fitted sleeves are frills of the same wool lace.

Columbus Day Is Observed by Chicagoans

In divers ways Chicago celebrated yesterday the discovery of America 439 years ago by Christopher Columbus. A general holiday in the schools, banks, Board of Trade, city hall, and county building gave thousands of people opportunity to observe the holiday, some at luncheons, banquets, civic meetings, others, the longer week-end trips.

One of those for whom the day has special significance was James Hunt of 4622 Aberdeen street, who trod again the deck of the Santa Maria, where it is anchored in a lagoon of Jackson park. He remembered that thirteen years ago he commanded the famous World's fair relic, a replica of the first ship from which the new land was sighted so long ago, bringing it from Prince Edward Island back to Jackson park after a five year absence.

At the Chicago Historical society were shown models of Columbus' famous ships, Santa Maria, Pinta, and Nina, along with anchors, weapons, coins, and other relics of the 15th century.

Another celebration last night was the meeting of the La Fayette council of the Knights of Columbus at 4300 West North avenue. There Speaker David E. Shanahan of the Illinois house of representatives was the speaker. The University council of the same order met in the auditorium at 1554 Devon avenue.

Radio Waves Cross Ocean to Illumine Statue of Christ.

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Guglielmo Marconi bridged 5,000 miles of the south Atlantic tonight by short wave wireless and threw the switch at Rio de Janeiro which illuminated the statue of the redeemer on Corcovado mountain. The inventor sent three successive wireless signals and within three minutes had wireless confirmation that they had been received and the lights were in operation. With the Brazilian ambassador to the Holy See beside him, Signor Marconi read an appropriate message in which he said that airplane wings and electric waves made Italy closer to America than Columbus could have dreamed.

Statue Nearly 3,000 Feet Above Rio de Janeiro Port.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A great statue of Christ on Corcovado mountain was dedicated today in a downpour of rain.

Cardinal Sebastiao Leme pronounced a benediction on pilgrims, who had come by railway and afoot, toiling up the steep and rocky mountainside.

The statue stands nearly 3,000 feet above the harbor and has been ten years in the planning and construction. It is 125 feet tall and its outstretched arms form a cross 92 feet from fingertip to fingertip. It is the work of a French sculptor, Paul Landowski. It cost $250,000.

Genoa Again Tells World Columbus Was Born There.

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Determined to establish for all time its claims to be the birthplace of Christopher Columbus, Genoa staged its greatest show today in honor of the discoverer of America.

Senator Broccardi took advantage of the occasion to say that "Columbus was and will always remain an Italian. He was a son of Genoa and his family was Italian. The proofs exist in Genoa's archives."

The populace decorated everything in sight, lighted candles and electric signs and paid votive visits to the tumbled, ivy grown stone structure that is said to be the explorer's birthplace.

Rheumatic Goes Wild With Joy

Nurito Prescription Acts Like Magic, Making Bed-ridden Sufferers Get Up and Dance

Nothing has so startled the community as the effect of Nurito, a physician's prescription for rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It is now to be had at Walgreen's drug stores and is certainly a boon to humanity. Many won't believe such a thing possible as almost instant relief in even bed-ridden cases of excruciating pain. They say it must be a narcotic. But it isn't anything of the sort, and to prove it, get the regular package from Walgreen's. Try it as directed and if it doesn't prove almost a miracle in driving away pain with two or three doses your money will be instantly refunded. Ask at Walgreen's for a box of Nurito on this money-back guarantee.

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Bolero frocks are popular, and this one is smart, with the front edges of the bolero rolling back in a chic manner. The skirt is box plaited across the front and plain in the back, and the blouse and collar are of a contrasting color. Light weight tweed, wool crêpe, and the heavier silk crêpes will make up beautifully.

The pattern, 2626, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material for the bolero and skirt, with 1½ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse.

Self-Infection Menace Ended by KLEENEX

Disposable Tissues

DIRTY handkerchiefs are repulsive enough, as every sensitive person knows. But that is not the worst about them.

Every use discharges germs into your handkerchief. Germs that do not die, but live and grow!

Thus your own handkerchief is a constant source of danger. Used once, it is fit only to be destroyed.

Kleenex is safe

Kleenex costs so little that you destroy each tissue immediately after use. Germs are instantly destroyed before they have a chance to reinfect you, or to spread infection among others. Every tissue that touches your face is clean, fresh and sanitary.

These disposable tissues entirely do away with handkerchief laundering. Kleenex costs less than commercial laundering. If you wash handkerchiefs at home, Kleenex relieves you from this disagreeable task.

Kleenex is made from rayon cellulose, and is far softer than the oldest linen handkerchief. And nearly twice as absorbent. Kleenex can never irritate. Its downy softness is a wonderful relief . . . especially during colds.

A modern necessity

You'll soon find you can't do without these marvelous super-absorbent Kleenex tissues. For blotting up embedded impurities of dirt and make-up from the pores when removing face creams they have no equal.

Use Kleenex for polishing spectacles. For manicuring. For applying medicines and bandaging minor wounds. Keep a package handy in the kitchen, bath and bedroom—in the car. Kleenex is sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Disease Germs Found in Handkerchiefs used during colds include the dangerous Staphylococcus (pus germ), Pneumococcus, Streptococcus and Catarrhalis, bacteriological tests show. Any doctor will tell you the danger of carrying such germs about with you. Any doctor will advise Kleenex Tissues for safety.

Reformatory Threat Is an Admission of Failure by Parent

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"He dipped his pen in vitriol and wrote," said somebody, sometime. I'm not quite sure about vitriol—my half year of chemistry has faded away—but sometimes I wish I could find some flaming fluid in which I could dip my pen to shock some parents into a consciousness of what they are doing.

There are few things that parents do with which I have no patience. But one of them—the one I need the vitriol for—is to halt, on his mistaken way, the father who says to his son, "I'm going to send you to a reformatory if you don't do as I say."

This is said sometimes to a boy who has done something he should not or who has gotten into a scrape, or into trouble at school. It is also used as a threat with a boy who may, for instance, refuse to go to school any more, and who prefers to go to work.

. . . . . .

I wonder, when a man says that, if he realizes, even faintly, what a reformatory would do to his son. Many of our reformatories are trying to do constructive work with the young men committed to them, to be sure. But why do even our juvenile courts do everything in their power to keep young offenders out of them? What does a man think would happen to his boy in the companionship of young criminals—and after he came out? What right has a father to threaten such a thing?

Does he think that the vision of a reformatory helps his boy to find himself?

Does he think that it helps his boy to love and respect his father?

Does he think that he is fulfilling his grave responsibility for the boy he has helped to bring into the world?

"O, but I didn't mean it," he may protest, smiling at your credulousness.

That makes it almost worse. It is cruel. It is bullying. It is terrifying. And it is utterly stupid for a father to threaten his son with the reformatory. A man should be ashamed to utter such words to his boy, which are in their essence an admission of his failure as a father.

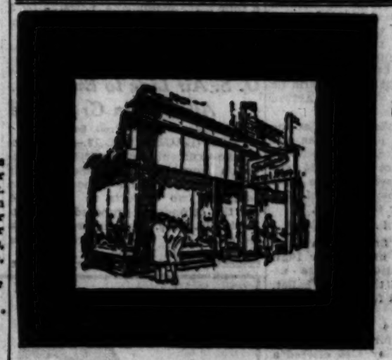
ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bulley of 220 Sheridan road, Kenilworth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Bernice May, to Monroe Turner, son of A. M. Turner of Evanston. Miss Bulley was graduated from Wellesley and Mr. Turner from Yale. No date has been set for the wedding.

Catholic Women's League.

The North Shore Catholic Woman's league will hold its opening meeting this afternoon at the Winnetka Woman's club.



Today We Begin our 29th Year at the Same Location

That's a long time to be in one place—there's a reason. Always Frederic's has featured costume jewelry and handbags in high fashion—intriguing, interesting, exciting styles. So naturally its clientele has been drawn from among the most fashionable women in Chicago—women who don't want out-of-style jewelry and bags at any price. Many of them have been coming here all these 28 years. We hope to serve them for decades more.

Featuring for this occasion:
Antique gold metal and Frederic's pearl jewelry in styles of the Romantic Elizabethan period.

SANCHEZ CERRO, A SOLDIER, LEADS PERU'S ELECTION

Republic Counts Votes in First Secret Ballot.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 12.—Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, pugnacious soldier and former provisional president, is leading three other candidates for president of the republic in yesterday's elections, according to the first returns tonight.

The counting of the ballots began today in the 23 electoral departments. The sealed urns containing the ballots were brought before department electoral juries, which opened them, scanned the ballots and began tabulating the results.

Transport Voting Urns.

In some departments the job of counting the votes has not yet even started because of difficulty in transporting the voting urns in isolated districts. Reports from Callao showed that Sanchez Cerro was leading by a comfortable margin there. The vote was announced as follows:

Sanchez Cerro, 647; Victor Raul Haya de La Torre, 328; Jose Maria de La Yara y Ureta, 51, and Arturo Osores, 42.

According to reports received at the capital, yesterday's election was the most tranquil in more than a century. It is estimated that nearly 95 per cent of the voters went to the polls in order to avoid the penalty of paying a heavy fine for not voting.

Not a Shot Fired.

Not a shot was fired nor a head cracked—something unusual for Peru elections. The tranquility was ascribed to the use of the secret ballot, which was employed for the first time in history.

The actual results of the election may not be known for several weeks. The republic yesterday also elected a general assembly, whose task it will be to pass final judgment on the legal status of the imprisoned Augusto B. Leguia, former president and dictator, who was ousted by a revolutionary movement.

243 TERRORISTS ON TRIAL; LAST MAFIA REMNANTS

PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A gang of 245 men, accused of membership in the Mafia society, went to trial today and authorities hoped to remove from circulation the last remnants of that notorious terrorist band.

Most of the prisoners sat in a huge cage in the courtroom, heavily guarded by police and the local militia. They were charged with virtually every crime associated with racketeering—extortion, murder, blackmail, arson, assault and robbery.

More than 300 witnesses had been called and the trial was expected to last more than a month. Sentences amounting to 1,500 years in prison were imposed on 124 alleged members of the Mafia last June.

FINED FOR BAD CHECKS.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—R. L. Richter, a Lansing fruit buyer, paid a total of $54.75 in Justice John Rody's court, St. Joseph, today, after pleading guilty to issuing worthless checks to a local farmer.

AIR NOTES

C. T. Robertson, pilot for the United Air lines, yesterday flew a Ford plane, powered by three Wasp motors, from Cleveland to Chicago, 318 miles by airline, in 2 hours and 11 minutes. This is believed to be a new record for the distance for commercial planes. His average speed was approximately 144 miles an hour. The plane carried 300 pounds of mail. The scheduled time is 3 hours and 16 minutes.

Plans for the reception of Hugh Herndon Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, trans-Pacific flyers, have been indefinitely postponed because of delays the flyers have encountered in repairing their plane. Officials of the Press club of Chicago yesterday talked to the flyers over long distance and learned that additional repairs, demanded by department of commerce inspectors, will delay the take off from Wenatchee, Wash.

Dr. John R. Pontius, an interne at the Passavant hospital, whose wife, Mrs. Ruth Taylor Pontius, was one of the three heirs of Mrs. Ida Flagler, wife of the Standard Oil millionaire and railroad builder, is learning to fly a new Stinson cabin plane he purchased recently.

Dr. Pontius is being instructed by Maj. R. W. Schroeder at Sky Harbor airport, in Northbrook. The plane is a four place monoplane, powered by a Lycoming motor. Dr. and Mrs. Pontius live at 770 Hill road, Winnetka.

U. S. Air Line to Build Airports in Greenland

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 12.—The Danish government today received application from the Trans-American Air Line corporation for concessions to establish two airports in Greenland for the company's proposed trans-Atlantic air route. An airport will also be established in the Faroe islands and another in Iceland.

BOY KILLER GETS LIFE TERM FOR HOLDUP MURDER

Perry Swank, 15 year old Indiana murderer, escaped the death chair yesterday, but must spend the rest of his life in the state penitentiary at Michigan City.

Judge Martin Smith imposed the life sentence at Crown Point, Ind., when the boy pleaded guilty to first degree murder for the shooting of Eugene Duckworth, Lowell oil station owner. Originally Perry was indicted for murder in the commission of a robbery, conviction of which makes the death penalty mandatory.

Selection of a jury was about to begin yesterday when Perry's lawyer, John Haller, offered to enter a plea of guilty to first degree murder, which permits a prison sentence. Prosecutor Robert G. Estill consented, and the indictment was revised to first degree murder. Perry remained calm when Judge Smith, remarking that it all killers were electrocuted there would be fewer murders, sentenced him to life imprisonment. Perry's youth saved him from the chair, the court implied.

Perry held up Duckworth three weeks ago, then killed him with one shot. He took $45 from his victim's body and later attended an Epworth league service.

MAROON TEAM IDLE, BUT FANS GET A WORKOUT

"Beat Yale" Cheer Echo on Midway.

Chicago varsity men who play against Michigan, all fourteen of them, were dismissed early by Coach Stagg in yesterday's practice and told to be ready for three strenuous days of drill for the Yale game Saturday. Other players were sent through a long scrimmage with the freshmen.

The business of keying the team for Yale's first invasion of the middle west began promptly. Five hundred students informed the neighborhood by that this is "Yale week" in a snake dance through Hyde Park and Woodlawn last night.

No Need to Point Team.

Stagg apparently will make no special effort to point his squad for Yale. There will be no need for it, if the attitude of the team yesterday is an index. Their confidence was ratified several notches by the Michigan game, and members of the varsity were talking to themselves about "beating Yale for the Old Man."

The climax of Stagg's 40 years of coaching at Chicago, a victory over Yale, would be a personal triumph for Coach Stagg. Every member of the Maroon coaching staff, except Stagg, is a "C" man, and three members of the squad, Paul Stagg, Bert Callis, and George Schnur, reserve tackle, are sons of "C" men.

Reports that Pat Page Jr., son of the Maroon line coach, recently declared ineligible to play, had been withdrawn from school, were denied last night. It was said that young Page plans to drop all of his work for the quarter except in German, the course which caused him to be ruled ineligible. If he concentrates on German and succeeds in making up the deficiency in it, he will be eligible for basketball.

Old Teammates at Game.

Six of the men who played on Yale's championship team of 1888 with Stagg will watch the game Saturday. They are George Woodruff, former attorney general of Pennsylvania; W. [Pudge] Heffelfinger of Minneapolis; Charles Gill of Orwell, Vt.; Will H. Corbin, captain, of Hartford, Conn.; William C. Wurtemberg, New Haven, and William P. Graves, professor of the Harvard medical school.

Stagg does not know exactly how the Yale team will attempt offensive work. With Benny Friedman and A. A. Walsh assisting Mal Stevens in coaching the Blue eleven, the Yale attack probably will have both Michigan and Notre Dame elements in it.

Forty Years on the Midway

The Life Story of Amos Alonzo Stagg

The Yale championship team of 1888, which scored 698 points to its opponents' none. Back row, left to right, Billy Rhodes of Cleveland, tackle; George Woodruff, guard, later attorney general of Pennsylvania; W. W. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis, guard; Charlie Gill, tackle; Fred Wallace, end; Billy Bull, full back. Second row—A. A. Stagg, end; Lee McClung, half back, later treasurer of the United States; Capt. W. H. Corbin, center. Front row—William C. Wurtemberg, quarter back; Billy Graves, half back.

Can you imagine Mr. Stagg (left) acting up like this on the Midway? This picture was taken in his undergraduate days at Yale. The other view shows Stagg with his battery mate, Jesse Dann. They were the greatest pitcher and catcher of their day.

BY ARCH WARD.

Amos Alonzo Stagg was born at West Orange, N. J., on Aug. 16, 1862. His ancestors had lived in that vicinity for years. His mother was a Pierson, a descendant of Thomas Pierson, who, with his brother, Abraham, was among the colonists who settled Newark, N. J. Thomas Pierson was an uncle of another Abraham Pierson, who became the first president of Yale.

The celebration commemorative of the settlement of Newark on its 200th anniversary developed an interesting story of the founding of the town by Stagg's forefathers. Curiously enough for any one who knows Mr. Stagg's present views on intoxicating beverages, four barrels of beer and two ankers of liquor were involved in the purchase of the land from the Indians.

Indians Induced to Trade More Land.

There is a paragraph in the New Jersey Historical society's account of the founding of Newark that reads like this:

"The land was bought from the Indians for fifty double hands of powder, one hundred bars of lead, twenty axes, twenty coats, ten guns, twenty pistols, ten kettels, ten swords, four blankets, four barrels of beer, two pairs of breeches, fifty knives, twenty hoes, eight hundred and fifty fathoms of wampum, two ankers of liquor [about 32 gallons], and three troopers coats."

Eleven years later, on March 13, 1678, the western limits of the tract were extended to the top of the mountain by a deed from two other Indians, the consideration of the extension being two guns, three coats and thirteen cans of rum.

Commenting on his ancestors a few days ago, Mr. Stagg said:

"Unfortunately, there is a missing link on the Stagg side of my family, but I am satisfied that they lived for several generations in the parts of New Jersey adjacent to New York. On my maternal side my great-great-grandfathers, Erastus Pierson and Samuel Williams, both fought in the war of the revolution. Samuel Williams was called "Blaze" Williams, because as officer in command of some troops he told them to wait until they could see the enemy's eyes and then "blaze away."

Interesting Story of Revolutionary War Days.

On Mr. Stagg's paternal side his great-great-grandfather, Joseph Tompkins, also fought for the colonies. He

Cubs Eye Hack, 20 Year Old Star at Sacramento

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 12. — [Special.]—It was indicated here today that one of the first baseball deals, after the new open season on purchases begins on Nov. 1, will be the transfer of Stanley Hack, Sacramento third baseman, to the Chicago Cubs.

Hack, who is 20 years old, was scouted during the Coast league season by Scout Jack Doyle of the Cubs. Doyle is said to have recommended his purchase as soon as baseball rules permit.

Hack has had only one season in professional baseball. Upon his graduation from Sacramento High school he obtained a position in a Sacramento bank and last spring arranged with his employers to take a little time off to work out with the Sacs. He proved a sensation and was persuaded to resign his bank job.

Hack is a tall rangy player with a fine throwing arm. He is a left-handed hitter and had a batting average of .352 for the Coast league season.

FONSECA NAMED SOX MANAGER FOR TWO YEARS

Lew Plans to Keep Place in Left Field.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lewis Albert Fonseca will manage the White Sox next season and during the season after that. He was formally promoted from the playing ranks yesterday when announcement was made by Secretary Harry Grabiner that the California native son had been signed to a two year contract.

After being revealed as the man who must take up where Donie Bush dropped off when he resigned last week, Fonseca locked up his new title and went away in the guise of an everyday ball player. He will play that part as a member of a barnstorming troupe which will tour the west and wind up in San Francisco, his home town, in about ten days. Tommy Thomas of the Sox, George Earnshaw of the Athletics, Ernie Orsatti of the Cards, and Ralph Kress of the Browns are other members of the expedition.

Plans Player Deals.

Fonseca, who will come back in December and begin his serious worries about the new job, has no immediate remedies for the south side's baseball ailments. He is sure the Sox are a better team than that which floundered in eighth place this season and subsequently defeated the Cubs in the city series. He also is sure he can make one or two deals of consequence. And he has his own ideas about the ground work for successful management.

"There's one thing I've always felt a manager should do," said Fonseca. "Ball players today aren't the rough and ready type of old. You must handle them to suit their natures. You can call some of them in public and they don't object. Some you must call in private. Others can't take a papning of any kind. Those are the ones you must slap on the back when they're down."

Having played under six big league managers—Moran, Hendricks, Fletcher, McCallister, Peckinpaugh and Bush—the new Sox pilot probably realizes the importance of the above.

Blue Stays at First.

Fonseca has no intention of going back to first base now that he has the authority to put himself there.

"As long as Lu Blue plays first as he did last season he isn't going to be moved," said Fonseca. "I'll play left field as I did this year and I won't even try that if I think I have a better man for the job."

When Fonseca was obtained from Cleveland last spring in exchange for Willie Kamm he was ranked as a first baseman, but Bush wouldn't consider the removal of Blue. Instead, Fonseca was placed at second, but the nature of the work there was too much for his legs. Rather than bench him and lose his hitting strength, Bush put Fonseca in left field. He was there all season, except for occasional rest periods.

His 1931 batting figure was .312. In 1929, as an Indian, he topped the American league hitters with a mark of .369.

May Shift Sullivan.

"It is too early to be definite about anything," was his reply yesterday when asked whether he had any ideas about the material now at his command. "That fellow Selph we drafted from Houston might be all right as a second baseman. It may be that Appling can be developed into a third sacker instead of a shortstop.

"Sullivan's work as a third baseman wasn't satisfactory, but he appears to be a hitter, so I'm going to try him at second. But he probably will not report until May, so can't be counted on for the start. I told him that it would be a good idea for him to do a little practice around second while he is finishing his schooling."

Fonseca started his baseball on the San Francisco lots and was signed by the Seals. He didn't think he would have much of a chance with them, so he jumped the club and become manager of Smithfield, Utah, in an outlaw league. He lost his first three games as a manager and was told that if he lost the fourth he'd be fired. His team stepped out and won the next 16. He was 20 years old at the time. He was born at Oakland, Cal., Jan. 21, 1909.

Hawthorne to Hold Charity Racing Oct. 22

A charity day of racing at the Hawthorne track on Thursday, Oct. 22, which may put upwards of $50,000 into Gov. Emmerson's unemployment fund, was announced yesterday by President John C. Schank and General Manager Joseph A. Murphy of the Hawthorne association.

It is to be known as Mayor Cermak day for the relief of the unemployed and will be conducted under the auspices of the joint emergency relief committee of Cook county.

Hawthorne will donate all of its profits—gate receipts and betting dividends—for that afternoon and in addition will make a cash donation of $5,000.

Program Revenue to Fund.

The track also will defray the cost of printing the programs and will donate the entire revenue from this source to the fund. A charge of 25 cents will be made for each program for this occasion.

The horsemen will do their share also, for they have agreed to a cut in the purse money, thus holding down the expenses and making the profits larger. A saving of some $2,000 will be effected in the purse money, with the smallest purse amounting to $800 and the largest $1,000.

The track will print 20,000 special tickets and will turn them over to the joint relief committee, which will conduct the sale. Regular season badges will be honored.

May Raise $50,000.

Messrs. Murphy and Schank refuse to hazard a guess as to how big a pot will be raised for charity, but they believe that in view of curtailed expenses and other features of the program that it may amount to as much as $50,000. A sellout would insure a charity purse of $75,000.

20 Year Old Maroon Captures Chess Crown

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Samuel Reshevsky, youthful chess expert, today won the national championship of the National Chess congress, which closed its annual seven day tournament here. The 20 year old youth, who a decade ago won international honors when he defeated the world's best chess players, left his studies at the University of Chicago to defeat N. T. Whitaker, Washington attorney and former titleholder.

Weissmuller Has Rebuilt Nose; Yes, He's in the Movies

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Johnny Weissmuller, swimming champion, walked Hollywood boulevard today with a remodeled nose, helpful, he said, in both his aquatic and motion picture careers.

Before an operation early last week, the swimmer's nose was of the bulb type, due to an ill advised dive as a small boy into an empty tank.

He hung up all his swimming records breathing through his mouth, and, after another accident in a football game three years ago, wasn't able to smell.

"Now," he said, "I can smell, I can breathe easily through my nose, and the new Grecian streamlining won't do me any harm at the studio."

CONNIE MACK TO RETIRE, SOME OF ATHLETICS THINK

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Al Simmons, Lefty Grove and Mickey Cochrane of the Philadelphia Athletics arrived here by plane today en route to join a barnstorming troup of major league baseball players who will sail Oct. 15 for the orient.

From the group of Athletics came expressions of belief that Connie Mack was going to retire as manager of the three time league champions, although none of the trio, nor Pitcher Hank McDonald, who accompanied them to his home in Santa Monica here, was willing to be quoted.

Barnard Wins 10 Round Verdict from Battalino

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Roger Barnard of Flint, Mich., won a ten round decision from Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., featherweight champion of the world, tonight. The title was not at stake.

FLOORS GIANT ITALIAN FOR SIX COUNT IN 4TH

35,000 Pay $100,000 to See Fight.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 12.—Jack Sharkey beat Primo Carnera and almost knocked him out in a strange spectacle and a great heavyweight fight at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, this evening.

The fighters, stripped to the conventional nominal attire of trunks and shoes, went fifteen rounds while 35,000 customers sat wrapped in their overcoats, chattering and trembling in the chill of a cold autumn night.

Carnera was knocked in a huge heap on his back in the fourth round and the fight almost ended there in a typical Sharkey emotional tantrum when Primo staggered up at the count of six and, seeing Sharkey whirling at him again, dropped to his right knee to take another rest without being hit.

Sharkey Puts on Tantrum.

Gunboat Smith, the referee, made the best of a bad situation, allowing Primo to continue, but Sharkey let out a hysterical scream, plucked the rubber guard out of his mouth, and made a rush to leap through the ropes and out of the ring at his own corner, claiming the fight by a technical knockout.

Johnny Buckley, his manager, bounced up on the margin of the ring and met Sharkey's rush, shoving him back into the ring, while Primo, dizzy and gasping, staggered around with a wild glare in his eyes.

It was a left swing to the jaw that sent Primo down and his long experience with setups on his tours of the country had given him no idea of what to do when smacked flat. So he struggled to his feet in great excitement, and when Sharkey rushed at him with a snarl, flopped to the canvas again in sheer terror.

Smith gave Carnera a count of two as Sharkey paused in rage and amazement. Then about twenty seconds more elapsed as Sharkey tried to leave the ring and Primo took advantage of this long rest to get his feet back under him and his gloves up.

In the first three rounds Primo had beaten Sharkey's head with left jabs and pulled him about with ease. His huge weight, 261 pounds to Sharkey's 202, and his great advantage in height seemed too much for Sharkey to deal with, until Jack suddenly came out of a weaving crouch with the left swing that put Primo down with a crash in a cloud of resin dust.

In the fifth, Sharkey began prodding Primo in the middle, a vast and very sensitive area, with left hooks, every one of which bent Primo slightly and made his mouth pop open and his eyes bulge. The hooks brought Primo's guard down and when it was definitely centered about his zone of least resistance, Sharkey's left regularly arched up to clout him on the jaw again.

Primo had been a bit of a mystery for a long time. Apparently a mere monstrosity, he nevertheless seemed to have some idea of fighting, and the first good man he met proved that his offensive repertoire consisted entirely of a sharp, fast left jab. This jab seemed to discourage Sharkey in the first three rounds, but after Primo had gone down, the Lithuanian was boss.

Primo Totters at Finish.

The seventh and eighth rounds went to Carnera as Sharkey again fell into the habit of trying to outreach Primo with jabs, but in the ninth, Sharkey resumed the annoyance at Primo's equator to maintain the fire until the end. The fight ended with Primo tottering hugely like a dynamited smokestack in the news reels. Sharkey was weaving, crouching and crashing the left to the jaw but he, too, was winded by this time, and Primo reached the finish without another fall.

There was no dispute about the decision and there was no longer any reason to suspect Primo of any fighting quality beyond the accident of his size and plenty of courage. Notwithstanding the cold, the customers tossed in more than $100,000 this evening.

This was an astonishing turnout of the indefatigables who make this racket one of the most fascinating of all the eccentricities of the human race. They were shrunk into great coats, with their caps and hats yanked down over their eyes and ears. Still the soda butchers knew no better than to prowl among the rows, bawling "Here y' are; ice cold soda." And still the customers, perhaps from force of habit, were hurling cold sweet water into their quivering hulks.

Cold as Football Game.

Outside the park for half a mile in all directions there were unbroken lines of parked automobiles, and the Brooklyn police were doing their usual best, or worst, to foul up the traffic and present all possible obstacles to the patrons. The typewriter keys were cold to the touch and the entire atmosphere was more consistent with a Harvard-Yale game in arctic Boston in November.

The prices ranged gradually southward from $15.75 for the ringside seats to $3 for the bleacher roosts and there was a note of cheer in the fact that so many patrons could raise the price of admission, though a trifle depressing.

FAVORITISM SEEN IN U. S. AID TO EASTERN SAILORS

'Commercial' Harbor Plea Gets Results.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

While yachtsmen of the central states are relying on park boards, chambers of commerce and municipalities for harbor improvements, eastern boat owners, particularly in the New York-Long Island area, are having no such difficulty. In fact, they have not been embarrassed to the point of depending on local authorities for the widening and dredging of havens for their craft. It is a benevolent government which has been attending to their nautical well being in the matter of deepening creeks, dredging harbors and cutting channels.

Many a reef, bar and shoal in the cozy little inlets of the metropolitan area are being ironed out and waterways of adequate depth for mooring facilities are being blasted.

This information undoubtedly will prove interesting to Lake Michigan yachtsmen, who have been given to understand that the constitution of the United States empowers the government to deal only with improvements affecting commercial navigation and that pleasure yacht harbors do not come under this classification. Hence they have had to go to park boards and local authorities to obtain improvements, if any, for their harbors.

Burden on Park Boards.

Jackson park yachtsmen are awaiting the action of the south park board for the roomy harbor they have sadly needed these twenty years. North side sailors finally are realising their hope of increased harbor space but the burden for same has been placed on the Lincoln park board. Local boat owners have hoped for a harbor in the dune regions as a week-end objective for several years, but such action rests with the state of Indiana. Saugatuck, Mich., a favorite port for Chicago yachtsmen, is now in danger of being bereft of necessary improvements because the government abandoned it it as a commercial project a few years ago.

These are problems with which the eastern cousins of central states sailors are not troubled because they apparently have struck the border line which separates. While the work of the federal government in the New York territory is being carried out ostensibly in the interest of commercial navigation, many projects will prove of more benefit to pleasure boat men and owners of large yachts than to industry.

Decoy Army Engineers.

There is a line between work that could have no other classification than commercial and work purely intended to benefit yachtsmen. It is on this line that more than $2,250,000 of river and harbor funds have been expended in the metropolitan area. Political power, pleas from chambers of commerce, the influence of wealthy property owners, all have contributed to the decoying of army engineers into these harbors, which are more yacht basins than industrial focal points.

At least ten of the 43 improvements in and around New York, either recently completed or still under way verge on this line.

The funds for harbor and river improvements are administered by the war department, engineers of which make recommendations and supervise the work. The first New York district, which includes Long Island sound, is under the jurisdiction of Col. G. M. Hoffman. Col. Hoffman was absent recently when a TRIBUNE correspondent sought information on improvements in Long Island waters, but Jacob Beck, chief clerk for the district, consented to discuss the subject.

All "Commercial Improvements."

"There are no big jobs out there," Mr. Beck said. "Just a few thousand dollars being spent here and there."

He said that the war department had charge of all harbor and river improvements and that no appropriations were made except for "commercial improvements."

Mr. Beck was asked if government funds had not been received by certain communities on the pretext of obtaining aid for "harbors of refuge."

"The term is sometimes used," he replied, "but I do not recall any particular appropriation based on that plea. We build breakwaters, as the government is doing in the Jamaica bay project, and otherwise improve the safety of harbors."

The details concerning certain of the "border line" projects previously mentioned were pointed out.

"Yes," he said, "the tonnage is in some instances of small value, but in each improvement there is the indication of increased business. These improvements are all for commercial purposes."

[The methods used by eastern yachtsmen in obtaining pleasure yacht harbor improvements at government expense, together with a number of specific projects already completed or under way, will be told in another article tomorrow.]

Forty Years on the Midway

was such an ardent patriot that the British put a price on his head, but he never was captured.

There is an interesting story about Joseph Tompkins which has come down to Mr. Stagg through the generations. One day when his regiment was on the way to Orange, Joseph and two other soldiers had lagged behind. Between Belleville and Newark, after the main body of soldiers had turned off the highway, the three men were confronted by a troop of British soldiers.

The officer in command said: "Who be for you?"

Joseph replied: "Who be for you?"

This was repeated several times. Finally, with much cursing, the British officer said: "I be for King George III. Who be for you?"

Joseph responded: "I be for the continental congress."

One of the three men stood his ground, surrendered and was taken to Sugar House prison in New York where he died. Joseph and his other companion meanwhile ran to a six barred rail fence. Joseph jumped it, but his friend was killed. Joseph then raced into the woods and got away.

Mr. Stagg's father, Amos Lindsley Stagg, found it no easy task to provide food and shelter for his wife and seven children. Recalling his childhood days Mr. Stagg recently remarked:

"Our home life had to be one of cooperation. The children had to help. I can hardly remember the time as a boy when I did not have chores to do in connection with bringing water from the well, chopping wood, carrying coal, weeding the garden, digging, hoeing and assisting in the planting.

Fond of Sports as a Youngster.

"Even as a youngster I was fond of sports of all kinds. My father gave me plenty of opportunity to play. I always loved to run and when I was 12 or 13 it hurt my pride terribly to have my sister, Pauline, who was two years older than I, beat me in sprinting. My father got a great kick out of getting off at a distance, giving the signal and having us race to him. At that time my sister invariably won.

"Once I competed in a one hour race. I have no remembrance where I came in, but I do recall that I had a theory that if I shuffled along without bending my knees much I would avoid getting winded so quickly. I did not air my views publicly. After the race one of my friends asked me why I ran so stiff legged. As my theory did not prove a winner I dropped it.

"At Phillips Exeter academy, where I spent six months in 1884 getting ready to take the Yale examinations in June I participated in a five mile run and won second medal, but there were only two in the race.

Liked to Skate and Pitch in Baseball.

"Shinny was one of my favorite sports. I loved the fun of hitting the block and scrapping the puck away from the other boys, whether it was on the street, in the lot, or on the ice. Skating also was one of my favorite winter sports. In college I was a member of our class hockey team. When I was 10 years old my father once took me a couple of miles from home to a large skating pond, where I had an all day workout. He laughed next morning when I crawled downstairs on my hands and knees backward, because my thighs were stiff and sore. Hundreds of times I have skated on a big pond where Edison's West Orange factory is now built.

"From earliest remembrance it seems as though I always had played baseball with the kids. It took our gang many weeks to accumulate $1.25 to buy a baseball. I recall that my contribution came from making and selling kites at 1 and 2 cents each. Like other boys, I preferred to be a pitcher. Evidently I had ambitions and developed in the process of practicing. I recall when I was 13 that I had been trying desperately hard to pitch a curved ball, which then was just coming into vogue.

"The day I first accomplished it I ran pell mell to my mother in the kitchen, yelling: 'I've got it! I've got it!'

"She said: 'Got what?'

"I answered: 'The curve.'

"'O!' mother said, evidently relieved."

Loved to Roam in the Woods.

The cottage which housed the Stagg family was located on the land their ancestors had purchased from the Indians in 1866 and the wooded slopes of the first and second mountains were the playground of Amos Alonzo. He loved the woods, and during his boyhood took hundreds of trips up and over the top of the mountain, where some of his relatives lived.

"One instance stands out in my memory when I was about 9 years of age," Mr. Stagg recently recalled. "My mother had made me a new pair of trousers and I was allowed to wear them as a part of the Fourth of July celebration. It was common for the rich bugs, as we used to call them, to send up beautifully colored balloons, which all of the kids were ambitious to recover when the sponge saturated with kerosene had burned out and they slowly fell.

"On this particular Fourth of July, along with two other boys, I had chased up part of the mountain side following one of these balloons. Unfortunately it fell in one of the beautiful estates in Hutton park, which was surrrounded by a high picket fence. Returning home down the hilly slope we stirred up a setting hen with a large number of eggs under her.

"The hen was in an open lot and we boys felt the eggs were common property, so each of us grabbed some of them. I put two in my right trouser pocket and one in my left. The hen made an awful clatter, and whether one of the boys gave an alarm or not, because of the steep hill we were going down, we started to run. After a while I felt something wet.

"Upon putting my hands in my pockets I found the eggs were broken and a nasty looking wet spot appeared on the outside of my new trousers. Very gingerly I pulled out the small chicks, the shells, and what remained of the eggs and went home sobbing. I think I was told a few things, but my mother was too wise to give me a whipping."

[In tomorrow's article Mr. Ward will tell how Mr. Stagg realized the value of an education and how he struggled to attain it.]

DE PAUL BUILDS RUNNING ATTACK FOR ST. MARY'S

De Paul university's running attack was practised yesterday afternoon as Coach Anderson set about correcting offensive errors for the Friday night game with St. Mary's of Winona, Minn.

Dr. Anderson sought to develop an effective combination in the back field. The backs functioned without proper timing in the Illinois Wesleyan game.

Sharkey Wins Decision from Primo Carnera

perhaps, to reflect that, being able to they would. Considering the known records of the two principal performers all this spending and this excitement could have been taken to mean that the prizefight customers are not quite bright.

Sharkey had thrown them down in half a dozen bouts, including notorious failures against Schmeling, Scott, and Mickey Walker, and Carnera, to the best of any one's knowledge and belief, had never fought a single bout free of suspicion.

Both the upper and lower decks of the enlarged ball yard were fairly well filled with patrons and they whistled and howled in gay derision and impatience as Jack McCarthy of Boston and Piétro Corri, an Italian, whiled away five rounds before the main event. The ringside sections spread upon the infield and the near outfield were full.

Recalls Tom Sharkey.

McCarthy looked like an old fashioned line drawing of Tom Sharkey in action and his chest was adorned with a three column cut depicting a ring scene in which one stalwart gladiator stood triumphant over the horizontal form of a beaten adversary. The decision as to their restrained quarrel was a draw.

Pending the complete healing of Sharkey's sick little finger, old Paddy Mullins, who used to manage Harry Wills, hurled a colored boy into the ring to resist Walter Cobb, a large fat Caucasian with a marked facial resemblance to Jess Willard. That is, Cobb's face is wide and blank and a large curl flops over his left eye. The colored athlete's name was given as Jack Rose. Cobb spanked him one on the ear with his left and Rose looked as though he was going to die. He lay down and flopped half way across the ring before the count of ten assured him that all danger was over. Then he got up and went away.

Sharkey Enters Ring First.

Old Gunboat Smith, gnarled and melancholy, was up in the ring now, performing the duties of the referee. Sammy Baker, the old welterweight campaigner, and a youth named Pete Suski, killed another fifteen minutes while the management made one last grab for the customers' money at the box offices.

Sharkey hopped into the ring first, wearing his dark blue silk robe with a golden anchor embroidered on the back. Carnera followed right after him, a spectacle in a purple satin robe with gold trimming and black shellac on his hair.

The amenities were abbreviated lest the fighters freeze to death and the fight began. Sharkey left the ring with a gale of ungrudging cheers ringing in the wintry night, the first time he has won the entire approval of the crowd since he stopped Harry Wills in this ring five years ago.

CATHOLIC YOUTH GROUP DEVELOPS BOXING PROGRAM

Twenty thousand boys and young men in the Chicago territory are expected to join in a huge athletic program sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization, first details of which were announced yesterday by the Rev. Gerald P. Scanlan, director.

Packy McFarland heads the list of those who are directing the first project of the program—a course in physical culture and boxing for boys of 16 years or over in more than 300 parishes in the counties of Cook, Lake, Will, Grundy, Du Page, and Kankakee.

Among those assisting McFarland are Sammy Mandell, Harry Dublinsky, and Gene Coulon, brother of Johnny.

Preliminary work on the plan has been under way for several months. Its sponsors hope to develop well trained amateur boxing teams in every parish in the archdiocese of Chicago. So far, more than 150 parishes have joined in the movement.

PAUL DERRINGER, CARDS' PITCHER, IN AUTO CRASH

Fulton, Mo., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Paul Derringer, pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was injured in a motor car collision near Kingdom this afternoon. He suffered a severe bruise on the nose, a cut over the left eye, and other injuries, none regarded as serious.

Derringer's car, driven by Edgar S. McClelland, a contractor of Springfield, Ky., and a machine driven by S. C. Smith, a promoter of Kansas City, collided on a hill on Highway No. 40. The pitcher said he escaped more serious injury because he was slumped down in the front seat, ill from swallowing a piece of cigar accidentally.

DRYING SLOUGHS SEND TURTLES TO NEW HOMES

BY BOB BECKER.

The drying up of sloughs and ponds in the middle west has caused many changes in the habits of birds and other animals, but one of the most spectacular results of this condition is the enforced migration of hundreds of mud turtles from a pond near Lake Geneva.

Prof. Edwin B. Frost, the distinguished scientist who is in charge of the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., called our attention to this mud turtle march the other day when we were visiting him and discussing recent developments affecting the outdoor world.

One hundred feet above the level of Lake Geneva there is a marshy area called the Old Cobblestone slough. This is a fairly large tract of lowland about a half mile from the lake. The depth of the water in this slough was increased by artificial means. For years this area has been the home of turtles.

This summer the habits of the residents of this pond suffered a marked change because Cobblestone began to dry up. This occurred in spite of the fact that, as Prof. Frost pointed out, the average rainfall around Lake Geneva is only off about two inches.

As the water in Cobblestone dropped lower and lower, the mud turtles decided that it was time for them to desert the old homestead and take up their residence in the big lake where there was plenty of water.

N. U. GRID SQUAD ATTENDS RITES FOR KING BRADY

Resume Practice Today for U. C. L. A. Game.

Football practice for Northwestern's varsity and freshman teams was called off yesterday out of respect for King Brady, veteran trainer, who was buried yesterday afternoon at Memorial Park cemetery. Members of both squads attended the services.

Brady, who had been trainer at Northwestern for the last 10 years, died suddenly Friday night. He was active until three days before his death.

Resume Drills Today.

Practice will be resumed today for the game with University of California [Los Angeles branch] Saturday. Coach Hanley warned the squad yesterday against the dangers of a letdown following the Notre Dame game.

After easily winning the first game of the year against Occidental college, U. C. L. A. lost to Washington State, last year's Pacific coast champions. The U. C. L. A. eleven boasts of a veteran line, headed by two husky tackles, Lloyd McMillan and Mike Pecarich, each of whom weigh 215 pounds. In Duncan, full back, the Bruins have one of the most versatile backs in the Pacific conference.

Wilson Stays at Full Back.

Coach Dick Hanley has given up the idea of granting his regulars a rest Saturday. The same lineup which started against Notre Dame will be rushed into service again this week-end. Bob Russell, who was lost to the squad following the Nebraska contest, will be unable to play. Oliver Wilson, the platinum blond sophomore full back, who turned in a fine performance against Notre Dame, will continue to fill in at Russell's position.

Another sophomore who earned a starting position for himself last Saturday is Ed Manske, lanky end, who hails from Nekoosa, Wis.

U. C. L. A. LEAVES TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Coach Bill Spaulding sent the University of California at Los Angeles football squad through a hard scrimmage today for its final test before meeting Northwestern at Evanston Saturday.

A lighter session of dummy scrimmaging is scheduled tomorrow before a team of probably 30 players entrains for Chicago and its first intersectional contest.

Spalding named 29 players who would make the trip for certain. They included:

Ernest Austin, John Duncan, Gordon Iwa, Bob Reinhard, Charles Williams, and Jim Wade, guards; Lee Coates and Homer Cline, centers; Mike Dimas, Don Jacobson, Emil McMillan, Houghton Norfleet, and Tom Sidley, tackles; Leslie Haights, William Harrell, Delbert McGuire, Richard Muirhead, Charles Smith, and Leonard Wellendorf, ends.

Leonard Berndahl, John Fletcher, and Ryan Rust, quarter backs; Malcolm Caldwell, Robert Decker, Robert Hendry, Joe Hicks, and Howard Roberts, halves, and Ed. Herman Duncan and Audrey Grossman, full backs.

Three others who may go are Frank Love, full back; Philip Nordli, center, and William Willoughby, tackle.

MICHIGAN SHIFTS LINEUP

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Using John Kowalik at guard and shifting his backs to make room for Bill Hewitt at full back, Coach Harry Kipke drove his men for two hours this afternoon as the start of Michigan's preparation for its game Saturday with Ohio State.

Everhardus, Jack Heston, Capt. Robson, Fay, Debaker, Hewitt, and occasionally Newman and Petoskey carried the ball in the offensive drill against a second string line. Newman was helped off the field after one attempt to carry the ball and it is feared he suffered a recurrence of a leg injury.

OHIO REVAMPS TEAM

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Ohio State football team spent most of today's practice brushing up its attack for the Michigan game. The second stringers met in scrimmage.

Two changes probably will be made in the Buckeye first team lineup for the Wolverine game. Gillman, who has been on the bench for two weeks with a hand injury, probably will replace Rabenstein at right end, while Capt. Holcomb will give way to Carroll at right half.

ILLINOIS TRIES FULL BACKS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Prospects of Lind Murray assuming full back position on the Illinois football team for the Bradley game seemed possible today as Kuppke began experimenting in an attempt to strengthen the team. Murray, hitherto a center, can be spared from his post with the return to the lineup of Bill Hedtke, another sophomore who weighs close to 200 pounds.

Kuppke also gave Monroe Glick a chance to carry the ball.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

THAT SCORELESS TIE.

NORTHWESTERN and Notre Dame adherents, whenever the subject is mentioned, will continue to tell you what would have happened at Soldiers' field Saturday if the field had been dry and the so-called pigskin had not been a greased pigskin. According to their partisanship they will tell you which team would have won.

Naturally, Northwestern players think a fast field would have let Rentner get loose at least once for a winning touchdown. Likewise, Notre Dame thinks Marchy Schwartz would have slipped off tackle for one of those long dashes which have spelled victory in the past. It is right for both teams to feel they would have won. That's what makes great teams—confidence but not overconfidence in themselves. And those were two great elevens there Saturday, prepared for their greatest effort of the season—not the greatest in finished attack, which will come with more drill, but greatest in determination to triumph.

Those who are neutral will let the game stand as it was played. It is profitless to discuss what might have happened under conditions which did not exist. Anything might have happened.

Northwestern now looks forward to games with the University of California [Los Angeles], Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, and Iowa. Notre Dame has yet to face Drake, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Pennsylvania, Navy, Southern California, and Army.

The Daisy.

A daisy grew beside the road and spread its leaves of white,
It opened wide its heart of gold to greet the morning light;
Its roots went down into the sand and gravel's crust and down
To where soft loam and nourishment for hungry roots are found.
A weary traveler, passing by, delighted thus to see
A daisy growing in the grit, wondered how it could be;
And then he heartened to his task, took courage as of old
To seek beneath the crust of life to find its hidden gold.

Purdue Drills on Pass Plays for Badgers

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Purdue this afternoon started preparations for the Wisconsin game at Madison Saturday by adding several pass plays to its attack.

Coach Noble Kizer expressed satisfaction with the defensive performance of the Boilermakers in stopping Gil Berry and Dave Cook, Illinois' best ball carriers, last Saturday, but he was disappointed in the offense, which netted only one touchdown.

Assistant Coach Mal Elward, who scouted Wisconsin Saturday, brought back little comfort when he reported the Badgers as having one of the heaviest teams in recent years and possessing potential power that has been kept under cover awaiting the conference season.

BADGERS GET NEW PLAYS

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite started today to prepare the Wisconsin football squad for its test against Purdue Saturday. The Badgers were disappointing in their tie game with Alabama Poly Saturday, showing an inconsistent offensive, poor generalship and weakness in forward pass defense.

After an intensive drill in pass defense they were given a number of new plays for the Purdue games. The only change in the varsity lineup was the appearance of Simmons at center, the veteran Kruger working with the second team.

DRAKE NEXT FOR IRISH

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's scoreless tie with Northwestern was a forgotten issue with Coach Heartly Anderson today. Before noon he had finished a conference with John Frederick, who scouted Drake's victory over Creighton Friday night, and was planning ways to stop the Bulldog offense here next Saturday.

Coach Ossie Solem of Drake has installed the Notre Dame system with minor variations. Anderson is faced with the problem of forming a defense to meet an attack which resembles his own.

The first two teams were given a rest. The third squad worked on fundamentals.

HOOSIERS DRILL FOR IOWA

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Drills in kicking, passing, blocking, and open field running formed the bulk of the work today as Indiana prepared for the Iowa game at Iowa City Saturday.

Coach Hayes continued to experiment with center and guard positions. At center, Spannuth, Beeson, Williams, and Swanberg have been outstanding. The latter two are sophomores. As reserve guard strength to relieve the two regular guards who are injured, Hayes has been working McDonald, Adams, and Volivа hard.

No School Today, Professor, Our Team Won a Game

Houston, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Celebrating the 7 to 0 football victory of Rice institute over the University of Texas Saturday, Rice freshmen bound the institute's massive gates today with wire coat hangers and withstood the assaults of professors and students seeking to attend classes.

Although the holiday was not sanctioned by school officials, they made no effort to put down the uprising.

The campus orchestra was assembled after the gates were blocked and a dance started.

Irish, Baima on Eagles' Card Friday

Johnny Baima and Kid Irish will feature the supporting card for the Ray Trambile-Johnny Burns bout at the West Side Eagles' arena Friday. Baima will fight Sid Speck and Irish faces Paul Dazzo. Other contests bring together Clarence Davis and Herb Peterson and John Sylvester and Anthony Capparelli.

Although no official announcement has been made, Con O'Kelly, Boston heavyweight, and Baxter Calmes will meet in the windup of the boxing show at White City Monday. Calmes weighs only 173 pounds but he showed he is capable of combating the heavyweights when he knocked out Pete Wistort recently. Wistort is a 200 pounder.

National Boxing association members will petition the members of congress from their respective states to repeal the law prohibiting transportation of fight films. This law was passed to prevent the Jack Johnson-Jess Willard pictures from being distributed in the United States and has outlived its usefulness, according to the N. B. A.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, must post a suitable forfeit to meet Bep Van Klavern of Holland, European champion, according to the International Boxing union and the N. B. A., which have a working agreement. However, as Canzoneri whipped Jack [Kid] Berg of England in defense of his championship in September, he has five months of grace.

Krone to Mark 33d Year as Mat Promoter

Tomorrow night's first indoor wrestling card of the season at the Coliseum will be an anniversary for Promoter Doc Krone. Pausing in his preparation for tomorrow's show, which features Frank Bronowicz against Ray Steele, Krone recalled that it will be 33 years ago tomorrow that he began his career as a wrestling promoter in Chicago.

That number of years is just half of Krone's age and he's been promoting longer than any of the important grapplers on his bill are old.

Doc will present a miniature elimination at the Coliseum tomorrow. The winner of the Steele-Bronowicz and Zaharias-Dusek matches will be paired and the victor of that match will be sent against Jim Londos.

All of the wrestlers were in town yesterday. Two are newcomers. They are Hans Kampfer, young German, and Earl McCready, the collegian from Oklahoma. Hans clashes with Charley Fox, Cleveland, while McCready is matched with Jean La Deaux, France.

The other match is between George Calza, Italian, and Joe [Toots] Mondt of Colorado.

Morrison Waud, Chicago, Heads Princeton Golf Team

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Morrison Waud, '32, of Chicago, today was elected captain of the Princeton varsity golf team. He prepared at the Hill school of Pottstown, Pa. He was a member of the freshman golf team in 1928-29 and has won his varsity letter for the last two years.

Field Dogs to Have Their Day Tomorrow

Scores of setter and pointer dogs will compete tomorrow in the annual Chicagoland Field Trial association's fall trial at Addison, Ill. The dogs will be worked on pheasants, which are abundant on the association's course. Saddle horses for riding behind the competing bird dogs and their handlers will be available for spectators and the public is invited to watch this outdoor event.

Another outstanding gathering of dog enthusiasts is scheduled for Monday when the 28th annual beagle field trial and bench show begins at Bass Lake, Ind. This is an American Kennel club licensed event, being held under the auspices of the Western Beagle club, one of the most active groups of dog fanciers in the middle west. This field trial will bring together some of the best hunting beagles in the United States. The public is invited to watch both the trials and the bench show.

IRISH HURLING TEAM HERE FOR SUNDAY GAME

Tipperary's world champion hurling team arrived yesterday to prepare for its contest with a team of picked Chicago stars Sunday afternoon at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue.

The Tipperary hurlers will be entertained by a committee of Chicagoans, headed by Emmet Whealen. It will be the only appearance of the world's champions here.

Hurling is to Ireland what baseball is to America. The game combines the elements of hockey, football, and lacrosse. It has been traced by the Irish to a period 1,500 years ago.

Hurling is played with fifteen men on a side for two halves of thirty minutes each. It is not difficult to understand and has had numerous successful introductions to the American people.

JIM DANDY GETS HIS MUD, BUT IT'S NO HELP TO HIM

Finishes 4th at Hawthorne —Eil Weir Victor.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jim Dandy prays for mud, gets it, and then he is outrun by a lot of ordinary race horses. This indicates that Jim Dandy in any sort of going isn't much of a thoroughbred performer.

Jim had been praying for a couple of weeks for rain and mud. Finally the rain and the mud came and Jim got into the Illinois Women's Athletic club handicap at Hawthorne yesterday on a muddy track.

The folks who know how to separate the mudders from the fast track performers plunged on him. He had the good jockey, Eugene James, in the saddle, and to bet on old Jim seemed to be just like taking candy from a baby.

Takes Early Lead.

Jim flattered the folks in the early stages by taking the lead. He was in front past the clubhouse bend and a chorus of cheers went out for him. He was in front all the way down the back stretch, and the cheers became longer and louder. Then a streak of yellow and black moved up alongside him. It was the Hawaiian horse, Uluniu, and on the lower bend Uluniu raced on past Jim Dandy.

That cooked Jim Dandy's goose. He dropped back and back until he was out of the money completely in the five horse field. He wound up by beating but one horse, Mowris, heavily backed, which couldn't get up a gallop at any stage of the contest.

But it must be related that whipping Jim Dandy is no easy job, and after Uluniu had accomplished it he didn't have enough left to step on to victory. The extreme outsider, Eil Weir, came up with a terrific rush in the stretch and ran so fast that he finally beat Uluniu out of the purse by a length. Islam also moved up in the exciting stretch run to grab third money.

Even Jim Dandy didn't disappoint quite so much as Mowris. The latter ran last all the way after he had been made a slight favorite over Jim Dady at post time.

Eil Weir Pays $14.12.

Eil Weir ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:49 3-5, and in the mutuels paid $14.12 to win, $5.56 to place, and $3.52 to show. Uluniu was at $4.90 to place and $2.98 to show. Islam paid $3.18 to show.

In the Columbus day purse Tadcaster, ridden by Jockey Charley Corbett, turned up as an easy winner by two lengths over Dis Dat, the favorite. Worldly Lad, a long shot from Ald. John Coughlin's stable, was third. Tadcaster, a son of Wise Counsellor, led most of the way and was only galloping at the finish. He paid $7.88 for a $2 ticket.

CARL STOCKHOLM ENTERS SIX DAY BIKE RACE NOV. 7

Carl Stockholm of Chicago will ride in the bicycle race which opens Nov. 7 at the Chicago Stadium. Stockholm yesterday forwarded his signed contract to John M. Chapman, manager of the six day race, at New York.

Stockholm has been training all summer. He intended to ride in the last race in February, but while training Carl was hit by an automobile and suffered a broken leg.

LATENT DEMAND SEEN PROBABLE BUSINESS SPUR

Review Sees Stored Up Buying Power.

Columbus day was observed yesterday by all leading stock, grain and cotton exchanges throughout the United States. The Winnipeg market was closed to celebrate the Canadian Thanksgiving day. Liverpool grain and cotton markets were open as usual.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Failure of autumn trade to develop to normal proportions means that normal buying of necessities will go beyond seasonal measure when it finally develops. This is the view taken in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE survey, with the current issue pointing out both favorable and unfavorable factors in the present business outlook.

"September brought further disturbances in international finance, cutting of wages by some of the large employers of labor, and persistent declines in the stock market," the survey says. "Such developments as these, coming on the heels of the international disturbances of preceding months, encouraged a wait-and-see policy on the part of many who under more favoring circumstances would be carrying out plans in anticipation of the better business which its future is certain to bring. In the minds of caution which has prevailed many have even ignored the calendar.

Delays Expansion.

"The failure to receive the full share, or, as appears in some places, any share of the autumn, must

BY SCRUTATOR.

The interstate commerce commission proposed a plan for consolidating the eastern railroads and now the railroads have offered their own plan.

The two are not dissimilar. More than 95 per cent of the mileage allocated in the commission's plan to certain systems under the railroads' plan remains allocated to those same systems. The railroads want four systems instead of the five suggested by the commission.

One cannot go far into the plan suggested by the railroads without discovering that it is built around the idea of preserving "competition" between carriers.

Series of Conferences.

A long series of conferences was held by representatives of the principal systems attempting to effect a compromise acceptable to all. Each was trying to bite as deeply as possible in the other fellow's apple and prevent his own from being bitten into. But after much jockeying an agreement was reached.

The proposition has been presented to the commission. "Competition" has been retained. The provisions of the interstate commerce act in this respect have been complied with, say the carriers.

"The proposed four system plan," they state in their application, "would meet the essential requirements of section 5 of the interstate commerce act that in the division of railway properties into systems competition shall be preserved as fully as possible."

They further state that the several systems shall be so arranged that they can "employ uniform rates in the movement of competitive traffic."

The rates and service are to be uniform, yet "competition" is to be preserved. The question arises, what is competition and how will the kind of competition proposed by the commission and the carriers "promote the public interest"?

Offered Only at Certain Points.

Under the four system plan the lines of each system spread like fingers over the lines of the others. At points where two or more systems intersect the shipper is afforded a choice of railroads. That will provide competition of the sort described in the application. At all other points there is no choice. Therefore, competition, even of the brand offered, is only offered at certain points.

Under government regulation competition in anything but choice of route is almost impossible. Rates and quality of service are practically uniform.

For that reason competition has resolved itself into a struggle between parallel lines for the available business. When one railroad puts on a passenger excursion the others serving the same cities put on similar excursions. There may be enough extra business to make one train profitable, but spread over several it is carried at a loss.

When one line inaugurates a fast freight to get business from the motor trucks the parallel lines do likewise and the expensive absorptions made to compete with trucks simply become an added expense.

The circuitous route bids with the direct route and each line hauls freight around Robin Hood's barn to get it away from the others and then finds that it is making poor profits. And to do this it maintains an expensive staff of agents and solicitors.

Where Mistake Is Made.

The mistake is made in confusing competition with duplication of service. If each system were restricted more largely to its own natural territory and allowed to develop its own business in that territory without having to go to needless expense to combat encroachment by other systems there would still be competition. But it would be competition between the regions of the country rather than a cutthroat struggle between parallel lines.

Freight could then be shipped by the most direct line to its destination, thereby saving the amounts dissipated in circuitous routings as well as much soliciting expense. The public would benefit through lower rates.

If the railroads are forced to duplicate their services because of the provisions of the law, then it is the law that is at fault. With the commission running the carriers railroad competition has become a shibboleth and if the present policy is continued the only real competition, as far as the public is concerned, in the future will be between the railroads and the trucks and waterways.

The tendency seems to be to keep railroad operating expenses as high as possible, thereby making it difficult for the rail lines to bid against highway and water carriers, their natural competitors.

C. S. ROBERTS TO MANAGE OFFICE OF AD AGENCY

Frank J. Reynolds, president of Albert Frank & Co., nationally known advertising agency, yesterday announced the appointment of Charles S. Roberts as general manager of the Chicago office. Mr. Roberts, who is a Chicagoan, will assume his new duties at once.

CHAS. S. ROBERTS.

Mr. Roberts has been a producer of specialist advertising for years and formerly was president of the Advertisers Illustrating company. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and the university's law school. Mr. Roberts practiced law from 1912 to 1918, most of the time as an attorney for the then Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company.

INDEPENDENT STORE GROUP LAYS PLANS TO BEST COMPETITORS

The American Federation of Stores, a two weeks' old organization, and composed of over 500 local merchants, according to President John J. McMahon, held the first of a series of meetings yesterday at the Sherman hotel by which they hope to "overcome the chain store competition by constructive effort, not destructive criticism."

By means of radio talks and gatherings in local theaters the federation expects to organize independent store owners and outline plans of merchandizing and display coupled with systematized advertising which the officials believe will be the most effective way to cope with chain store competition.

Members of the federation state they hope to interest union officials in the project when the heads of the union return from their national meeting at Vancouver, B. C.

National Electric Power.

I am considering National Electric Power 6 per cent preferred as an investment. What is your opinion of it? What do you think of the class A?—A. P.

National Electric Power company, a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities company, conducts a diversified public utility business in states along the Atlantic coast and in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan. Over 75 per cent of gross is from the sale of electricity.

Annual gross revenues have increased steadily since organization in 1926. For 1930 gross was $62,996,177, against $60,234,019 in 1929. Excluding consideration of profit on securities sold net income for 1930 was $2,959,265 or $17.35 per share of preferred and $4.89 per class A share, against $3,049,098, or $18.33 per share of preferred and $5.92 per class A share for 1929. Including in net income profit derived from sales of securities net income in 1930 was $5,321,299, or $31.19 per preferred share and $11.13 per class A share, and in 1929 $4,732,686, or $28.45 per share of preferred and $10.37 per class A share. For 1928 such net income was $4,792,327 and for 1927 $3,057,737.

On July 17, 1931, it was announced that the company had acquired control of former subsidiaries of Atlantic Public Utilities, Inc., in accordance with reorganization plans. As a result of this acquisition the company now operates in every state on the Atlantic seaboard with the exception of Rhode Island.

On Dec. 31, 1930, there were outstanding 90,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100] and 80,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred [par $100]. They are of equal rank. There were outstanding 378,695 shares of no par class A and 757,390 shares of class B. The class A has second preference as to noncumulative dividends of $1.80 per share after which the class B receives a like amount per share. The class A and class B stocks share equally, class for class, in further distribution.

The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The class A is medium grade.

Monongahela West Penn Public Service.

Do you consider Monongahela West Penn Public Service company first lien 5½s, due 1953, a suitable investment for a business man's funds?—W. E. C.

Monongahela West Penn Public Service company supplies electricity, natural gas, railway, and bus service in West Virginia, Maryland, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. Operating revenue of $9,292,235 in 1930 was 2.13 per cent less than in 1929. Decreased operating expenses and taxes enabled the company to earn its fixed charges 1.81 times, against 1.79 times in 1929.

The first and refunding 5½s, due 1953, are a business man's investment.

PRICES OF HOGS REGAIN PART OF RECENT LOSSES

Cattle Receipts Are Below Normal.

Hogs recovered part of the weekend declines on fairly large receipts yesterday, the total at Chicago at 43,000 being largest for the second Monday of October in seven years. The extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $5.65 and $5.15, respectively. The spread in prices was the narrowest of the season.

The recently demoralized market for pigs and underweights has changed to a lively affair and lighter weights are selling closer to the top figure. A range of $5.00@5.50 took all good to choice hogs weighing 140@350 lbs. The "spread" of 40c between the top and average compares with $1.00 a month ago and $2.00 eleven weeks ago. It is the opinion of the trade that the lighter weight hog will soon top the market, while medium weights will sell at a discount as the "new" crop of spring pigs accumulates mean further deferring of such expansion to later months. For people have pretty much gone on being themselves. They have been eating and going about, generally speaking, as they do when times are better. That means that approximately the usual amount of food has been consumed, and clothing and automobiles and the sundry other things which make up the equipment for the present standard of living have been wearing out.

"Of the consumable articles, the purchasing has probably been at normal levels. If, as appears, the buying of the more durable articles has not been up to the full normal, it means that such buying has been deferred to times of clearer perspective.

"An unprecedentedly large demand for goods is being held back, and the manufacturing industries are not making preparations to take care of it when it shall break forth. As we see it, the putting off of revival another month has piled higher the stack of orders which will be released once it becomes clear, as it will, that depression has not killed this civilization, but that it is going on its way to new peaks of prosperity."

Sears-Roebuck Sales.

In common with most lines, merchandising also has been handicapped by prolonged warm weather. While the monthly sales report of Sears, Roebuck & Co. shows that sales for the four weeks ended Oct. 8 increased substantially over the preceding four weeks, still they showed the sharpest comparative decline from last year that has occurred yet this year.

Sales for the tenth period of the Sears-Roebuck thirteen month year totaled $27,159,259, compared with $24,431,668 in the ninth period. However, for the tenth period in 1930 sales totaled $32,837,927, so that the same period this year showed a recession of 17.3 per cent. Sales thus far this year have totaled $260,067,608, compared with $284,475,425 for the corresponding period in 1930, marking a decline of 8.6 per cent.

Hogs weighing 170@210 lbs for today's delivery were bid higher on the "to arrive" market yesterday, the top bid reaching $5.25. Mediums averaging 210@260 lbs were bid up to $5.50. Contracts for winter hogs carried bids of $4.50@4.60. Occasional offers in December heavy grades were down to $4.65.

Last week's sharp break in rank and file of cattle curtailed the movement of that class and yesterday's arrivals at Chicago at 21,000 were below normal for the time of year. Only one corresponding day had a lighter supply in the last 10 years. Prices held almost in line with the general selling at the close of last week, though weakness and some declines were cited in the kinds selling below the $9.00 line.

Prime 1,210 lb steers reached $10.50, the day's peak, while 1,130 lb averages were sold at $10.25, and 1,402 lb steers reached $10.15. Butcher stock showed more unevenness yesterday.

Lambs Score Recovery.

The lamb market also recovered some of what it lost during last week, but most of the advance was cited in the lighter sorting. Prices ruled steady to 25c higher considering quality. Top natives went to yard traders at $6.65, the highest paid for fat lambs since Monday of last week.

Shippers and city butchers bought several carloads at $6.50@6.60, while packers refused to pass $6.25, but bought stock almost straight at the price.

Finland Suspends Gold Standard; Boosts Bank Rate

[Copyright; 1931; By the New York Times.]

HELSINFORS, Oct. 12.—As was predicted Saturday, Finland today suspended the gold standard, simultaneously raising the discount rate to 9 per cent. In commercial circles it is anticipated that the suspension will greatly stimulate industries and exports. The foreign rates of exchange immediately soared about 25 per cent.

CHARACTER stands the test

People may have less money in times like these...but they are meeting their obligations in spite of everything... Character is standing the test of the times, and honesty and integrity are demonstrating that they are truly depression-proof.

OVER and over again, during the fourteen years that this bank has been in business, we have said that we believe in character — in the essential honesty of the average man — and have acted on that belief in making more than 350,000 personal loans... Our experience shows that in good times or bad, people meet their obligations . . . If anything, they try even harder in less prosperous times to keep from falling behind... The period we are now passing through has only strengthened our belief in the honesty and integrity of Chicago men and women.

The way we lend money on character —the best collateral on earth

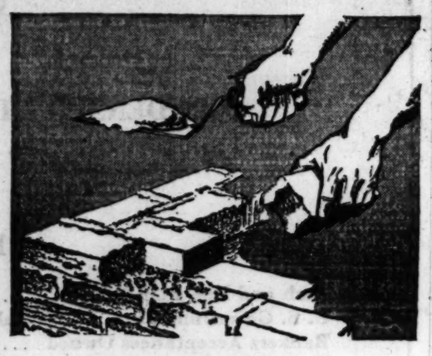
Keeping Men and Money at work



PUBLIC utilities have helped relieve business conditions by continuing construction and improvement, maintaining wages and employment.

More than 285,000 persons are now on the payroll of electric utilities, with annual wages of about $440,000,000. This is 97.1% of the workers employed in 1929—their wages 97.6% of the amount paid that year. In the manufactured gas industry employment has varied little from 91,000 during the past four years.

An important part in the utilities' program to promote prosperity is their effort to continue construction and improvement.

Expenditures for New Plant and Equipment

	1931 Budget	1930	1929
Electric light and power	$701,918,000	$919,417,000	$853,030,000
Gas	317,000,000	408,000,000	400,000,000

Revised prices of materials and costs of construction have done much to make 1931 budgets smaller than those of previous years; hence the real volume of new work approximates the average of former years more nearly than is indicated.

Associated Spends $32,000,000

The Associated System's part in this program was an expenditure of $32,000,000 for new construction during 1930. Additional facilities for service were provided in the Saluda River hydro-electric development in South Carolina and the Gilbert Station in New Jersey. The System has also just completed an important power station at Bowling Green, Ky.

Ability of the utilities to maintain employment is evidence of the stable nature of their business, so much of which comes from residential use of gas and electricity that is little affected by industrial conditions.

Achievement of the utilities in continuing construction and improvements indicates the confidence they have in their own futures. They are preparing to lead American industry through a new period of prosperity. These facts reflect favorably on the investment values of securities of sound electric and gas utility systems.

STEP ON TACK; DIES OF BLOOD POISONING

William ..., 61, of W. Congress st., died yesterday at the County Hospital of blood poisoning which developed after he stepped on a tack in his bedroom last February. He was taken to the hospital May 3.

Home accidents are often the most dangerous

Contrary to popular belief, all accidents do not occur in the streets, on trains and in automobiles. A great many take place right in the home. Surprisingly often it is "little" things like stepping on a tack, falling off a stepladder or slipping in the bathtub that incapacitate men and women. Sometimes these apparently minor injuries result in permanent disability or even death!

Guard against loss of income from accident or sickness by carrying Continental Accident & Health insurance. It costs but little, protects you at home, at work or at play, provides a guaranteed income in case of permanent disability, and in the event of accidental death pays your heirs a substantial cash sum. Ask your agent or broker at once for further details of this necessary protection.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the Average Monthly Cost of a $300 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to square any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months to pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Special Plan for Teachers.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

STUDEBAKER SALES CO. OF CHICAGO has taken over all the used cars formerly owned by the local Pierce-Arrow Company. This is because the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company has established a factory branch in Chicago. A big stock of late models from which to choose. Savings up to 50% on every car! 5 days' driving trial with each sale.

PACKARDS.

We have ten late model Packards in our stock that are very attractively priced. Here are two typical bargains:

PACKARD SPORT COUPE. Has very low mileage, roomy rumble seat and many extras. Finish glistens like a new dollar and the motor is immaculate. $595.

'27 PACKARD SEDAN. This car will please the most exacting buyer. Every detail of the interior and exterior is in excellent condition. Has every essential extra. $395.

CADILLAC SEDAN. Was in actual service for only two years. The finish and upholstery are perfect, and the motor is smooth and powerful. Has a wealth of extras. Will not remain long at $485.

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT, 1929 Str. 8 de Luxe Sedan with wire wheels, side mounts and every essential extra. This is probably the finest Studebaker buy in Chicago. Easily worth twice our price of $585.

PIERCE-ARROW BROUGHAM, 1928 model 81 with short absorbers, trunk rack, tires, etc. This Pierce is a real beauty and looks and runs better than many cars selling for twice the price. $695.

AUBURN CONVERTIBLE SEDAN. Late model 8 that's a real beauty. Equipped with wire wheels, side mounts, shock absorbers, trunk, etc. Has low gung lines and a world of power and pep. Finish is a smart two-tone combination. $645.

BUICK BROUGHAM. Late model Std. 6 with 5 pass. coupe body. Has car how looks as though it had never been driven a mile. The tires are 100% and the motor is excellent. Many extras. $495.

HINDENBUR
BARES DRASTI
ECONOMIC PLA

Dictatorship Put I
Bruening's Fists.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—To save G
many from Fascism and communi
President Paul von Hindenburg night announced that he is ready head a supreme economic cou which will assume the economic torship of the nation, at least dur this winter.

This modest economic council, p
posed by the new government
Chancellor Bruening, was seemin crippled at its birth by the fail of the big industrialists to acc membership in it. Under the ch manship of President von Hind burg, the council, it is realized, acquire the authority to carry out plans.

It is expected in political cir that the new economic council become the real executive head the state by working in close co eration with the cabinet, which when necessary, embody its rec mendations in emergency decrees.

Radio Stations Flash News.

President von Hindenburg's proval of this organization and offer to assume the nominal p dency were conveyed in an open ter to Chancellor Bruening, toni
The news was immediately dis over the land by radio, stations interrupting their programs to br cast the announcement.

The council, as conceived by Hindenburg, will be composed of resentatives of workers, industria and bankers and will thus have entire industrial and comme framework of the nation under control.

President von Hindenburg's has changed the whole political ation and backs up a powerful sp made by Chancellor Bruening in troducing his new government to reichstag this afternoon. There man, whom the would-be Musso and Lenins of the country call German "Kerensky," proved hi an iron chancellor in calling upon people to stand up and take medicine to the last bitter drop.

Economies, Discipline, and Sacrifi

Laying down an ironclad pro of economies, discipline and sacri Bruening staked his political fu and the fate of the German rep on a 100 per cent acceptance o policies by declaring, in effect, he would abandon the ship of sta those adventurers, who were tryi sink it, before tolerating any co bling or wavering.

To the world and Germany's eign creditors particularly the c cellor promised to restore Germ credit and make every sacrifice t it out of the morass into which of governmental and private hig ing had plunged it. Specifically pledged there would be no inflati currency.

He further assured the cred that there would be no internal r torium and that the amortizatio the short term credits would pr at the greatest possible speed. A same time the chancellor annou that if the reichstag gave him its fidence he would use all the dicta powers at his command to fo tempts of extremists against order.

Outlines New Program.

Other points of the governm economic program were outline Bruening:

1. Reduction of production c and rigid economies in state s ices.

2. Reduction of high inte rates now paralyzing product

3. Limitation of expenses social welfare to economic ne sities.

4. Greater elasticity in wa and tariffs.

5. Settlement of common p
lems between workers and ployers with as little outside in ference as possible.

6. Restriction of superfluous ports.

7. Promotion of rural se ments, especially for the jobles

While declaring that if Ger backed him in carrying out thi gram the nation would be able t herself together, Bruening warn world that something more was ed. The Hoover moratorium o debts and reparations, he said lished only temporary relief and litical payments without eco equivalents" still paralyzed ind
He stated that only the calli an international conference to reparations payments and lower barriers would end the crisis.
